HODGES' ARMY PRESSES ON TO FLANK AACHEN

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Oct. 3 (AP).—Powerful elements of the United States 1st army have smashed a four mile gap thru the Siegfried line north of Aachen, 12 miles north of the first allied wedge driven into the massive German fortifications, and tonight more men and armor were driving to outflank the ruined stronghold of Aachen.

"The attack continues and advances are being made against varying resistance," supreme headquarters said late tonight.

"We are definitely thru the old Siegfried line," an American officer said. "We have our second major breach. There still are fortifications and anti-tank defenses ahead of us which the Germans built recently."

Drive Foe Out of Castle.

The twin penetrations of the Siegfried line were 30 miles from Cologne at one point and 32 miles from Dusseldorf at the other.

In a spectacular 36 hour drive the doughboys—virtually without air support—captured Ubach, nine miles north of Aachen and three below Geilenkirchen, and drove the Germans from the moated 12th century castle of Rimberg of the German-Dutch border. Thirty-nine enemy pillboxes were knocked out and between 400 and 500 prisoners captured.

Ubach, captured after house-to-house fighting, is only 10 miles from the important German communications center of Julich, whence hard surfaced highways lead 20 miles to the industrial cities of Cologne and Dusseldorf on the Rhine.

[A broadcast by the German DNB news agency said the allied attack near Aachen was "nothing but local reconnaissance thrusts supported by artillery" and that the allied pressure in that sector apparently was designed merely to prevent the Nazis from sending armored reinforcements against the British 2d army spearhead frontier farther north in Holland.]

Siegfried line defenses in the sector now under attack include many anti-tank ditches, but the doughboys ran into none of the big concrete

HERE IS CHANCE TO BE SANTA TO WOUNDED VETS

BY HARRY McCLAIN.

Christmas gifts for service men in hospitals!

Opportunity again will be given to civilians by THE TRIBUNE to show their appreciation of the fighting men who have risked their lives for their country and for those who stayed at home.

With permission of the army THE TRIBUNE today opens its 1944 campaign to bring added Christmas cheer to thousands of service men who have become casualties of war and who have been returned to military general hospitals for treatment and recuperation.

30,000 Gifts Sent in 1943.

Last year Tribune readers sent nearly 30,000 Christmas gifts to service men in hospitals. This year thousands more are hospitalized as a result of the fighting in Italy, in France, and in the Pacific theater. New hospitals have been opened and more wounded are being received all the time.

If you desire to send a Christmas Gift to a service man in a hospital you will find a blank on page 3. Fill in the blank and mail with a self-addressed envelope to the Christmas Gift Editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, 435 N. Michigan av., Chicago 11, Ill.

Between now and early December, THE TRIBUNE will distribute blanks to patients in military hospitals on which the patient will sign his name and indicate which of several suggested gifts he desires to receive. The hospitals are located in middle western states.

These blanks will be collected by THE TRIBUNE and mailed to those who offer to participate. The benefactors will receive the blanks in plenty of time to obtain the gift and mail it before the last minute rush and to avoid postoffice congestion.

It's the Spirit That Counts.

Gifts sent to hospital patients by TRIBUNE readers will be assembled in the hospitals until the day before Christmas when they will be distributed. Receivers of the gifts will be supplied with blanks on which to acknowledge receipt and express their appreciation of the thoughtfulness of the sender and the spirit which moved him to remember a sick or wounded service man at Christmas time.

Gifts need not be expensive. It is the spirit which prompts the giving that counts. Perhaps the service man's expression of a gift choice seems to be inadequate and you have a better idea. You need not be limited and may select something else. Your purse and your imagination should be your guide. Remember! It's the spirit that counts.

British Carriers Built to Become Luxury Liners

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP).—Super-aircraft carriers are coming out of British shipyards with a double purpose—first to be used against Japan, and later to be easily converted into fast luxury liners. These "quick change" ships are described as having superstructures which can be lifted off, disclosing below decks fittings ready for installation of luxury accommodations.

SEEK DISCHARGE OF 5TH HERO SON

3 Killed in Action and Another Missing.

Tremonton, Utah, Oct. 3 (AP).—Five stars bedeck the service flag hanging in the window of the yellow painted frame farm home of Alben Borgstrom and his wife in northwestern Utah.

But three of the Borgstrom boys, maybe four, won't be coming home. Three have been killed in action, another is missing.

Clyde, 28, a marine private, was the first to go, killed in the Solomons in March, 1944. Next was their first born, Pvt. Le Roy Borgstrom, 30, of the infantry, in Italy last May.

Twin Missing in France.

Last month his twin, Rulon, was reported missing in France.

Having given five sons to their country's service, the couple has now appealed to the United States marine corps to let the fifth, a battle tested leatherneck, return home to their 20 acre farm near the sagebrush hills east of Great Salt Lake's norththrust arm.

This son is Pvt. Boyd C. Borgstrom, 23, who spent 18 months in the South Pacific, came home on a month's furlough, and then a week ago was assigned to Camp Le Jeune, N. C., for further training.

Parents Are Tearless.

The Borgstroms, years of hard toil reflected in their hands and faces, were calm and without emotion today as they talked about the loss of their sons one by one. No tears were permitted as they looked at the young fighting faces in frames on the bureau just inside the front door.

"But I do hope they will give Boyd a release and let him come home," said his mother. "We need him here at the farm. And he wants to come, if it can be worked out without any reflection on him."

Thieves Steal Altar Silver from North Side Church

Theft of a candelabrum, three silver communion flagons, and a silver communion plate, valued at $200, from the altar of the First St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran church, 1301 N. La Salle st., was reported to Hudson Avenue police yesterday by John Goeres, the caretaker.

House Probe Exposes Soviet Connections of PAC Leaders

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—Eighty-two leaders of Sidney Hillman's national citizens' political action committee were exposed today before the house committee on un-American activities as members of organizations officially labeled subversive by Atty. Gen. Biddle in May, 1942.

Dr. J. B. Matthews, research director of the house committee, submitted the results of survey which proved conclusively, he testified, that the Hillman organization, set up to fight for a fourth term for President Roosevelt, "could not have been more Communistic if personally selected by Earl Browder in Communist headquarters."

The NC-PAC was organized by Hillman to coöperate with the CIO-PAC, which he also heads, because of legal restrictions on the use of labor union funds by the latter committee in election campaigns. Both groups are active in behalf of the New Deal ticket.

Soviet Sympathies Shown.

Matthews said an examination of the records of the 141 persons appointed by Hillman to head the "citizens" group showed 118 of them to have soviet sympathies. He confined today's testimony to the 82 men and women whom he found to have affiliations with 25 organizations branded subversive by the attorney general. No New Dealer could quarrel with the findings of

Dr. Robert C. Weaver [left], Willard Townsend, and Frank McCulloch.

Seven Chicagoans are included in the list. They are Municipal Judge John Gutknecht, Prof. Oscar Lange of the University of Chicago; John A. Lapp, listed as an independent labor conciliator; Metz T. Lochard, editor of the Chicago Defender, a Negro publication; Frank McCulloch, director of the Mullenbach institute; Willard Townsend, president of the CIO United Transport Service Employes, and Dr. Robert C. Weaver, member of the mayor's committee on racial relations.

Units Listed by Biddle.

Matthews recalled that the attorney general, in his 1942 findings, said the Communist party of the United States, since its inception in 1919, had advocated the overthrow by violence of the government. Biddle further found that 25 organizations had been used by the party to carry on activities preliminary to the "seizure of power by revolution" and named them, as follows:

American Council of Soviet Relations, American League for Peace and Democracy, American League Against War and Fascism, American Peace Mobilization, American Youth congress, Citizens' Committee to free Earl Browder, Communist party, Congress of American Revolutionary Writers, Daily Worker, Emergency Peace Mobilization, Frei-

No Factor: Eleanor

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said today that she doubted she is a factor in the national Presidential campaign. She said she was sure that the voters, in making their choice, will consider only her husband's record, not hers.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she had not been solicited for a contribution to the CIO political action committee, but "certainly would" contribute if asked.

MODEST 1-MAN TASK FORCE RECEIVES 12 NAVY DECORATIONS

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 3 (AP).—Comdr. Norman "Bus" Miller, outstanding navy squadron leader in the Pacific war theater who is here on a 30 day leave visiting his wife and five children, tonight reluctantly revealed the 12 decorations he holds. Comdr. Miller, hailed as the "one man task force," together with his crew probably has wrought more damage on Japanese shipping and military installations than any other aviator in the war.

He holds the navy cross, awarded for actions in the Carolines, Truk, and Puluwat. He has been awarded three distinguished flying crosses for action at Ponape, Ulul, Igup, Ruo and Murilo, and for other secret and hazardous missions. He has four air medals, three commendation ribbons and the Purple Heart.

Shift School Boundaries in 12 Districts

BY JOSEPH GREEN.

Boundary lines of 12 public school districts were changed in an order, announced late last night, designed to solve school attendance problems. The new lines are effective this morning and principals have been instructed to accept pupils from the districts as bounded on maps which are published on the back page of this newspaper.

Approximately 500 pupils are affected by the order, which Supt. William H. Johnson said was the result of a study of maps showing distribution of school population. District superintendents, principals of the 12 schools and board of education members were consulted in making the changes, Johnson said.

More Shifts Hinted.

James B. McCahey, board president, declared the new boundaries "are the result of a thoro, scientific study, without regard to any pressure, political or otherwise."

"The shifts carry out Supt. Johnson's previous announcement that district lines would be adjusted when a study indicated a change should be made. More will be made if Johnson's continuing study shows need," McCahey said.

Johnson's order canceling transfer permits brought hundreds of protests from parents whose children on the first day of the school were told to attend other schools. A school strike developed when parents refused to send their children longer distances and across dangerous streets they previously had not had to cross. The protest culminated in a court battle, in which the school order was upheld. The protests continued.

Ogden school, 9 W. Chestnut st., 137 pupils of which had been ordered to attend J. A. Sexton school, 160 Wendell st., has the largest number of pupils reinstated in their old school by the new boundaries. The neighboring Sexton and Jenner school boundaries also are changed.

Sexton Already Full.

Last Monday many parents were ordered to take their children from Ogden school to Sexton school. When the pupils arrived there, they could not be accomodated in regular class rooms. A petition asking relief for these pupils was being prepared yesterday for presentation to school officials. The question was solved by the new district boundaries.

District lines also were changed for the Peirce, Hayt, Belding, Henry, Murphy, Reilly, Cleveland, Caldwell, and Avalon Park schools.

In general, the changes place the schools nearer the center of the districts, eliminating long walking distances, dangerous street and rail crossings, place district lines at natural boundaries, and equalize class loads, the announcement said.

Peirce school, 1423 Bryn Mawr av.—Pupils south of Thorndale and Ridge avs. and north of Edgewater av., who were ordered to attend Hayt school, 1518 Granville av., are permitted to attend Peirce school and will not have to cross Ridge av. More than 100 parents had been protesting in this neighborhood.

Bad Crossing Eliminated.

Caldwell school, 8546 Cregier av.—Pupils who would have to cross Stony Island av. to attend Avalon Park school have this hazard eliminated and are reinstated at Caldwell, where many had attended for years without knowing they needed a permit. Caldwell school is closer for children in the neighborhood. Children in the first three grades living in a small area between 90th and 91st sts. may attend a Caldwell branch at 89th st. and Dante av. Seventy-six pupils formerly were on strike at Caldwell.

Objectionable crossings of such streets as Irving Park rd., Lawndale av., Elston av., and Addison st. are eliminated in the changes affecting the Belding, Henry, Murphy, Reilly, and Cleveland schools. Little parental protest had been heard from these districts.

Paris Bawdy Houses 'Off Limits' for Soldiers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 3.—Freshly painted signs announcing "off limits to allied military personnel" went up this morning on the doors of nearly 200 of the city's bawdy houses, according to today's issue of Stars and Stripes. The army newspaper said army police hereafter will make daily inspections of the establishments to check against violations of the order.

EASE BURDEN, END WASTE AND GET AHEAD, HE URGES

Governor Asks for a Simplified Law to Spur Business and Permit America to Grow.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 3.—A program for tax reduction, simplification, and stabilization under which "America can once more live and grow" was presented to the nation tonight by Gov. Dewey, Republican Presidential nominee, in a radio address.

To restore America as a land of opportunity, he advocated the following six point program to take effect immediately after victory is won:

1. Revise the personal exemptions so that a man who makes as little as $11 a week no longer has an income tax taken out of his pay envelope.
2. Reduce personal income tax rates.
3. Change and lower the income tax on incorporated business companies until it no longer acts as a drag upon production and a barrier to jobs.
4. Shorten the list of excise or nuisance taxes, eliminating as soon as possible all excise taxes except those on alcohol, beverages, tobacco, gasoline.
5. Completely overhaul our existing, confused, and complicated tax laws and create a basic tax law which can be expected to remain simple and generally stable.
6. Establish and proclaim a consistent national tax policy—one directed toward achieving full employment and a rising national income.

A Constructive Plea.

It was a constructive, dispassionate, scholarly presentation. For his 15 minutes on the air Dewey abandoned for this occasion his blistering attack on the integrity of the White House and its Communist and political machine followers.

He asserted today's high taxes are not only to pay the cost of war but also "to pay for the waste and extravagance of the sprawling burocracy built up by the New Deal in the last 12 years."

Dewey pointed out that tax laws can either destroy or promote the "job-making machinery" of the American economy. He cited examples to substantiate his charge that under President Roosevelt the traditionally American profit incentive has been disastrously suppressed.

Would Exempt $11 Salary.

The Republican nominee, in explaining his six point program, said that the $11 a week salary would be exempted from income tax because this amount of income without taxes provides less than a decent standard of living. The tax load on other small incomes would be slashed so as to increase the standard.

The income tax rates on incorporated businesses, now "almost confiscatory," would be reduced to encourage expansion and job creating opportunities.

In conclusion Dewey promised: "We will have a government which wants to see every American get ahead."

REPORT $125,000 TEAMSTER 'GIFT' TO DEMOCRATS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 [Special].—Expenses of President Roosevelt's Sept. 23 political speech here, which was followed by a brawl in which a war hero was beaten, are to be paid by members of the AFL teamsters' union, who also will make a substantial contribution to the Democratic party in a maneuver designed to circumvent the Smith-Connally law, it was reported today.

"Voluntary" pledges of more than $125,000 to the Democratic organization were declared to have been extracted from union delegates at a high pressure meeting in the Hotel Statler on the Sunday morning following the President's address.

Attending this meeting, it was said, was the same audience of about 1,000 or more hand picked teamster representatives who had been Candidate Roosevelt's listeners the night before at his first avowed political speech of the fourth term campaign.

Take Pledge Cards Home.

It was disclosed that union representatives were told to take pledge cards back home to business agents, especially those in the larger cities such as Chicago and New York, who will be expected to contribute about $100 each.

The delegates against whom the contributions were levied at the meeting were instructed to send their "donations" to the national Democratic party headquarters in the Biltmore hotel in New York.

The principal plea for contributions was made by Daniel J. Tobin, president of the AFL-International Brotherhood of Teamsters, who is chairman of the labor division of the Democratic national campaign.

Says Talk Cost $50,000.

The following account of the pledge meeting was disclosed by persons who said they were present:

At the close of a business session, Tobin took the floor and explained that President Roosevelt's speech of the night before had cost about $50,000 to air over the radio. He said this was a heavy burden for the Democratic party and some financial help should be given.

The teamsters' union would have defrayed this expense, he said, were it not for the Smith-Connally act prohibiting labor organizations from making contributions to campaign funds. Consequently, it was his suggestion that the assembled union representatives pledge personal contributions to the Democratic party.

Tobin Pledges $1,000.

Pledge cards were passed out among the audience and Tobin started the ball rolling by pledging $1,000. There were several more contributions of $1,000 and many of $500 and $250 each.

Tobin, contacted in the Biltmore hotel tonight, confirmed that such a meeting was held and that individual subscriptions were solicited for the Democratic party. He contended that the radio expenses for the President's speech were paid for by the party's national committee, but verified the report that the teamsters' contributions were being turned over to the committee.

The union head said he did not know the total amount pledged at the meeting. Thus far, he said, about $6,000 has come in and has been turned over to the Democratic organization.

GOV. DEWEY'S SPEECH

"This year more than 50 million Americans are paying income taxes. The man who makes as little as $11 a week now pays an income tax.

"So taxes today are mighty important to every one of us. They are important because the amount of taxes taken out of your pay envelope decides how much will be left to take home.

"Taxes are also important because tax laws can either destroy our job making machinery or can permit it to go to work. And jobs, after the war, will be a first objective of your new national administration.

"In speeches over the radio within the last few weeks I have made constructive proposals for achieving our great objective for the years ahead. These are some of the things we must do if we are to be successful both here at home after this war and in doing our share in bringing a lasting peace to the world.

Stretched Out Depression.

"As we all know, it took a war to get jobs under the present national administration. The New Deal was in office from 1933 until 1940 when the war finally reduced unemployment. Now, how is it that the New Deal managed to make a three year depression last nearly 11 years? Why, with all its borrowing and spending, with all its emergencies and unlimited powers, were there still 10 million unemployed in the spring of 1940?

"One of the most important reasons was that our present administration never once established a policy of encouraging people to do business. It never once had a stable policy that allowed people to make plans, to go ahead and carry them out.

"Our tax laws should be the most stable. They have been the most unstable. Consider just one startling fact. The New Deal changed our tax laws 15 times in 12 years. It actually passed two revenue acts that were out of date before they could even go into effect, because new laws had been passed in the meantime.

No Chance to Plan.

"How in the world can people plan ahead when they don't know from one month to the next what their taxes are going to be?

"Moreover, under this administration these laws have even been used to discourage high wages. Here is an example. The Lincoln Electric company is a long established firm which manufactures electrical equipment. It employs 1,300 highly skilled and productive workers who have enjoyed high wages for years. In 1941 those 1,300 employes made an average of $5,400 a year. But a treasury agent went into that plant and announced: 'A man who works with his hands should not be paid as much as $5,000 a year.'

"I have here photostatic copies of the treasury department notice to the Lincoln company, marking the pay of worker after worker as 'excessive.'

"That is the way the New Deal keeps Americans from getting ahead. That is the way it has been fighting for 12 years against the whole future of our country.

Eleven Million Coming Home.

"Now, when this war is over 11 million of our best men and women will be coming home. They will be eager for jobs or an opportunity to start in business for themselves.

"Suppose one of these young men wants to set up a little business. He goes to some of his friends who have saved some money and they incorporate. His wife may go with him as secretary-bookkeeper. The first thing she finds out is that she has to be an accountant, a statistician, a lawyer, and a tax expert all at once.

"But even the experts cannot advise her how to do business under the New Deal because they can't understand the laws themselves. I have here a dozen examples. Just listen to this little gem from section 23 [P] of the present tax law. It says that contributions to employes' pension plans 'shall not be deductible under sub-section [A] but shall be deductible, if deductible under sub-section [A] without regard to this sub-section, under this sub-section, but only to the following extent . . .' from here on it gets technical.

The Problems Multiply.

"But suppose, in spite of everything, our veteran and his wife do succeed in building up their business and in creating some jobs for other people. If they make any profit at all they must hand over to the government $25 out of every $100 the business earns. If they are still more successful, then the government takes $40 out of every hundred, and if they are really very successful under the present tax laws, the government takes $80 out of every hundred. . . .

"Of course we cheerfully pay high taxes to meet the cost of war. But the taxes we are paying today are not just for the war. They also go to pay for the waste and extravagance of the sprawling burocracy built up by the New Deal in these last 12 years.

"Even Vice President Henry Wallace has now made a speech urging relief from 'excessive taxation' and 'excessive government regulation.' And who do you think came out in this morning's papers for tax relief for business? Harry Hopkins, whose slogan has been 'tax and tax, spend and spend, elect and elect.'

"In other words, the highest New Dealers at last admit that this administration has created an impossible condition which urgently needs repair.

"But they have had plenty of chances. They have had 12 long years of what they now admit is failure. They changed the tax laws 15 times in those 12 years and only made things worse. So they ask for 16 years and promise to do better. Unfortunately, experience shows that they only talk about improving at election time and then forget all about it. That is why it's time for a change.

"But this is only part of the story. Not only does the man who makes as little as $11 a week now pay an income tax, but under the New Deal personal income taxes have been raised so that a man with a wife and one child who paid five dollars when the New Deal began now pays 76 times as much on the same income. In addition, countless hidden sales taxes have been piled onto almost everything we buy or use today. It has reached a point where every time a woman powders her nose there is a tax of 20 per cent on the powder.

"One of the first jobs of your new administration which takes office next January 20, will be a revision of our tax laws. We need a whole new point of view. We need an administration which believes in full employment and in opportunity for all. We need a tax policy directed toward achieving and maintaining full employment and a rising standard of living for our people.

Gov. Dewe's Program.

"To that end I propose the following program to take effect immediately after victory is won:

"[1] Revise the personal exemptions so that the man who makes as little as $11 a week no longer has an income tax taken out of his pay envelope.

"Our objective in the peacetime years must be expansion and recovery. We cannot achieve that objective by taxes which eat into the income of those who are already below a decent American standard of living. However necessary these taxes may be in wartime, there can be no excuse for them in peace.

"[2] Reduce personal income tax rates. The tax law now takes at least 23 cents out of every taxable dollar after credit for dependents. That cuts the living standard of every one who lives on a small wage. It would slow up our recovery after the war. We want to speed recovery along.

Confiscation to End.

"[3] Change and lower the income tax on incorporated business companies until it no longer acts as a drag upon production and a barrier to jobs. The special war time taxes which now rise to 95 per cent should end with the war. These taxes, of course, are almost confiscation. If continued after the war, they would encourage waste and inefficiency, discourage low cost production, and block the expansion which creates job opportunities.

"[4] Shorten the present endless list of excise or nuisance taxes. We should eliminate as soon as possible all excise taxes except those on alcoholic beverages, tobacco, gasoline.

"[5] Completely overhaul our existing, confused, and complicated tax laws. We must create a basic tax law which can be expected to remain simple and generally stable. It must be one which can be adjusted from time to time by changes in rates without requiring a complete revision once a year or oftener.

"[6] Establish and proclaim a consistent, national tax policy—one directed toward achieving full employment and a rising national income—one that will assure us of a solvent nation and the ultimate reduction of our national debt.

"In the years ahead we face a national debt of 300 billion dollars. We face an annual cost of government, including adequate armed forces, far above the level of prewar years. Just to meet the interest on this debt and the cost of government we shall need large federal revenues. But it is stupid to suppose that we can support our government by levying heavy taxes upon a dwindling national income.

A Chance to Get Ahead.

"Our first aim must be to increase our national income by putting to work all of the productive resources of our country—industry, labor, and agriculture."

"It is far better to have a low tax rate with a national income of 150 billion dollars rather than a high tax rate with a national income of 76 billion as we had under the New Deal at its peace time best. What we want is a thriving, progressive country with jobs for all. We want our tax laws to be stable and understandable, so they will no longer be a road block in the way of progress. We want them to be levied sensibly with understanding for the human needs of our people.

"That kind of tax policy we are going to have. We are going to have the kind of tax laws under which America may once more live and grow. We will have a government which wants to see every American get ahead."

Former Musical Star

Corp. Jessie Graham, 46, of the WAC, acting supply sergeant for the WAC detachment at Vaughan General hospital, near Maywood, took time from her duties yesterday to visit with her son, George McKinnon, 25, recently returned from 12 months on a submarine in the South Pacific, his wife, and their son, Michael, 17 months old.

Corp. Graham is a former star of the musical show, "Irene," and a past president of John F. Conley post of the American Legion. She served in the Woolwich arsenal in London in the first World war. She makes her home at 3252 S. Maple av., Berwyn. Her husband, Harry R. Graham, was wounded in World War I.

SUBPENA EDITOR OF PAMPHLET ON TOM DEWEY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP).—The Dies committee tonight issued a subpena for David Loth, described by Robert E. Stripling, committee investigator, as managing editor of Press Research, Inc., of Washington. Stripling said Loth would be questioned tomorrow concerning publication of a pamphlet entitled "Special Report No. 1, Thomas E. Dewey."

Committee members said they would question Loth to determine whether there is any connection between Press Research, the Political Action committee, and the Democratic national committee.

Nelson Poynter, publisher of Press Research, today said that it [the company] "never has had and does not have any connection with the Democratic national committee, the Political Action committee—or any other political organization."

BRITISH ELECTION NOT 'IMMINENT,' SAYS CHURCHILL

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill told commons today he did not expect a British general election to be held soon, "that it is what you might call impending rather than imminent."

The last general election was in 1935, altho there could be one any time the government in power lost on a vote of confidence. Guessing here as to when the matter would be put to a test has ranged from "soon" to six months after the end of the war.

A Laborite inquired today whether precautions would be taken to insure absentee voting by British soldiers. Churchill replied that it would be disgraceful to deprive these men of the "right to express an opinion."

SOCIALIST GETS TWO YEARS FOR DRAFT DEFIANCE

Kansas City, Kas., Oct. 3 (AP).—Arthur Goodwyn Billings, 33, of Delphos, Kas., Socialist candidate for senator from Kansas and former professor of economics at the University of Texas, pleaded guilty today to a charge of refusing to submit to induction in the army and was sentenced to two years in prison. He is a former member of the American embassy in Moscow.

Billings refused to take the army oath after he had been taken to the Fort Leavenworth induction center in August, 1942. He was held in the disciplinary barracks 21 months pending the hearing of his case before the Supreme court, which upheld his argument that he should be tried as a civilian rather than a soldier, as he had not taken the oath.

After Billings had pleaded guilty, Judge J. Foster Syms asked him if he would go into the army.

"No, sir, under no circumstances," Billings replied.

"Then you will serve two more years in prison," the judge said.

LITTLE EGYPT HAILS BRICKER ECONOMY PLEA

Thousands in Centralia Torchlight Parade.

BY ROBERT HOWARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Centralia, Ill., Oct. 3—Southern Illinois turned out one of its biggest crowds tonight to cheer Gov. John W. Bricker's assertion that the election of Republicans is essential Nov. 7 lest a continuation of New Deal deficits wreck the nation's financial structure.

Thousands marched and seven bands played in a torchlight parade escorting Gov. Bricker to Fairview park where he addressed an audience estimated at 20,000.

Bricker had received other ovations in three rear platform speeches in southern Illinois. In these appearances he commended Gov. Green and Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for senator.

Green Does Good Job.

"No one has done a better job than Gov. Green in restoring the Republican party in the confidence of the American people," said the Ohio governor.

"The most effective way to overthrow our Republican form of government in America is to continue the New Deal fiscal policies in the post-war period," Bricker told his Centralia audience.

In substituting economy and sound business methods for burocracy and deficits, Bricker said the following principles must be followed in post-war tax policies:

"1. We must simplify tax laws and regulations so that any one who can read will be able to understand them.

"2. We must assure stability in tax laws so that business can map out constructive future programs without constant fear of changes.

"3. We must adhere to the principle that the taxing power exists primarily for the purpose of raising necessary revenue and not as an undercover method of promoting radical schemes.

Respect for Local Taxing.

"4. We must adopt tax measures which will leave enough sources of revenue to state and local governments to enable them to maintain their financial independence.

"5. We must strictly adhere to fiscal and tax policies which will encourage venture capital and private enterprise and thereby provide jobs in private employment.

"6. We must reduce federal taxes as soon as possible after victory."

Great expenditures in war time are necessary, Bricker said, but he asserted the New Deal from its inception followed a "fiscal program of spend, waste, borrow, and tax."

"I offer to you no utopian picture of ease with abundant money for all raised by borrowing from ourselves," he said. "The task confronting us is a difficult one, but courage, hard work, and honesty will carry us thru.

Home Interests First.

"All Americans look forward hopefully to a peaceful and better world in which our nation will play her full part and do her full share. But let us not forget that a nation which builds its own financial house upon shifting sands will be too weak to help build an international house upon the solid rock."

He reiterated the dangers faced in giving federal government so large a share of revenue that state and local government becomes "a mere sham and pretense."

The rear platform appearances of Bricker were made at Carmi, McLeansboro, and Mount Vernon, Ill.

Lt. Gov. Hugh W. Cross and Rep. James V. Heidinger introduced Bricker at Carmi and McLeansboro.

Bricker tomorrow night will speak at St. Louis, Mo., and on Thursday night at Rock Island, Ill. He announced seven states—Nevada, Utah, Wyoming, Colorado, Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas—have been added to the itinerary.

Two Parties Plan to Speed Registry for Nov. 7 Election

With only one week to go, party organizations and election officials yesterday said greater efforts must be made to overcome the evident war time apathy of countless thousands of citizens to get them to register not later than Oct. 10.

On that day, Tuesday, the 4,579 precinct polling places in Cook county will be opened for registration. Changes of name or address as well as new registrations will be recorded. Precinct captains and others collecting change-of-address cards must turn them in to the election board by 5 p. m. Saturday.

War Curbs Prognosticators.

War time dislocations on a vast scale leave the election officials without the usual close guesses as to how many eligible citizens have not registered. Since the April primary there have been 26,823 new registrations, 130,946 changes of address, and 4,943 changes of name in the Chicago board's territory.

George M. Fisher, Republican county chairman, said he is spurring the 80 ward and township committeemen to intensify a door-to-door canvass to find unregistered persons. The G. O. P. captains are doing the job as they distribute Dewey-Bricker pledge cards.

"We are finding as many as 40 to 50 unrecorded changes of address in a precinct," Fisher said. "Most of this results from doubling up—the wife of a service man moving in with her mother or mother-in-law. Many have not voted since the 1940 Presidential election."

G. O. P. Committee to Help.

Fisher called a meeting of the Republican county central committee for Friday to mobilize the organization for the Tuesday precinct registration.

The Democratic organization will receive its final "alerting" Thursday when units meet to listen to President Roosevelt's next speech. At that time efforts will be made by Democratic precinct captains to get others in their audiences to help them in registration work Tuesday.

Advice on registration, election, and voting laws can be obtained after this morning in room 1624, 11 S. La Salle st., an office to be opened today by John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney. Information can be obtained by calling Franklin 8670. The telephone at the Chicago election board is Dearborn 3050.

MICHIGAN GETS HEAVY SOLDIER VOTE RETURN

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 3 [Special].—Michigan is getting results from the 1944 special legislative session's adoption of absent voters' legislation, Gus T. Hartman, deputy secretary of state, revealed today. He estimated more than half of the state's approximately 400,000 service men and women of voting age will vote at the Nov. 7 election.

Hartman said applications for ballots from the fighting forces now total about 164,000, and those received by the department of state alone have been running about 300 daily for the last week in addition to those going directly to local election officials. Under authorization provided this year, the so-called "bob-tailed" federal ballot may be used by Michigan members of the fighting forces overseas who had applied for state ballots but had not received them by Oct. 1.

TRUMAN WOULD ALTER SENATE'S TREATY POWER

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP).—Sen. Truman, Democratic Vice Presidential candidate, came out emphatically tonight for a constitutional change to permit approval of an international peace organization treaty by a mere majority vote in both senate and house.

A two-thirds vote is now required in the senate, with the house barred from action on treaties.

PAC WILL RUN STYLES DESPITE PARTY REBUKE

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 3 [Special].—Hal Styles, Democratic nominee for congress in California's 15th congressional district, will get the continued support of the CIO's California political action committee despite his exposure as a one-time Ku Klux Klan big shot in New York state.

This was learned today coincidentally with an announcement by the Hollywood Democratic committee that it was withdrawing its support from Styles "after careful consideration."

Appeals for Sympathy.

Styles, a radio announcer and proprietor of a program known as "Help Thy Neighbor," went on the air with an appeal for sympathy. He indicated he intends to remain in the race and he quoted a poem advocating "a little less kicking a man when he's down."

"We can't take a run-out powder every time some one says 'Boo' at us," said Philip Connelly, one of the major strategists of the state PAC group. "We are going to stand back of Styles. We think we can probably elect him."

Fear More Desertions.

The PAC reaffirmation of support for the ex-Klan leader was taken at a meeting of the state group called to forestall desertion of Styles by additional Democratic groups, it was said.

Styles has attempted to explain his Klan affiliation by saying he joined the organization to expose it.

French Women to Vote First Time on Feb. 1

PARIS, Oct. 3 (AP).—Women in France will vote for the first time next Feb. 1. The cabinet tonight set that date for the first regional elections, the national elections being postponed until the return of approximately 2,000,000 prisoners from Germany.

LYONS STRESSES NEW DEAL PERIL TO INDUSTRIES

Cites Federal Rail Rule in World War I.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

What happened to American railroads under government operation during World War I. shows what will happen to other industry unless the New Deal is defeated Nov. 7, Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for senator, declared last night.

Spearheading the G. O. P. attack upon the Kelly-CIO Democratic fortress in Chicago, Lyons addressed meetings at 4001 Archer av. and 104 E. 51st st. State Auditor Lueder, nominee for reëlection, and Arnold P. Benson, candidate for secretary of state, spoke before other Republican rallies.

A homecoming party for Lyons will be held on the lawn of his home in Libertyville tonight. Citizens in charge said that it will be a nonpartisan expression of esteem for a good neighbor whose career has reflected credit upon his community. There will be a parade from the business district to the home.

Government Operation Costly.

"Operation of the railroads in World War I. was the first and outstanding example of what follows government control of basic industries," Lyons said in his main address.

In May, 1919, congress was asked to appropriate 1.2 billion dollars to finance operation for the balance of the year and to pay operating deficits for the preceding 16 months, in addition to 500 million dollars made available by the prior congress, he said.

"In fact, the railroads had not entirely recovered from the effects of that fiasco even at the beginning of World War II," Lyons said. "Contrast with that sorry record what the railroads have accomplished under private operation in the present conflict.

Rails Accomplish Near-Miracle.

"The figures are reversed. Last year the rail lines paid nearly 2 billion dollars in taxes to the federal government alone, and at the same time performed an almost miraculous achievement in meeting the unprecedented demand for movement of troops and supplies."

New Deal operation of industry would be worse than former federal rule, said Lyons, because the Democratic administration of World War I. was without the conglomeration of "dreamers and unlimited spenders of public funds now in the saddle in Washington."

"You can imagine what will happen if the New Deal is continued in power, with Sidney Hillman and Earl Browder as the new grand viziers," Lyons added. "Does any one fail to see that if the fourth term should occur, the first order will be the destruction of our system of free enterprise under which America has grown great?"

G. O. P. to Save Liberties.

Only the election of Tom Dewey and John Bricker, with a Republican congress, can lead this country away from the loss of liberties for which Americans are dying, Lyons said.

State Auditor Lueder told a gathering at 2735 W. 63d st. that the white collar worker is the forgotten man of the New Deal. With prices risen and the New Deal refusing to permit wage increases, workers in this group are the hardest hit of all Americans, he said.

Benson predicted that the votes of women will assure Republican victory. Their eyes have been opened, by suffering and sorrow, to the New Deal's faithlessness, he said.

LIKES TRUMAN, BRICKER, SMITH TELLS PROBE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 [Special].—Gerald L. K. Smith, Presidential candidate of the America First party, had a good word for the Vice Presidential nominees of both major parties but denounced both President Roosevelt and Gov. Dewey in testimony today before a house committee investigating campaign expenditures. Sen. Truman and Gov. Bricker, he said, deserve commendation for their nationalistic views, but he described the President and Gov. Dewey as not being "nationalist enough."

The America First party has no connection with the America First committee, which worked to keep the United States out of war and was dissolved after Pearl Harbor.

AL SMITH REPORTED STILL 'GRAVELY SICK' DESPITE SLIGHT GAIN

New York, Oct. 3 (AP).—Improvement in the condition of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith was reported tonight by his physician, Dr. Raymond P. Sullivan.

"There is a little ray of sunshine now," he said after an examination, but added that the 1928 Democratic Presidential nominee "is still a gravely sick man."

Dr. Sullivan said Smith's fever had abated, a lung congestion had not spread, and that there was improvement in an intestinal disturbance. Earlier he had said Smith was weaker.

Says President Menaces American System.

BY CARL WIEGMAN.

President Roosevelt has divided the nation on class grounds in the coming election, a condition which endangers the American two party system and the fundamental political mechanism of the republic, Raymond Moley, editor and former Roosevelt brain truster, said yesterday in a speech before 1,000 members of the National Stationers association in the Palmer House.

He described himself as a Democrat and the son and grandson of Democrats, and said he wanted to see the party reëstablished as a truly national party.

"Must Lose Election."

"It can't do that if it wins this election," Moley said. "It can become a national party again if it loses. There is only one doctor good for the Democratic party and that is a doctor named Dewey."

Moley explained the test of freedom in any land is whether an individual or a minority is safe, and said America's formula for providing such freedom has been the two party system, with both parties representing, in general, all interests—labor, big business, small business, farmers, and other groups.

"Minorities are safe in such a situation, and anything that happens to destroy that situation is dangerous," he said. "When it is destroyed, we get brute majority rule, which always comes to be one man rule."

Moley said President Roosevelt's original political philosophy, under the influence of the late Louis Howe, was to seek to win the rural districts and small cities, and to leave the big cities alone. He abandoned this policy in 1936 after the death of Howe.

Counts on Machines Now.

He asserted that now Mr. Roosevelt has staked als all on certain groups and leaders in the big cities, especially Sidney Hillman of the CIO political action committee and the bosses of the city political machines.

Moley said Hillman has brought a new type of political organization and technique into American government.

"These are European methods," he continued. "They depend on mass votes from two or three groups, and on the system of penetration— the termite method—by which a minority bores into a larger organization. This is easy to do when the larger organization is tired and fat. There has been an admirable opportunity for use of that method in the Democratic party."

TWO PHOTOSTATS SHOW SOLDIER VOTE TAMPERING

Logansport, Ind., Oct. 3 [Special].—Photostatic copies of two war ballot envelopes which had been opened and resealed were sent today to Sen. Willis by County Clerk Dewey Schmidt, who received a telegram from Willis asking for further details of censorship charges. One of the envelopes which had been cut open at one end and resealed was from Corp. Merril Taylor, who has a New York A. P. O. address. The other was mailed by Sgt. W. F. Murphy from Camp Shelby, Miss. County Clerk Schmidt is also mailing in a separate envelope 10 ballots of service men which had been stamped "passed by censor," but which apparently had not been opened.

Sen. Lucas Is Indorsed by Illinois AFL Group

Sen. Lucas, Democratic incumbent who voted for the Smith-Connally bill, yesterday received the indorsement of the Illinois American Federation of Labor committee for Roosevelt and Truman in his campaign for reëlection. Statements in behalf of the New Deal incumbent were made by A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and Thomas O'Donnell, president of the Bricklayers' union.

Willie Lee in laundry at 1112 Bryn Mawr av., where you can't get your laundry without a ticket, even if you've known him for 12 years.

Mrs. Ray Lepovetsky, of 5550 Kenmove av., yesterday carried her grievance to Desk Sgt. Walter Rentfiejsz of the Summerdale station.

"For 12 years," she told the desk sergeant, "I have taken my washing once a week to the laundry at 1112 Bryn Mawr av., run by Willie Lee. I never had found cause for complaint.

"But today I had mislaid my laundry ticket, and Willie, who knows me and my laundry as well as he does the back of his own hand, won't give me my laundry."

Sgt. Rentfiejsz was sympathetic but philosophical.

"To an average person all laundry tickets look alike, just a few scratches on a piece of paper, but nobody has ever been able to get anywhere in a Chinese laundry without one," he said. "I'm sorry, but there's nothing we can do."

Mrs. Lepovetsky went shopping.

NEW DEAL TORN BY DEMOCRATS' FEUDS: WARREN

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 3 (AP).—Gov. Warren of California said tonight "we cannot afford longer to have saddled on us the internal feuds that have developed within the Roosevelt administration."

Addressing the John Ericsson Republican league, he said the New Deal is "torn with dissension and is only being held together for this election by the domination of one man.

"Can you imagine Earl Browder believing in the same principles as the Democratic governors, senators and congressmen of our southern states?" he asked. "Can you visualize Sidney Hillman and Mayor Hague making common cause on principles?"

He said the New Deal was "approaching dissolution thru decay," and the "country is ready for a change."

While Mrs. Eleanor Zwick, 4708 N. St. Louis av., was shopping in the 3200 block on Lawrence av., some one took her purse containing an $80 allotment check from her husband, Ralph, from the baby carriage in which her 15 month old daughter, Carroll, was sitting, she told police.

DAY LAYS SMEAR TO WAR ON REDS AND WORLD RULE

Stephen A. Day, Republican congressman at large, seeking his third term, last night declared that he is one of the chief targets of the New Deal smear campaign because of his unrelenting fight against communism and the proposed submergence of our government in a world state.

Day admits he has been a foe of communism for 25 years. He sees this as a natural result of his ancestry. His father was Justice William R. Day of the United States Supreme court, who had been secretary of state under President McKinley. Other forebears include Gen. Joseph Warren of the Revolutionary war, Chief Justice Swift, Chief Justice Luther Day, Chief Justice Robert H. Day, and Justice Rufus Spalding, all of state Supreme courts.

Raps "Vicious Intolerance."

"My opposition to the domination of our United States by a world state with power to control our army and navy has made me a special target of the communist smear bund and its highly vocal fellow travelers," Rep. Day said in addressing an 11th ward rally at 2903 Archer av.

"The smear bund insists that this government blindly obligate our people thru an irrevocable membership in a rigid world state without even knowing the terms of the peace. Their vicious intolerance is shown by the unfair attack of Sen. Ball of Minnesota upon Gov. Dewey.

"Earl Browder, Secretatry of Interior Ickes, the New Republic, PM, and the Daily Worker have been especially bitter in their attacks upon me. They even try to influence the voters by false charges that I am a friend of Hitler and favor a Fascist government in the United States, just as they accuse Gov. Dewey and all others whom they fear because of their stalwart Americanism.

Fights to Uphold Constitution.

"They fraudulently overlook the fact that my entire life has been devoted to the upholding of the Constitution of the United States. They skip the fact that my opposition to the New Deal measures has been based upon their unconstitutionality and their gross un-Americanism."

Day said he stands squarely on the Republican platform, favoring coöperation among sovereign nations within the protection of the Constitution. He emphasized his support of the G. O. P.'s official insistence upon two-thirds senate ratification of foreign treaties.

As to "isolationism," Day said he is no more an isolationist than was President Roosevelt until the latter broke his pledges to the people.

"Those who support atheistic communism will always try to defeat me," Rep. Day said. "And I am proud of their opposition. My victory will be notice to all that our Constitution has triumphed over communism."

TRIBUNE FIGHTS THOMPSON SUIT TO GUARD PRESS

Maintains Its Right to Open Criticism.

[This is the fourth chapter of a new book "Liberty and the Press," which records the Chicago Tribune's fight to preserve a free press for the American people.]

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

It was nothing new for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to attack city, county, or state governments for corruption, or to seek to purge city councils, county boards, and state legislatures of boodlers. It had set itself to this task since the days of "Long John" Wentworth, one of Chicago's earliest mayors. It kept itself independently Republican. Its most recent effort, touching the time of the case now to be considered, was that against the Republican boss of Illinois, Sen. William Lorimer, who was subsequently unseated upon evidence originally presented by THE TRIBUNE.

These struggles of many decades were carried on under the assumption that since the repeal of the sedition act of 1798, an act which resulted in the downfall of the Federalist party which passed it, the press of America was really free to criticize governments and public officials. It remained for the late William Hale Thompson, who as mayor of Chicago encountered severe criticism from THE TRIBUNE, to attempt to revive the ancient theory of libel upon government, which had been regarded as outlawed by the guarantees of the freedom of the press in state and federal constitutions. This case, and the case to follow it in Minnesota, became causes of national importance. The political machines had encountered a new power that could not be overthrown. This was, in its last analysis, the will of the people, reaffirmed in the courts, to keep their press and speech free.

Thompson Sues for 10 Millions.

On Sept. 17, 1920, the city of Chicago sued THE TRIBUNE in the sum of $10,000,000 for alleged libel because it had criticized the fiscal administration of the city and thereby injured its credit.

THE TRIBUNE'S criticism of the Thompson administration, which it had characterized as "the Chicago Tammany," had been particularly vigorous during the campaign then in progress for governor of Illinois. The late Len Small, who was regarded by THE TRIBUNE as the state end of the Chicago machine, was running for governor on the Republican ticket and he was elected. He was opposed by the late James Hamilton Lewis, Democratic candidate. THE TRIBUNE advised the people to scratch their tickets and vote for a Democratic governor.

There was nothing novel in personal libel suits, several of which had been filed by Thompson against THE TRIBUNE and other newspapers, but the libel suit by the city of Chicago as a corporation was something new, and immediately attracted the attention of newspaper editors thruout the country.

Free Press Issue Analyzed.

In preparation of this case THE TRIBUNE made a study of the history of the development of the free press principle in English and American law. This was presented in a brief in the trial which took place in the fall of 1920 before Judge Harry M. Fisher of the Circuit court of Cook county. The research was the first thoroly digested, systematic, historical exposition of the concept of freedom of the press, and the abridgement thereof. It became a rich quarry for lawyers in later cases.

In the beginning of the long fight for a free press, it was shown, no man was permitted to print anything without a license from the king, and everything that he printed was subject to the king's censor. The condition existed thru the first two centuries of printing in England, down to 1694. It continued in the American colonies nearly a quarter of a century longer.

The crimes of the Star Chamber under James I. and Charles I. were set forth, and how the Puritan Prynne lost his ears for writing and publishing an attack upon state amusements, and how editors were fined and imprisoned for similar offenses.

Then came Cromwell and the Long Parliament, and men who had suffered under censorship in their turn in power resorted to law to stop free utterance.

Before the American Revolution, prosecutions for libel against officers of the king were frequent. This doctrine was carried into colonial America. Under this peculiar law the verdict of the jury was confined to the fact of authorship and publication. The question of libel was left to the court to decide.

This practice was broken down here, THE TRIBUNE brief related, in the historic trial of John Peter Zenger in New York in 1735. Zenger, a newspaper publisher, had criticized a corrupt governor, and was prosecuted for seditious libel. The jury in this case ignored the instructions of the court and found Zenger not guilty. This was a revolution in itself. It was a declaration that the law of England was no longer the law of America in these matters. Gouverneur Morris called this case "the germ of American freedom, the morning star of that liberty which subsequently revolutionized America."

Liberty Held Main Issue.

The story of the alien and sedition law in America was then related in the brief. This act penalized by fine and imprisonment for publishing or printing any false, scandalous, or malicious writings to bring the government, congress, or President into contempt or disrepute. The Federalist party had this law passed and soon thereafter the Federalist party passed out of existence.

"The people's instinct of self-preservation," the brief stated, "the instinct of liberty, ran deeper than the passions and inconsistencies of party leaders and the sedition act was the last formidable attempt in America to absolve government and officials from inquiry and criticism."

The making of the Constitution was next related, how the clause "the liberty of the press shall be inviolably preserved," was lost in the convention by six votes, how Hamilton had said that it was impossible to define "liberty of the press," and how this guarantee of freedom was imbedded in the Constitution in a Bill of Rights, on the strength of which the basic law was finally adopted by the states.

Press Guarded by Illinois.

By the time the Illinois constitution was adopted in 1870 popular government had taken firm hold of this press question, and the Illinois provision states:

"Every person may freely speak, write, and publish on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that liberty; and in all trials for libel, both civil and criminal, the truth, when published with good motives and for justifiable ends, shall be a sufficient defense."

This city of Chicago libel suit, according to THE TRIBUNE brief, was a recrudescence of the method of repressing free discussion thru prosecutions for libel upon the government which Judge Cooley said "have now altogether ceased in England."

Press National Forum.

"The fact that the suit against THE TRIBUNE is a civil action is a mere matter of form. Its palpable object and its result, if sustained, would be the punishment of criticism, of free discussion, and in the case of the defendant, at least, perhaps its complete paralysis and suppression thru a confiscatory penalty. . . . We do not contend there are no proper limits to the freedom of the press. But these limits are in principle well defined. Their object is to protect the rights of the individual, not to prevent criticism of governments or public officials. . . . The principal forum in our time has become, and under modern conditions of society must be, the press. To permit government to rule this forum is to make government absolute."

RUSSIANS OPEN SECOND DRIVE INTO YUGOSLAVIA

Smash 24 Miles Along 55 Mile Front.

LONDON, Oct. 4 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Moscow announced today that the Red army opened a second front in Yugoslavia, breaking into the country along a 55 mile front north and east of Belgrade, the Yugoslav capital.

Welding an arc around Belgrade to the northeast, the Russians captured the communications centers of Petrovgrad and Bela Crvka and a dozen towns and railway stations in between, including Ulma, just 37 miles from Belgrade.

The Russian drive, Moscow's midnight war bulletin said, penetrated 24 miles into Yugoslavia at Petrovgrad. It was launched from positions along the Romanian frontier southwest of Timisoara. Marshal Tito's headquarters declared that the Red army had joined units of the 14th Partisan corps in a converging drive on Belgrade.

First Drive Gains.

The first invasion of Yugoslavia, announced Saturday, continued on a north-south front beginning 50 miles east of the lower extremity of the new drive, and carried to a depth of 22 miles westward with capture of Rudna Glava, 36 miles southwest of the Romanian border town of Turnu Severin.

The Russians also announced capture of the Estonian island of Ristna, one of four islands commanding entrances to the Gulfs of Riga and Finland. Ristna was taken by troops of the Leningrad army which captured the island of Vormsi on Sept. 27 and won Muhu three days later. Only the island of Saare, largest of the four, remains to be captured.

There were indications that the Russians also were invading Saare. The Germans said the dam between Saare and Muhu had been demolished and that German naval forces "temporarily cut the Russian crossing."

The new drive into Yugoslavia threatens to cut the last Nazi escape routes from the Balkans. Romanian troops were believed to be participating in this drive, and Col. Ernest von Hammer, Nazi radio military analyst,' mentioned the presence of motorized Bulgarian formations.

Drive on Czech Pass.

The Russians massed along the eastern tip of Czechoslovakia in the Carpathians captured a dozen more towns along the border, including Klimets, guarding a pass leading to Munkacs 35 miles to the southwest, and two railway towns on the main line running thru the Beskid pass.

The Hungarian radio told of a new Russian offensive against Cluj, capital of Transylvania in northern Romania, acknowledging withdrawals by Hungarian troops at several points. The Russians announced the capture of Rechin, railway depot 50 miles east of Cluj, and several other towns in the vicinity.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

The German war bulletin yesterday reported:

"Southwest of Temeshburg and in Danube sector on both sides of the iron gate our troops engaged in the heaviest fighting with attacking soviet-Romanian formations. Strong soviets forces entered Weisskirchen [Bela Crkva], on the Serb-Romanian frontier. West of Arad, near Oradea, and both sides of Turda soviet attacks were repulsed.

"In the eastern Beskids the focal point of enemy attacks continued in the area south of Dukla.

"From the remainder of the eastern front only the warding off of enemy attacks northwest of Warsaw and successful attacks of our grenadiers east of Mitau are reported. On the island of Dago [Hiiu, Estonia] strong enemy forces, supported by low flying planes, have landed and, in the southern part of the island, are in combat with our garrison."

HELD ON BURGLARY CHARGE.

Joseph Stengl, 43, of 4526 N. St. Louis av., arrested Sept. 17 as he allegedly attempted to loot a tavern at 3423 Montrose av., was held to the grand jury under $3,000 bond on a charge of burglary by Judge John Gutknecht yesterday in Felony court.

CRETE UNDER SIEGE; WARSHIP SHELLS ISLAND

ROME, Oct. 3 (AP).—Crete was under allied siege today and the Morocco radio said, without confirmation, that strong forces had landed in the northwestern section to recapture the island which the Germans won in the spring of 1941.

Naval headquarters announced that the British cruiser Black Prince shelled the Malme airdrome Saturday.

The Algiers radio reported that the Germans in northwestern Crete were retreating before the allied forces. The Cairo radio said the Nazis were attempting evacuation by air because the allied navies had stopped enemy water traffic. Two German planes were downed over the Aegean last night.

The danger of the German position on Crete was heightened by allied seizure of Kythera, an island between Crete and the Greek mainland, from which the enemy garrison of 150 men fled after destroying its radio station. Germans also were reported withdrawing from a number of small islands along the southern fringes of Greece.

JUDGE REFUSES TO PLACE BOY IN DAD'S CUSTODY

Judge Michael Feinberg in Circuit court yesterday refused to transfer custody of a two year-old boy to the child's father, Leo Paul Hirsch, 34, of 843 E. 53d st., altho Hirsch stated in his petition that his former wife, Jane, wanted to give him the boy. She was awarded custody of the child, Thomas, when she divorced Hirsch in April, 1943, and two months later she was married to another man. The boy's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Philippa Weinstein, of 5412 Hyde Park blvd., represented by Atty. Irving Eisenman, contested Hirsch's petition. She said she has cared for Thomas since his parents were divorced.

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.

Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable.

Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any drugstore. Only 10¢ and 25¢.

ADDRESS A 8 426, TRIBUNE

THE thoughtful kindness of the Washingtons was proverbial. One cold night at Mount Vernon a guest, Elkanah Watson, went to bed with a severe cough. Later on, he related, "The door of my room was gently opened and on drawing my bed curtains, to my utter astonishment I beheld Washington himself standing at my bedside with a bowl of hot tea in his hand."

Kindness IS APPRECIATED

Come now—you know it's all too true! We all overlook countless opportunities to be kind and considerate when just a bit more thoughtfulness on our part might mean so much to somebody. Even such a little thing as remembering to give a box of Martha Washington candies may make all the difference because of the cheer and enjoyment it will bring. The wonderful old-fashioned goodness of these famous candies can often express kind thoughts much better than words are able to say them.

Half Million Germans Captured

May Be Higher

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP).—The six allied armies in western Europe had captured at least 526,084 German prisoners by tonight. The 21st army group commanded by Field Marshal Bernard Montgomery had counted 140,345 prisoners. Of this number, the British 2d army took 1,030 officers and 76,679 enlisted men. The Canadian 1st army captured 1,247 officers and 61,389 men, among them 28,000 taken in the cleanup of Le Havre, Boulogne, and Calais. Prisoners announced captured by armies of the west to date:

U. S. 1st army	183,827
U. S. 3d army	92,466
U. S. 7th army	more than 90,000
U. S. 9th army	19,312
British 2d army	77,709
Canadian 1st army	62,636
Total	526,084

Figures for the four American armies have not been revised since Sept. 24 and may now be considerably higher.

WARSAW A RUIN AS PATRIOTS END 63 DAY STRUGGLE

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP).—A terse bulletin from Lt. Gen. Tadeusz Komorowski [Gen. Bor] today announced that his underground army's resistance in Warsaw had ended after a 63 day struggle during which thousands of patriots were killed and the city was reduced to a shambles.

Moscow newspapers said a Polish officer who escaped reported that thousands of insurgents had crossed the Vistula river to Russian lines. "There is no longer any resistance in any part of Warsaw," the officer was quoted. "Warsaw is as greatly destroyed as Stalingrad."

A German statement announced that the "insurrection collapsed" and said the city had been "almost completely destroyed." A Stockholm dispatch said the Germans claimed a total of 24,000 prisoners.

Food, Ammunition Gone.

Komorowski's bulletin said:

"Warsaw has fallen after exhausting all supplies of food and ammunition on the 63d day of fighting in the face of overwhelming enemy superiority. On Oct. 2 at 8 p. m. orders were given to cease fire."

Polish patriots with the approach of the Red army to the eastern banks of the Vistula, turned on the Germans within the capital on Aug. 1.

The battle became a major issue in inter-allied relations, and the Germans seized upon it for propaganda purposes. The struggle widened the gulf between Russia and the Polish government in exile in London. The London Poles and the soviet sponsored Polish national committee of liberation accused one another of responsibility for the ill-fated uprising.

Mercy Truce Arranged.

Polish sources in London said the people of Warsaw had been living in holes beneath the rubble, lacking food and water, and suffering from epidemics of dysentery, typhoid, and scarlet fever.

These were the conditions which prevailed, a spokesman for the London government said, when Gen. Komorowski, a few hours before the capitulation, informed the government a mercy truce had been arranged to permit the evacuation of civilians.

How many were slain as the Germans bombed the city, poured hundreds of artillery shells into the capital and smashed thru streets with tanks may never be known, but estimates range up to 250,000.

Reports conflicted on details of the final hours of the fight, but "the official" Polish version from Moscow—presumably that of the liberation committee—said the surrender was arranged by a Col. Monter on behalf of Gen. Komorowski.

The London exile government said the patriot army consisted of about 30,000 originally.

Whether Gen. Komorowski was among the prisoners was equally uncertain. Poland's military headquarters in London said the general, who was named commander in chief of Polish forces only last week, had been at the head of his troops within the city.

On the other hand the liberation committee, which has denounced Komorowski as a "war criminal" responsible for the uprising and like the Germans placed a price on his head, has said he was in hiding miles away from the city.

NAVY LIBERTY SHIP HITS MINE; 11 DIE, 22 MISSING

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 3 (AP).—Eleven army men were killed and 22 others were listed as missing after the navy chartered Liberty ship Elihu Thompson struck a mine while entering a South Pacific port Sept. 25, the navy announced tonight.

There were no casualties among naval and merchant marine personnel. Patrol craft and boats of the Thompson removed survivors.

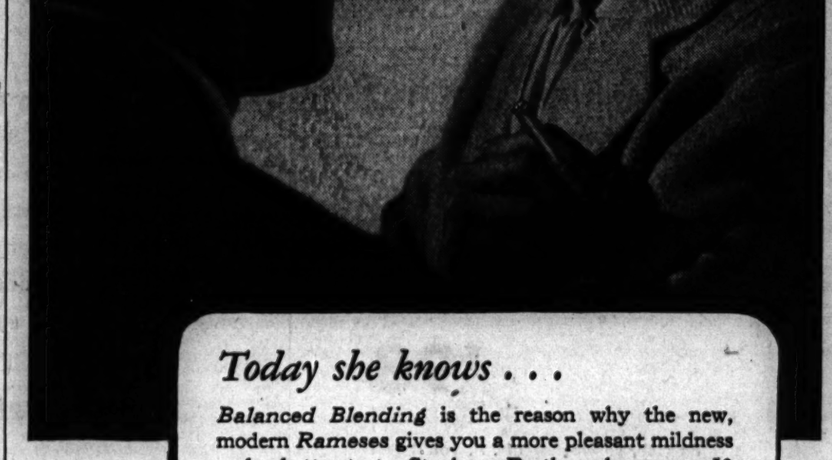
Why Does The New RAMESES Feature Balanced Blending?



Today she knows . . .
Balanced Blending is the reason why the new, modern Rameses gives you a more pleasant mildness and a better taste. Stephano Brothers drew upon 50 years of experience in making fine cigarettes to develop the exclusive new Rameses Balanced Blend. Certain exact proportions of the world's most popular cigarette tobaccos are skillfully combined to get the Rameses blend—so expertly balanced in flavor and mildness that all the finer smoking qualities of each type of tobacco are brought to their peak. One pack of the new Rameses will convince you how right it is to say—Be At Ease With Rameses.

His Wife a WAC

Sgt. Alvyn Wood and his wife, Daisy, at WAC recruiting headquarters yesterday.

When Staff Sgt. Alvyn P. Wood came home yesterday to 948 Cuyler av. on a three day pass from Camp Gruber, Okla., he discovered he was just in time to say good-by to his wife, Daisy, who will leave Chicago today with a contingent of 80 WAC recruits for basic training at Fort Des Moines, Ia. "We'll both get home sooner if I get in the army now," said Pvt. Daisy Wood, an adjuster for a mail order company.

Mrs. Phoebe M. Link, 1116 Washington blvd., Oak Park, a production analyst with four brothers in service, also is one of the 80 in the recruit convoy. Another is Mrs. Louise Lipson, 2015 E. 74th st., the wife of a marine corps navigator in the Southwest Pacific and who will be a WAC surgical technician after basic training.

E. J. Halleman, Glen Ellyn, Killed in Bomber Crash

Edward J. Halleman of Glen Ellyn, electronics engineer with the army air forces, was killed last Friday when a B-24 bomber made a crash landing at Almagordo, N. M., because a motor failed. Eight were killed and two survived, slightly injured. Mr. Halleman formerly was employed by the Zurich Insurance company. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. A. H. Halleman of River Forest; his widow, Esther D., and his daughter, Wanda Lee of 413 Main st., Glen Ellyn. Services will be held today at 2 o'clock in the chapel at 4138 North av.

Milk Mixture for Stomach Acids

A recent medical discovery now being used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach pains caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective that in many cases the pains of stomach acids disappear almost immediately after it is used. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion and heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of Lurin from their druggist. Lurin contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonfuls in a half glass of milk. Costs but little. Try a bottle, it must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by drug stores everywhere.

YANKS RIP INTO OUTER WALL OF METZ FORTRESS

Blast Holes Thru Field of Barbed Wire.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY ON THE MOSELLE RIVER, France, Oct. 3.—American infantry aided by tanks this afternoon smashed their way into the outer defenses of Fort Driant, northwest of Metz. This evening they were still fighting to gain control of that key strong point.

The attack was preceded by heavy artillery pounding. The air force made simultaneous dive bombing attacks on two forts across the Moselle river below Metz, from which German artillery helped break up a similar assault on Driant a week ago. There was no opposition except mortar fire today until the troops were thru the barbed wire and into the area of Driant itself. Then they met German small arms and machine gun fire.

Blast Holes in Barbed Wire.

Our tanks gave support to the infantry by blasting holes thru coils of barbed wire 35 or 40 feet in depth, permitting the infantry to reach a moat. Late reports were that the troops managed to outflank the moat and our bulldozers already were at work filling up that barbed wire filled barrier.

The area of Fort Driant can be covered by fire from several other German held forts in the immediate vicinity. While daylight lasted Driant was screened from view of these forts by a constant smoke screen laid down by our artillery shells.

If Driant is captured it will weaken the position of the other forts since it is one link in a chain of mutually protective bastions.

Storm Up the Heights.

In another attack farther to the north a small group of Yanks slugged their way to the top of a 200 foot slag pile overlooking Maizieres. The attack was planned to be completed before dawn but when daylight came and they were stalled part of the way up, the troops dug in. Then the regiment's colonel, and Maj. Jack Ward, 25, Moscow, Idaho, a battalion commander, took personal charge and so inspired the men that they stormed the rest of the way despite German machine gun and rifle fire.

The colonel said the attack was led all the way by Maj. Ward, who ran from one vantage point to another Indian style with his men behind him until the Germans fled.

Maj. Ward asked that great credit be given Tech. Sgt. Andrew Milja, Pittsburgh, Pa., and Staff Sgt. James B. Little, Sioux City, Ia., who helped lead the charge when their officers were wounded.

Eight prisoners were taken, one machine gun captured, and two others knocked out.

YANKS PUSH THRU MUD; WIN ROAD CENTER IN ITALY

ROME, Oct. 3 (AP).—American doughboys, slogging along in deep mud in their main drive thru the northern Apennines, have captured Monghidor, an important road junction 18 miles south of Bologna, German supply and communication center in northern Italy, allied headquarters announced today. Other American forces have reached Casoni di Romagna, a village 16 miles south of Bologna.

Americans of the 5th army beat off continuing German counter-attacks against their positions on Monte Battaglia and Monte Cappella, heights dominating the highway to Imola, junction point on the Bologna-Rimini-Milan lateral supply route for the Nazis.

Flood waters of the Fiumicino river, behind which the Germans are strongly entrenched, stalled the British 8th army offensive on the Adriatic sector.

F.D.R. SATISFIED, CHINESE AREN'T ON U.S. WAR AID

Monthly Total Now Is 20,000 Tons.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP).—President Roosevelt reported today that in addition to the supplies being flown into China by air some goods at last are moving over a 6,000 mile long route that begins at the Caspian sea and transverses most of the continent of Asia.

This long and difficult land route thus far is carrying only a trickle, Mr. Roosevelt made clear, but he said he was satisfied with the total supply to China which now exceeds 20,000 tons a month.

Cites Obstacles to Shipments.

He brought out that his satisfaction arises from the amount of gasoline, medicines, munitions, and bombs flown in despite incredible hardships.

But he indicated that this is small in relation to the volume China needs. Supplies cannot be delivered by ship, he said, so long as Japanese armies control the China coast.

The discussion came up at a news conference when a reporter said Chungking felt China has received inadequate aid.

Reference to the land route came unexpectedly. Mr. Roosevelt's lend-lease report to congress June 30 said only air deliveries were reaching China at that time.

Mr. Roosevelt today described the aerial deliveries, made high over the Himalayan mountains, as an epic in flying. He is well satisfied with the major performances," he said. Asked why the Chinese are complaining, he replied that they want more than they're getting.

The total amount of outside aid to China, the President said, is largely gasoline for the B-29 Superfortresses and Maj. Gen. Chennault's 14th air force. He declared the 14th had performed an epic in destruction of enemy shipping and installations for its size.

Asked how much of the total is for the Chinese, Mr. Roosevelt said that if you take out the gasoline then most of the rest goes to the Chinese armies—a total of supplies presumably considerably less than 10,000 tons a month.

China's Side of Story

New York, Oct. 3 (AP).—Gen. Ho Ying-ching, Chinese minister of war, said today in an interview with a magazine correspondent that the total equipment imported for the Chinese armies from April, 1942, to the end of July, 1944, by air amounted to only 30,000 tons.

The magazine writer quoted the general in a dispatch from Chungking as reporting:

"The fundamental reason for China's failure to stem the Japanese advance in central south China is absolute inferiority in the weapons of the Chinese forces compared with those of the enemy."

Bank of Italy Ex-Chief to Go on Trial for Life

New York, Oct. 2 (AP).—Dr. Vincenzo Azzolini, 64, governor of the Bank of Italy under the fascist regime, will go on trial for his life next Monday on a charge of having collaborated with the Nazis, the Rome radio said tonight.

13th Air Force Camera Group Cited by General

ADVANCED SOUTHWEST PACIFIC AIR BASE, Sept. 28 [Delayed]—(AP).—Daring and ingenuity in action brought a group citation to the 13th United States air force combat cameramen from the 13th's commander, Maj. Gen. St. Clair Streett. In the heavy bomber group, which has filmed raids at Woleai, Yap, Palau, Halmaheras, and Ceram, is Corp. Bern Barthelemy, Decatur, Ill., who has 100 combat hours.

It's no cinch, cinch, cinch to make a pinch, pinch, pinch

The "heavy foot" has been replaced by great headwork in Wartime driving. And that's a great hint for the future.

"Scorchers" are rare. The cops have to look thrice—and even then what they mostly see is skilled, ticket-proof driving that earns their respect. For as experts they know that's really how to get there, without taking it out on your car. You too, knew it all the time, but war "alerted" you to it—and you're staying alert. Now be still more alert to the perils of engine acids. Those can be curbed by one brainy move...by having your engine OIL-PLATED.

Changing to Conoco Nth motor oil—at popular price—is all it takes to own an OIL-PLATED engine. One special characteristic of OIL-PLATING is the acid-resistance that costly pioneer research developed. This acid-fighter—OIL-PLATING—becomes surfaced to your engine's fine inner finish as closely as chromium plating could be. That's made possible by Conoco Nth oil's special ingredient whose magnet-like nature holds OIL-PLATING direct to metals—square in the path of the acids always created by every engine explosion. Contact between acids and metals is checked. Then so is corrosion.

And now here looms the season of lowest engine temperatures—unable to clear out acids sufficiently. So they could now do their worst—but not with your engine safely OIL-PLATED by Conoco Nth motor oil. Change at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Today. Continental Oil Company

Attack South of Aachen.

In an effort to take the pressure off their troops north of Aachen the enemy made a sharp attack south of city last night and in bright moonlight slugged the Americans back from one pillbox. But a prompt Yank counter-attack regained all lost ground.

The Nazis apparently used "beetle" radio-controled tanks in the forefront of their attack, as two explosions in front of the American line shook the earth for miles around.

Another enemy attack near Havert, 30 miles north of Aachen, forced United States armored cavalry units back across the Wurm river, but the Yanks drove right back today and regained all lost positions.

Fire 500 Shells in Hour.

When German troops showed signs today of making a stand in the little town of Beggendorf, two miles east of Ubach, American artillery pulverized the place with 500 shells in an hour. Palenberg, a village about a mile northwest of Ubach and just inside the German border, fell within American lines.

The American troops were having hard going against enemy positions dug in strongly south of Palenberg. The doughboys fought slowly thru the woods east of the main north-south railway from Aachen. A task force wheeled thru the Siegfried gap and then turned south to outflank this stubborn resistance.

To the south in France Lt. Gen. Patton's American 3d army, employing flamethrowers, was reported to have fought into Fort Driant, a main bastion of the formidable system of the Nazi fortresses guarding Metz. Doughboys stormed Fort Driant under machinegun fire.

Patton's artillery and American divebombers maintained a heavy assault on the entire Metz area.

Capture by American troops of Maizieres les Metz, on the west bank of the Moselle seven miles north of Metz, was confirmed by allied headquarters.

The United States 7th army at the extreme southern end of the front captured Ronchamp, 10 miles west of the fortress city of Belfort at the entrance to the Belfort gap gateway to Germany.

Lull on British Sector.

A lull settled over the British 2d army front in Holland as the Germans temporarily, at least, abandoned their armored counter-attacks against Lt. Gen. Dempsey's salient in the Nijmegen area and bad weather slowed allied air attacks.

Southeast of Nijmegen an American armored unit was reported fighting from house to house in Overloon, one of the last enemy strongholds west of the Maas [Meuse] river in Holland. The town previously was reported to have been captured by the Yanks, but a late field dispatch said the Nazi garrison still was resisting.

There likewise was little activity back along the Belgian-Holland border, except for a Canadian success in knocking the Nazis out of Merxem, a suburb of Antwerp.

[The Germans have begun demolitions in the great Netherlands port of Rotterdam, the Dutch news agency Aneta reported from 21st army group headquarters.]

Hundreds of R. A. F. heavy bombers using 12,000 pound bombs tore open a sea wall guarding the Dutch island of Walcheren and sent the North sea pouring over Nazi fortifications which had denied use of the Belgian port of Antwerp to the allies.

FORRESTAL AND NIMITZ CONFER ON JAP CAMPAIGN

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 3 (AP).—New moves in the war to crush Japan were planned by America's naval chiefs and Pacific commanders during a recent San Francisco conference.

Twelfth district naval headquarters disclosed today that the conference here was attended by Navy Secretary Forrestal; Adm. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet; Adm. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet; and other top navy officers.

The announcement was bare of any detail, stating merely that a conference "on aspects of the campaign against the Japanese" was concluded. But some observers felt the navy secretary and the array of admirals and their staffs, meeting on the heels of last month's Quebec conferences, mapped future strategy designed to carry out Roosevelt-Churchill plans for the "destruction of the barbarians of the Pacific."

Developments Foreseen.

The last previous Pacific war conference took President Roosevelt to Hawaii July 29. There he met with Adm. Nimitz and Gen. MacArthur. Pacific hostilities moved rapidly after the Pearl Harbor conferences.

Others who attended the conferences here were Adm. Raymond A. Spruance, 5th fleet commander; Vice Adm. D. W. Bagley, western sea frontier commander; Vice Adm. C. M. Cooke Jr., chief of staff of the fleet commander; Vice Adm. Aubrey W. Fitch, deputy chief of naval operations [air], and Vice Adm. Randall Jacobs, chief of naval personnel.

Jap Oil Base Bombed.

ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, Oct. 4 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Japan's 3,000,000 barrel oil storage center at Balikpapan, Borneo, was pounded powerfully Saturday by more than 60 liberators.

They flew from advance bases from which they can repeatedly pound the center on which Japan leans heavily for her ability to wage air and naval war and to move essential cargo.

Today's bulletin said towering fires were started by the bombers, three of which were lost to anti-aircraft fire. Headquarters said parachuting Yank airmen from a crippled plane were strafed by machine guns of some of the 30 Zeros which opposed the raiders. Seven Zeros were shot down and others were damaged.

The bombers dropped 74 tons of bombs. The power plant and oil refineries are the Japanese equivalent of the Ploesti fields in Europe. The bulletin called Balikpapan Japan's most important source of aviation gasoline and lubricating oils.

Mop Up on Peleliu.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Oct. 3 (AP).—Continuation of mopping up operations against Japanese holding out at "Bloody Nose ridge" on Peleliu Island and in one pocket on Angaur Island, in the Palaus, was reported by Adm. Nimitz tonight.

The Japanese sent a plane over Peleliu air field Oct. 1, but its two bombs fell in a swamp.

Liberators dropped 31 tons of bombs on by-passed Truk, encountering anti-aircraft fire which damaged two of the big bombers.

Japs Drive on China Port

CHUNGKING, China, Oct. 3 (AP).—Imperial headquarters in Tokyo announced in a broadcast today that Japanese troops were driving on Foochow, last big seaport in Chinese hands, after a "surprise landing" in Fukien province.

The enemy push toward the city of 400,000 population on China's east coast was regarded here as intended to counter any American plans for a landing, and indicated possible Japanese nervousness over such an intention.

The Chinese high command made no comment on the Fukien landings, reporting no change in the Kwangsi sector, where the Japanese are driving toward Kweilin.

HOW 2 ILLINOIS YANKS ON GUAM WERE WOUNDED

Advance on Ridge in Machine Gun Fire.

GUAM [Delayed]—(AP).—A graphic account of how two Illinois marines were wounded advancing against the Japs on Guam was given in a story by Staff Sgt. Ward Walker of Chicago, a marine corps combat correspondent on military leave from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The wounded men were Pvts. Ralph W. Austill, 21, Jerseyville, and James J. Lynch, 19, of Pana.

"It was 10 a. m. The beachhead was still a fresh wound on this island and, below us, men and supplies still streamed ashore," said Walker's story. "Here, on the side of a hill, was this tightly knit little group of marines, one squad of many. Excited by the taste of combat on the beach, the men were eager to probe into the red clay hills rising ahead. They were going to give the Japs hell; they laughed."

Draw Fire on Ridge.

He told how the squad moved cautiously up a ridge, ignoring snipers, under an incredibly hot sun; how it was 4 p. m. before the first man in the squad was hit. Crossing a ridge, they drew enemy machine gun fire.

Austill called to automatic riflemen to cover him, then:

"Austill darted forward, bent over. The machine gun fired. So did the automatic riflemen. The Jap machine gunner, hidden in a cave, was silent now. Dead, we soon discovered. But Austill had been hit. He was lying in the open, and sniper bullets hit the dust around him."

Shell Hits Leg.

A corpsman dragged Austill and another wounded marine to safety, bandaged them and placed them to await stretcher bearers.

"As we squirmed upwards, Jap mortars started lobbing shells upon us. More were hit," Walker wrote. Lynch, "a cocky Irish boy, got parts of a shell in his left leg." Again the corpsman went to work. Walker and another returned to the beach to direct the stretcher bearers where to find the wounded men.

The squad went on with its mission.

SAFETY COUNCIL'S AWARD PRESENTED TO ARMY ENGINEERS

The National Safety council's annual award for distinguished service to safety was presented to the army corps of engineers last night by Col. John Stilwell of New York, chairman of the board of directors, and accepted in behalf of the chief of engineers by Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves.

Ned H. Dearborn.

Gen. Groves presented an award for exceptional civilian service to Lloyd A. Blanchard, chief of the safety and accident prevention bureau of the corps of engineers. The awards were presented in the La Salle hotel at the 33d national safety congress, which will end tomorrow.

Perils of the home, which resulted last year in 32,500 fatal and 4,850,000 non-fatal accidents, were stressed at yesterday's opening sessions. Margaret Culkin Banning, Duluth, Minn., author, urged women to take greater interest in preventing home accidents, and Ned H. Dearborn of Chicago, taking office as president of the safety council, said safety should be accepted in the design for living. Col. Stilwell praised the results of safety programs in war factories and in army air force training.

SCISSORS THIEF WINS FREEDOM.

Alfred Grosch, 46, of 2908 Logan blvd., a plumber, was placed on probation yesterday for six months for the theft of 57 pairs of scissors from the Boston store, where he formerly was employed. The scissors were recovered in a pawn shop.

EUROPEAN PORTENTS.

For a good many years now, Mr. Roosevelt has been talking ideological nonsense about the nature of this war and the reasons for our participation in it. Accordingly, after the shooting stops there is going to be confusion and disillusionment in the minds of the American people.

Mr. Roosevelt has called this a war of the democracies against totalitarian regimes. The distinction makes no sense. Russia is ruled by as totalitarian a dictatorship as Germany's. Insofar as China can be said to have a government it is as undemocratic as any the world ever saw. The British government hasn't gone to the people in an election in 10 years, and many subjects of the king have been locked behind bars for years without trial. Gen. de Gaulle's pre-war writing reveals a believer in authoritarian government, and he has just announced a policy of expropriation that the Communists can and do applaud. Likewise he is censoring the press and proposes to institute some kind of licensing system for newspapers and the men who write them. All of this and much more of the same sort is what Mr. Roosevelt embraces in his phrase, "the democratic allies."

Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill joined before Pearl Harbor in drawing up the Atlantic Charter as a statement of the war aims of what Mr. Roosevelt often calls "the peace-loving nations." The moment came, not long after Pearl Harbor, when Mr. Churchill said the credo, with its promises of self-determination of nations, didn't apply where he didn't want it to apply, which is to say, to the subject peoples of the empire. The Dutch feel the same way about it. Their imperial administrators are resuming business at the old stand in the East Indies as soon as our soldiers and marines drive the Japs out. Gen. de Gaulle announced the other day that he was going to send French forces to fight in the Pacific war to assure France that she will once again have the right to exploit the Indo-Chinese natives.

And then, of course, there is Russia. The Atlantic Charter contained some very fine language echoing the Declaration of Independence, but that isn't keeping Stalin out of Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia in flagrant violation of the plain meaning of the charter. Finland, Bulgaria, and Romania will behave as the Russians want them to behave, or else. Poland is to lose her eastern provinces, and the news from Moscow makes it abundantly clear that whatever is left of Poland will have to live within the Russian orbit. In this instance the irony is particularly bitter because it was for the protection of Polish territorial integrity that the war was begun. Now the Russians are trampling the principles of the charter not only in relation to Poland but equally in relation to all of Stalin's other neighbors. There is nothing in the record of Mr. Roosevelt's diplomacy at Teheran or anywhere else to suggest that he has ever put any pressure on Mr. Stalin to behave decently and reasonably in these matters. We gave billions in lend-lease but asked no political commitments in return.

Already, as at Versailles, a sensitive ear can hear a child crying. New wars are in the making. The Russians are backing Bulgarian claims to Macedonian and Thracian territory that the Greeks, among others, claim as their own and demand in recognition of their sacrifices. Italy is in a torment. We shall be lucky if either France or Italy escapes a dictatorship, whether Fascist or Communist. Mr. Roosevelt's peace-loving nations are getting ready for new conflicts over age-old spoils.

Mr. Roosevelt pretends that the peace that is shortly to descend upon Europe will be so generally acceptable to the peoples concerned, so just, so honorable, and so wise that this country can guarantee it without fear of unpleasant consequences. Probably the nations will be too exhausted to engage at once in large scale wars but no one observing the conflict between the principles for which we are supposed to be fighting and the developing trends can expect anything but instability. The same conflict was observable at Versailles, but there, at least, Mr. Wilson really believed in his creed and fought for it. Mr. Roosevelt, in contrast, lets his allies make a mockery of his phrases and goes right on repeating his litany of self-determination, peace-loving nations, and democratic peoples as if he were talking about something real.

BACK HOME AGAIN.

The Constitution and the Declaration of Independence have been returned to Washington. We are informed that the originals were "hidden inland" after the outbreak of war. It is, perhaps, forehanded of the New Dealers to have taken care of this, but, in any event, the voters in their good sense could have been trusted to arrange the matter Nov. 7. A Republican administration will assure that these documents are not considered merely as something to be inspected under glass, but that they will, after 12 years, once more vitalize the conduct of government.

TRUMAN'S QUALITY.

The character of Harry S. Truman and his fitness to be President of the United States were exposed in the recent series of stories by Carl Wiegman, a Tribune reporter, who visited Sen. Truman's home grounds in Kansas City, Mo. Mr. Wiegman traced Sen. Truman's history thru his ill-fated haberdashery business to his union with the corrupt political machine of Boss Pendergast, his term as a Pendergast office holder in charge of squandering county funds and distributing them to the boss' friends, and his ascendency to the United States senate on the whim of Boss Pendergast, who wanted to show his power by selecting the obscure Truman for that high office.

The contrast was made more clear by a subsequent series of stories on Gov. John W. Bricker, Sen. Truman's opponent on the Republican ticket. In Columbus, O., this reporter traced the steady rise of John Bricker, achieved without wealth or political pull and on sheer merit as an attorney, a public administrator, and an executive. Bricker was elected attorney general of Ohio in 1932, during the Roosevelt landslide, and became one of the few Republicans to hold high public office at that time in America. Bricker was chosen by the people of Ohio—and not by a political boss—to be governor of their state in 1938, and has been reelected twice since on the basis of his honest, thrifty, and progressive administration.

The appalling prospect is that Sen. Truman, the weak, machine ridden political hack who bargained with thieves for public advancement, may become President of the United States. Mr. Roosevelt's health is the subject of much speculation in Washington. A vote for Roosevelt may prove to be a vote for Truman. That is why a lot of serious voters with New Deal leanings are keeping silent these days, and why they are going to choose the Republican ticket Nov. 7.

TAXES THAT KILL.

Mr. Beardsley Ruml addresses the Chicago Association of Commerce today on the subject of taxation. Mr. Ruml is the joint author of one of the three comprehensive programs for tax reform which have been developed to bring about a high level of employment after the war.

Mr. Furlong, our financial editor, did a good job of summarizing and contrasting the three programs in last Sunday's TRIBUNE. Mr. Ruml will, no doubt, tell his Chicago audience why his program is superior to the others. Mr. James Cleary, formerly president of the board of trustees of the University of Illinois, described the merits of the plan of the committee for economic development at an Association of Commerce meeting last week. The Twin Cities plan, developed and sponsored by a group in Minneapolis and St. Paul, was explained here earlier.

Nor are these all. Prof. Harley Lutz of Princeton university, speaking at the 1944 meeting of the Controlers' Institute of America Monday, declared that the reform should go much further than merely reduce corporation and individual taxes, and should eliminate the principle of progression in tax rates. A Chicago man, Mr. George E. Barnes, formulated a plan to simplify corporation taxes and solve the double taxation evil, which he presented in the August number of the Exchange Monthly.

We mention these developments without giving any of the specific details of the plans here to establish only that the country at long last is awake to the fact that the depression, from which the country never recovered in peace time, was promoted by taxes and perpetuated by taxes.

A great many people working independently on the problem have come to the same conclusion. Their investigations, recently conducted, have convinced them that "if the deliberate aim were to hold down the volume of employment, our present tax system would go far to accomplish it." THE TRIBUNE was pointing all this out, starting more than ten years ago. THE TRIBUNE was the first to appreciate the dire peril the country faced under the tax system which has existed now for many years, and we were the first to advocate reform.

Here are a few quotations from THE TRIBUNE in the years when we were alone in the fight:

"Depression results from the ax of governments in taking away the rewards of individual initiative. If business suffers a loss, the individual bears it. If it makes a profit, the government takes the bulk of it. The result is that those who have their funds free and can avoid the risk of business do so." [March 23, 1933.]

"Legislation at this time should be directed toward motivating business enterprise rather than discouraging it. Give the budding business revival a chance!" [May 23, 1933.]

"The present depression is being prolonged by the absence of any new activities except those governmentally paid for, which require capital goods. Funds may be necessary to provide relief during a depression, and an income tax may be an appropriate means of collecting a portion of the money required. But an income tax which removes the incentive from business enterprise prolongs depression and the need for relief." [Jan. 26, 1934.]

"Capital here has to stay where it is, or be heavily penalized. Is there any doubt that, with the removal of the penalty, capitalists would go about seeking profitable places to invest and that such reinvestment would expand employment tremendously?" [Nov. 23, 1937.]

"It would be a dreadful calamity for congress to permit its attention to be diverted from repealing the taxes which caused the crisis in order to consider debatable labor legislation, restrictions on farming, housing, and other legislation which cannot help us in our immediate dire need." [Dec. 3, 1937.]

"Taxation has been established by a mixture of envy, hatred, and communism. It will be a difficult task, indeed, to discover what the maximum safe load is. We only know that the tax load at present is too great and that it causes business stagnation and unemployment." [Oct. 2, 1938.]

"No man of means in his right mind will put capital into a new enterprise when he knows in advance that if there is a loss he must bear it and if there is a profit it goes to the government. That is why old business concerns are dying out and new businesses are not springing up in their place. That is why many of the graduates won't find the jobs they hope for. That is why the country is going steadily down hill." [April 22, 1939.]

Wool production is expected to be the lowest in eight years. It is forecast that there will be enough, however, to be pulled over some people's eyes some of the time.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. Kaolin is a variety of which one of these products? Clay Grease Paint Margarine
2. You should expect to find a turntable in a Restaurant Gymnasium Drug Store Railroad Yard
3. Which one of the following creatures would whinny? Mule Giraffe Filly Ewe
4. Which one of these flowers is called the "poet's darling"? Daisy Orchid Honeysuckle Rose
5. The rule of "six-eight-ten" should make one think of a Banker Carpenter Mathematician Physician
6. The relative weights of various substances are determined by comparing them with the weight of an equal volume of distilled water which is the unit of comparison. If a metal has a specific gravity of 7.3, then a cupful of that metal weighs as much as 7.3 cups of water. You are entitled to one point for each correct matching of the metals named below with their specific gravities.

[c] Lead	[x] Sp. gr. of 11.4

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

MOONS OF ALASKA.

Disappointed by the harvest moon, which has had a serious attack of invisibility, this column looks forward to its rival, the hunter's moon, due on Oct. 31. After that, as we pointed out recently, the supply of moons with names and reputations will be exhausted, unless one wants to mention that erratic invention of romance, the honeymoon, which may happen any time.

* * *

Consider, then, the happier condition of the Thlinget Indians in the Copper river country of Alaska. They have named moons for every month of the year, with plenty of folklore attached. Newspaper cartoonists could have a high time up there, getting ideas in the hope of rivaling John McCutcheon's success with such subjects.

* * *

Among these Indians of the remote north the year begins late in August, when animals alter their habits in preparation for winter. In September comes the Small Moon, when the food supply from fish and berries begins to fail. Next is the Big Moon, corresponding to our harvest moon, but for them it means snow and winter pelts on fur-bearing animals. November brings the Snow Moon, with frozen streams and an arctic landscape.

* * *

The severe winter months are marked by the Mother's Moon [December], perhaps because of the frequency of Thlinget childbirth then; the Goose Moon [January], when the wild geese fly northward again, and the Bear Moon [February], when the hibernating bear turns over on his other side.

* * *

March is the Sea Flower Moon, when submarine life begins to grow; April is the Moon of Earth's Flowering; May is the Hatching Moon; June is the Salmon Moon; July is the Moon of Birth for animals and prospectors' camps, and August is the Fattening Moon, when men and beasts show the results of an adequate food supply.

* * *

This information comes from Capt. Harold W. Zimmerman, army medical corps, a Chicagoan on duty in Alaska, who has spent many months among the Thlingets.

LETTER OF SYMPATHY.

I have been searching long for winged words
That would bring some small comfort to your heart,
Words that might lift this blinding fog of grief
That blots from view the stars that lit your chart;
Do not be hurt because he died so young,
Years cannot gauge how much, how well we live;
These past full months, life overflowed his cup,
In contrast, time for us drops thru a sieve;
And if our worth is measured by our gift,
His span has been complete, for he gave youth,
His place within the world of men, his life,

My words are stumbling but I reach my hand,
Hoping you know I care and understand.

After talk—"Madam Spinster was so enthused over her speech that she usurped the period set aside for the second movement. The orchestra will, however, proceed with the third movement, after little Anna Stubbins, child prodigy, has given us her prediction of the number of electoral votes that will be cast for the Democrats in the solid south."

After talk—"That concludes our radio broadcast, ladies and gentlemen. Tune in again next week for music you seldom hear."

N. B. R. asks: "If I submit my discharge from the navy to the navy board of review and the board decides the navy was unwarranted in discharging me, can the board then order me to return to navy duty—or what happens?"

The board has no authority to revoke any discharge or dismissal, to reinstate any person in the naval service subsequent to his discharge or dismissal, nor can the board recall any one to active duty. If, thru the process of review, the man's record is cleared and he is issued a new or amended discharge, he might then be subject to being drafted into service again, but this possibility would occur only in an extremely limited number of cases. The petitions for review of discharges by the navy board of review are available from this department on request.

AVOID INFECTION AND SPARE THE KIDNEYS.

WE are all interested in a smooth running, complex machine, but no man-made device can equal the intricacies of the human body. Take the kidneys as an example. They are called upon to filter the circulation and must be on the job 24 hours each day. There are two million or more separate extraction units in each organ. Every one of these laboratories is made up of a network of capillaries and secreting tubules, with a mass of filtering cells.

We can understand how necessary it is that bacteria shall not be allowed to reach these areas—at least, types which are virulent and which may be injurious. A septic sore throat, with the tissues filled with streptococci, may permit the escape of enough germs to damage the renal cells. In consequence, inflammation—accompanied by swelling—may slow down the output of urine. The excreted fluid may be loaded with albumin and red blood cells. Yes, a focus of infection can cripple these indispensable structures—severely or irreparably.

Whenever toxins from any source bring on degeneration the function of the part concerned is reduced. Thus it is that slow absorption of poisons may wear away gradually the figurative pipes and condensers. Furthermore, the tiny capillaries may become plugged and sclerosed.

This explains the slow but persistent forward march of a disorder which we have come to label "Bright's disease." The blood pressure rises. At first this is beneficial. The tension within the capillaries of the kidneys is increased, whereupon normal filtration is accomplished because of the extra force. As long as this continues without further destruction the patient will feel comfortable.

Sooner or later, however, more urine than average will be secreted. The fluid will be pale and may contain albumin. After a time such a one may observe a slight puffing of the extremities toward nightfall. If this sign disappears of its own accord we may well suspect that the pressure has gone up substantially. This means that the heart is taking the brunt of the punishment.

There is just one way to take care of the kidneys and that is not to permit either bacteria or their products [toxins] to enter the circulation. In other words, every infection must be regarded as something to eradicate. We cannot look with complacency upon an abscessed tooth, pus within the sinuses, a diseased prostate gland, a germ laden bowel, or any part that gives aid and comfort to microbes.

Next is the desirability of relieving the renal apparatus of work. We can't expect to preserve good health if important cells are forced to labor to the point of exhaustion. We can consume no more food than the body needs. We can avoid irritating edibles and we can shun exposure which may lead to chilling. A sharp drop in temperature may force a large amount of blood into the "innards," with resulting congestion. Many a severe bout of nephritis has been experienced by hunters whose discretion failed to equal their valor.

While there is no objection to taking plenty of liquids, there certainly is no occasion for flooding the system. There must be a balance between the salts of the body and the fluids, and this can be upset with too much water. We can safeguard our vital organs only by protecting them against overstrain or assaults from the enemies of well-being.

Take Them Away.

Two weeks or so ago, in a very rash moment, this department did a bit of dabbling in the history of campaign slogans, came up with a dozen or so that had survived the vicissitudes of history long enough to get entrenched in the language, and said it was too bad that this election had produced none. Since publication of that ill-conceived bit of innocent prattle every mail has brought slogans, or potential slogans, to this desk.

No election yet ever hinged on a political slogan. No election yet was won—or lost—by a political slogan. This one will not be unusual in that respect. Certainly no single slogan capable of swaying the entire electorate, or even a majority of it, one way or another, has passed over this desk, but hundreds have passed over it. Two columns of these have been printed in days gone by and happily forgotten. A portion of the residue will be printed down the line here. With their publication this department goes out of the slogan business. If, tomorrow, you dream up one that you know is the real thing, try it on your cat, or your neighbor. If the cat howls, distends its fur and tail, and runs to the roof to jump and end one of its nine lives, or if your neighbor asks you to say it again, you may have a good one, but it is yours. Not ours.

The strangest contributors of all are the persons who write, "You wouldn't dare print this, etc., etc." One of that strange breed is a lady who signs her name Harriet Glace. Maybe she thinks her slogans are unprintable, and maybe they are—her opinion is as good as ours—but here they are: "Dewey and Bricker, don't make me snicker" and "Roosevelt and Truman both, one by name and one by nature." Not even the Democratic committee has dared the latter coupled inference, but there it is.

Two contributors were ambiguous, as they did not say which party their slogans represented. One is "Vote American." The other is "For freedom—weed 'em." But another left no room for doubt, for it came on stationery emblazoned for MacArthur for President and Sen. Lodge for Vice President. Its suggestion was:

"When you get on the dole
Don't start to beef
Because you voted

Others, by area rather than by name, are: South Bend, Ind.: "Deliverance with Dewey"; Camden, Tenn.: "Send him home to Hyde!"; Portland, Ore.: "Don't be screwy, vote for Dewey" [to which two Democrats counter with: "Dewey and hooey." "Dewey? We don't."]; Cincinnati, O.: "Beat the slicker with Dewey and Bricker"; East Chicago, Ind.: "Get the 'Maine' idea"; Iowa Falls, Ia.: "Dewey'll do it"; Chicago: "Dewey? Bricker? Or do we bicker?"; "Throw the rascals out," "Twelve years with the wrong man," and "Change the pilot—the ship of state is off her course." The author of the latter explained that ships are in every one's mind these days.

A lady from Yorkville, Ill., wrote that when she was graduated from high school the best her class could do in the way of a slogan was "Gasoline, benzine, nineteen-fifteen," so after pondering a bit and listening to Mr. Dewey she came right up with:

"Dewey and Bricker in '44,
To win the peace, end the war,"

A lady from Oak Park offers:

"Yes, vote you must!
For T. E. D. or 'bust.'
For youth and crust
Or age with rust."

"D—o
E—verything
W—isely
E—lect
Y—outh."

The one we can't figure out at all, however, is the one signed "A United States American." Its author says: "Gov. Bricker's name adds up to a slogan that may bring in a slew of votes, and please don't discount them because they're liquored up. We need 'em all." The accompanying slogan is "Bricker and licker."

WHEN ROOSEVELT FOUGHT DEPOSIT INSURANCE.

Skokie, Ill., Oct. 1.—Now that the "Great Indispensable" has resorted to the cry of fraud every time Tom Dewey pierces his campaign armor it probably would not be amiss to nail once and for all what is possibly the baldest of New Deal lies—that Roosevelt championed insurance of bank deposits.

The record shows that Roosevelt rabidly opposed the insurance of bank deposits by the federal government as provided in an amendment to the banking act of 1933 and that the amendment was written and introduced by Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan.

Two years after its passage Sen. Carter Glass, Democrat, of Virginia, told his colleagues: "When it was first proposed to establish the insurance of bank deposits fund, the President of the United States and his then secretary of the treasury, Mr. Woodring, were very emphatically and bitterly opposed to it. They said they would not stand for it. But representations were made to both of them that this was certainly the most available if not the only constitutional way of bringing about a desirable unified bank system in this country."

In 1934 when L. E. Birdzell was general counsel for Federal Deposit Insurance corporation he told a Michigan state convention of bankers that Sen. Vanderberg "is perhaps more responsible than any other individual for putting into the banking act of 1933 the provisions which made it possible to insure deposits in banks [up to $5,000] beginning last January."

"The father of bank deposit insurance" is the way Leo Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, refers to Sen. Vandenberg.

From the foregoing it would appear that "bank deposit insurance" was not a Roosevelt "must" until after it was passed over his initial bitter objections and then only when he saw its vote-getting potential.

THE ENEMY OF WORKING MEN.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—When a man buys a pair of shoes, were he told the shoes were $4 plus $4 taxes, he would quickly wake up to the burden of taxes, and learn why his wages do not go as far as they should. This example may seem to be an exaggeration, but calculation shows it is not.

Who has increased taxes more than all other Presidents combined? Yet some wage earners claim he is the workingman's friend. He is their worst enemy. The harm he has done will crush every one for generations to come. J. G. R.

SILENCE IS SOMETIMES GOLDEN.

Carmel, Ind., Sept. 29.—In the prize boner contest I would like to make three entries. The campaigner in chief's great faux pas, "Clear everything with Sidney." The Communist party's famous saying, "We must have a fourth term," and the hand picked Vice Presidential Candidate Truman's testimony, "It was the President's fault we are not prepared." MAX J. KENNEDY.

HE'S SCOTCH.

Joliet, Ill., Sept. 25.—Fala is the first member of FDR's entourage ever to be accused of worry concerning expenses. JOE LAUTH.

"CANDIDATE FOR A FOXHOLE."

Chicago, Sept. 28.—I am a senior in high school, who like many others, has a pretty good idea about this war even tho we are too often referred to as "kids." After reading your editorial, "Candidate for a Foxhole," I decided to write and congratulate THE TRIBUNE. The editorial was a masterpiece, but there was just one mistake. Instead of "candidate," it should have been "candidates." In my opinion the majority of the 2,500 strikers are just as guilty as Mr. Moser. I happen to know some men who are strikers at the Revere company, and it seems that even they think that it was a pretty lame alibi to use for a strike. A KID.

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Frankly, I believe that THE TRIBUNE policy regarding labor is antagonistic and virtually obstructive. While it is true that a number of labor unions are gangster influenced and some unions are controled by Communists, the large majority of unions are American institutions devoted to bettering the working conditions and wage standards of their respective members. Also the very large majority of industrial workers are good and patriotic Americans as the high production records of our war industries will testify. Many of these workers are "fed up" with the New Deal and all it stands for, but the labor baiting obstructionist tactics of certain elements of the conservative press, and indeed of the Republican party, deter them from supporting anti-New Deal candidates.

A good example of the point I am trying to make is the story THE TRIBUNE carried regarding the strike at the Revere foundry. As a former foundry worker, I happen to know that the working conditions in the majority of foundries are intolerable. Many foundries are ill-lighted, poorly ventilated, unheated shops where the dust and gas are unbearable. If this is true of the Revere plant, I believe that the workers were justified in striking for better conditions. W. R.

ONE WHO OUGHT TO KNOW.

El Dorado, Kas., Sept. 28.—We notice that in his Philadelphia address Wednesday, Vice President Wallace declared there was a better chance to be employed under Roosevelt and the Democrats than under the Republicans. Henry is evidently thinking of his own future, and he is undoubtedly correct in his statement. HAL C. SMITH.

ROOTS CAN BE CUT.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Our neighbor has planted trees so close to the line which separates our property from his that the roots interfere with our garden. Can the trees be declared a nuisance and the owner forced to remove them? G. H.

No, but you are entitled to cut the roots and branches at the lot line.

Rep. Thomas [R., N. J.] said he was puzzled that the attorney general should make public such a list, remarking that "to my way of thinking, Mr. Biddle and the Communists are bedfellows, and no one can deny it."

"Every one knows," replied Matthews, "that this report was compiled by the federal bureau of investigation after congress had authorized an investigation into Communists on the government pay roll."

Three Accuse Cop

The state concluded its case against George Peterman, 35, of 837 W. 83d st., suspended policeman formerly assigned to the Chicago Lawn station, yesterday with testimony of several witnesses that Peterman had threatened them with his revolver.

George Peterman.

Peterman is on trial before Judge John Prystalski in Criminal court on a charge of attempting to rape Mrs. Rose Reidy, 27, of 3603 W. 56th pl., after a drinking bout in a tavern in South Holland.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bolen of Hazelcrest, Kenneth Dalley of Harvey, and Henry Amptmeyer of South Holland testified that Peterman had threatened them as they sat in their automobiles.

CALL FOR PROBE OF HERO BEATING BY 4TH TERMERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—An immediate congressional investigation of the "battle of the Statler hotel," in which two navy officers were attacked by members of the AFL teamsters' union when they refused to say whether they would vote for President Roosevelt was demanded today on Capitol hill.

James H. Suddeth.

Rep. Rankin [D., Miss.], chairman of the house World war veterans' committee, called for a house or senate investigation "so the public will know just what happened and who is to blame." Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.] said he believed the navy should conduct the investigation and that the teamsters, if guilty of the conduct charged, should be prosecuted. Rep. Cole [R., N. Y.] also called for an investigation.

Navy Omits Story.

While members of congress were demanding a full airing of the incident, which occurred shortly after President Roosevelt, as guest of the teamsters, had formally launched his fourth term candidacy Sept. 23, it was disclosed that altho the army broadcast virtually a blow by blow description of the fight to its men overseas, the navy and the overseas branch of the office of war information kept the story off their wires.

Lt. Randolph Dickins Jr. and Lt. Comdr. James H. Suddeth were the heroes of the battle, but the navy said it wasn't giving its fighting men outside the United States the story because of limitations on the amount of material included in its daily radio news digests.

Suddeth, 33, of Greer, S. C., stationed in the aeronautical branch here, confirmed that he was Dickins' companion and said Dickins' account of the fight was correct except for a few minor details.

Not Completely Down.

"There's only one thing I have to challenge in Randy's statement," and that is that his version had me completely down thruout the fight," he said. "Actually, I was only halfway down and was doing my almightiest to get back up."

Dickins, a Pacific veteran convalescing at a navy hospital, had said that the teamsters, after accusing him and his friend of being disloyal to their commander in chief because they told the union men it was none of their business how they would vote, held Suddeth in a chair while one man hit him and then forced him into a telephone booth where he had to fight from a sitting position. Dickins was held from behind when he tried to aid Suddeth.

IFL GETS DEMAND FOR AN END TO WMC'S CONTROLS OVER JOBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 3.—A demand for abolition of war man power commission regulations that have "forced workers to remain in jobs against their will and in violation of their constitutional rights" is embodied in one of several resolutions scheduled to be submitted to the 62d annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Labor in session here.

"Many workers have been virtually forced to remain at their jobs against their will and have been forced to stay at jobs where their maximum skill has not been employed," the proposed resolution on WMC regulations charges. "The regulation which requires them to remain out of work for 60 days has gravely retarded the war effort where these persons have sought to become free agents again."

Thomas O'Malley, regional director of the wage and hour division, told the 1,200 delegates at today's session that in Illinois "we have had child labor cases in which the war has been used as an excuse for flagrant violations of the law. The only difference is that the children were not forced to work, but were enlisted thru the temptation of high war time wages."

FOUNDRY STRIKE GROWS DESPITE VOTE TO RETURN

Despite a vote of union workers Monday night to return to their jobs at the American Car and Foundry company plant, 2417 S. Paulina st., yesterday morning, a company spokesman said last night the strike list had grown to 550. Five hundred workers, members of the United Auto Workers, local 453 [CIO], struck Monday in protest against delay by the national war labor board in approving a new contract.

A sympathy strike lasting one day, called by the Chicago Truck Drivers' union, local 705, an independent union, at the Motor Express company, 2219 Wabash av., ended yesterday. Two hundred workers at the Dodge Chicago plant who struck Monday also returned to work after a meeting at which company and union officials ironed out the strikers' grievances, Henry Tough, president of Union Auto Workers, local 274 [CIO], announced.

At the Western Felt works, 4115 Ogden av., 300 workers, most of them women, yesterday continued an unauthorized strike on a complaint that their new contract was signed by a personnel manager instead of a company official and in a renewed protest against Joseph Pittner of 2139 Cortland st., a general foreman, whom they accuse of being too familiar with employes of the opposite sex. The workers are members of the Textile Workers of America, local 190 [CIO].

NEGRO REVEALS BRIDE SLAYING, CHIEF REPORTS

Tells of Killing Army Cadet's Wife.

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 3 (AP).—Police Commissioner W. P. Screws announced today that Worley James, 32, a Negro, had confessed the slaying of Mrs. Lynn C. Drew, 19, of Decatur, Ill., bride of an aviation cadet, on the night of June 15.

Screws said the Negro first told his story to City Detective Sam Stearns and Sgt. James O. Keefe of the Maxwell field guard squadron and later repeated it in the presence of the commissioner, a minister, and several others.

Denies Rape.

Screws said James denied that he raped the woman, who came here from Decatur three weeks before her nude body was found at the bottom of a suburban drainage ditch. Coroner M. B. Kirkpatrick asserted following an examination of the body shortly after its discovery that she had been ravished.

The Negro was arrested several weeks ago in Muncie, Ind., and returned here to answer two charges of raping Negro women. The commissioner said James gave this version of the slaying.

He had noticed Mrs. Drew for the first time in downtown Montgomery and acquainted himself with her lodging place with the thought of robbing her. He said that on the night in question he concealed himself in some shrubbery and accosted her as she turned into the driveway.

She walked across the road with him, the story continued, and when she called for help he told her to lower her voice. When she did not, he slapped her and she fell into the ditch.

Knife Pierces Heart.

At the bottom of the ditch, James continued, as quoted by Screws, he warned that if she did not stop screaming he would have to kill her.

"I just said that to scare her" James was quoted. "I just meant to stick her with the knife but I stuck her a little too deep."

A post-mortem examination showed the knife pierced Mrs. Drew's heart.

No formal charge has been filed against James in connection with the slaying. Screws said the case would be taken directly to the grand jury.

Mrs. Drew the former Esther Thomalla, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomala of Decatur.

PURSE STOLEN FROM DESK.

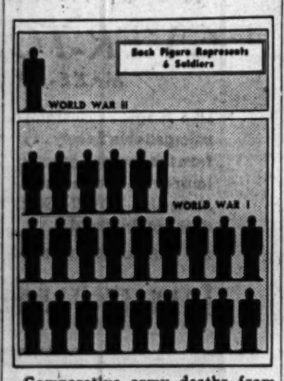
'44 Miracle: Six Sick Die Now in Army While 141 Died in '17

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 3 (AP).—Only about six men in every 10,000 in the army die of disease now compared with 141 in the first World war, Maj. Gen. George F. Lull, deputy surgeon general, announced today.

In an address before the ninth national assembly of the International College of Surgeons, Lull said the death rate from all diseases, with the exception of deaths due to influenza epidemic, dropped from 14.1 [per 1,000 army strength] in World War I. to 0.6 at the present time.



Comparative army deaths from disease in World War II. and World War I.

While Lull did not expand on the influenza statement, it is evident from previously published figures that inclusion of flu death rates of the first World war would increase the over-all disease death rate for that war considerably. The OWI has reported there were approximately 25,000 deaths in the fighting forces from epidemic influenza in that war.

New York, Oct. 3 (AP).—From 75 to 90 per cent of winter's common respiratory diseases have been prevented in more than 650,000 service men by use of a small daily dose of sulfadiazine.

This is the longest medical step yet made toward turning winter into summer, as to disease, and was reported to the American Public health association today by Comdr. Alvin F. Coburn, Washington, of the navy, and Capt. Richard C. Hodges, army air forces, Sioux Falls, S. D.

In the navy more than 60,000 men were given the sulfa preventive. In the army air forces 50,000. In both groups large numbers of men were given nothing, to compare with and validate the sulfa results. In both groups the results were almost identical.

Scarlet fever and strep throat were reduced by 85 per cent. All other streptococcus infections were similarly reduced. Meningitis was wiped out in some camps and reduced to almost zero everywhere.

The common cold and other respiratory infections were also strikingly decreased. But there is a puzzle concerning the common cold.

Colds are supposed to be caused by a virus, rather than by germs. Both reports agreed that sulfadiazine apparently does not affect the virus. Capt. Hodges suggested that the apparent improvement in colds could be due to the sulfa knocking out the germs which usually become active and cause some misery in addition to the cold virus.

DAY by DAY on the FARM

By BEN MARKLAND

Oct. 3, 1944.

THE Aberdeen-Angus cattle are complaining about the restaurant service on the Wheaton farm. Like city people in crowded dining rooms, the Angus stand in line for more than an hour before the waiters bring them their noon meal, and they dislike that.

The cattle spend most of their time grazing in an open wood lot near the southwest corner of the farm. Around 11:30 each morning the herdsman unloads a supply of silage into their feed bunks near the barn yard, but instead of grazing in the pasture until feeding time the cows and calves start coming in around 10 o'clock and then have to wait more than an hour for dinner to be served.

Lonely Calf Stymied.

We watched the Angus' display of impatience the other morning. A few minutes before 10 o'clock the first cow trudged thru the rain to the south edge of the woods and then headed east toward the barn yard. The rest of the herd followed the leader, and by 10:15 the whole gang was milling around the feed bunks and bawling for service. For an hour they jostled and bawled, then came the truck with their one course meal.

There were two absentees from the dinner table, a cow and her half grown calf. The youngster had somehow gotten thru or around the wire fence separating the pasture from a grain field, and at meal time couldn't remember how to get back where he belonged. While the rest of the herd went toward the barn yard, the lonesome calf stood at the fence and wailed for sympathy.

Mother Remains Loyal.

The cow detected her offspring's predicament, went back, and stood just inside the fence. Several times she glanced toward the rest of the animals as they moved toward the feed bunks, but a sense of family loyalty kept her with her calf until the herd returned from its meal.

Along the farm road that borders the Angus' current pasture are several varieties of wild asters, including the large, dark purple New England aster and the light purple Drummond aster.

One day last week we found an unusual member of this wild flower family growing as a weed in the large vegetable garden. It was the rosy aster, which is similar to the New England, but has a rose colored flower head about 2 inches in diameter. This is one of the most colorful of all the 75 wild asters that grow in North America.

★ The GARDEN ★

COMPOSTING, as discussed in this space the last few days, is of main concern to the gardener whose plot has a heavy soil that needs addition of compost material to break up the clay particles and make the ground more friable. Well rotted compost also is the best substitute for animal manure for sandy soils.

Light soils can be just as productive as soils of normal texture, especially for root crops, potatoes, and vine crops. In some areas, however, the problem is that of adding substance to the topsoil to slow the drainage process and keep the gardens from drying too fast in midsummer heat spells. Rotted cow manure is best for this purpose, but when that is not available compost is the first substitute.

Gardeners who started a compost heap last fall can add the matter to their sandy plots this fall before spading.

BLAMES MINERS FOR BRITAIN'S COAL SHORTAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 3.—Britain's coal shortage is critical and unless speedily improved will seriously endanger the war effort and cause much domestic hardship this winter, Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, minister of fuel, told the house of commons today. Despite the increase in miners' wages granted by the government last April, he said, output has fallen by 560 pounds weekly per man, due mainly to a 25 per cent increase in absenteeism. Lloyd George said the only real immediate remedy lay in the hands of the miners themselves. He disclosed that Britain had stopped sending coal to Argentina and that none had been sent to Italy since January.

DONNELLEY PACT ON DIVORCE GETS AIRING IN COURT

Whether the agreement of Thorne Donnelley, vice president and secretary of the Reuben H. Donnelley corporation, now a lieutenant commander in the navy, to pay his divorced wife, Mrs. Helen Pauling Donnelley, $30,000 a year for life, is void because it was against public policy was argued yesterday before Judge William R. Dusher of Rockford, sitting in Circuit court at Waukegan.

The agreement was contained in an out of court property settlement at the time of the divorce in 1931. Recently Mrs. Donnelley brought suit to collect $177,262.18 in back alimony. In a motion to dismiss his former wife's suit Donnelley contended the agreement was against public policy because it stimulated a divorce and therefore was void.

Jay Fred Reeve and J. B. Martineau of the Chicago law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin & Ellis, appearing for Donnelley, submitted a 35 page brief in support of this position.

Judge Dusher then gave Attorneys Werner W. Schroeder and Thomas J. Finnegan of Chicago and A. F. Beaubien of Waukegan, representing Mrs. Donnelley, until Oct. 23 to file a reply brief, and gave Donnelley's attorneys until Nov. 2 to file a brief in rebuttal.

Time has made it America's Quality Beer

A great book ::: a prize binding ::: give evidence of something more than fine craftsmanship alone. They are products of time ::: painstakingly devoted to superb achievement. Likewise the brewing of Old Style Lager reflects a great deal more than the mere routine of gathering and processing materials. To brew as we do, calls for the unhurried use of time. From the selection of sun-ripened grains to the final extra-ageing by our krausening method, the brewing of Old Style Lager is marked by care and deliberation. Nearly a century of experience guides the brewing of Old Style Lager ::: and has created the standard that has made it "America's Quality Beer"!

JUDGE ACQUITS COOPER IN HOTEL BEDROOM PARTY

3 Others Freed; Verdict Criticizes Minor Girls.

BY KAY CLANCY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 3.—Referee Albert L. Doyle today invoked the doctrine of "reasonable doubt" in freeing ex-Film Star Jackie Cooper and three others of charges of contributing to the delinquency of two minor girls at a hotel bedroom dancing and drinking party here last July 22.

In a decision which was sharply critical of the minor girls, one 15 and the other 16, and of their parents, Referee Doyle, who presides in the Juvenile court here, asserted that altho "technically" he could convict one or more of the defendants, he did not wish to be technical, but "only to be just."

Freed with the former child screen actor were Pauline Frederick, 19, daughter of a local sign painter; George Bender, a fellow V-12 naval trainee with Cooper at the University of Notre Dame, and Ollie Lowers, a Negro waiter at the hotel.

Cooper Thanks Judge.

Cooper's eyes filled with tears as he heard the verdict exonerating him. He expressed thanks to the judge, then put his arm around Miss Frederick, who was sobbing, and led her to a small room off the judge's chambers where her parents waited.

Admirers of the former film star, whose last picture before he entered the navy was a warning against juvenile delinquency entitled "Where Are Your Children?" jammed hallways of the courthouse waiting for the decision. They cheered Cooper when he left the courtroom.

"There are two types of girls in this world," the referee said in his decision, "those who cannot be picked up by strangers and those who can. If all girls were of the former variety cases such as this never would occur. But, unfortunately, some parents fail or refuse to teach their daughters the sanctity of mind and person, or those daughters fail or refuse to heed the teaching."

Seduction Story Unsupported.

Reviewing the evidence, the judge said the hotel party lasted no more than an hour and a half and that those attending had only one or two drinks each. He said the testimony of the 15 year old girl [whose identity was shielded by the court, as was that of her 16 year old companion] that she was seduced by Bender was unsupported by other evidence.

The referee then dwelt on the question of whether the character of the 15 year old girl was such that anything which might have happened at the party could have contributed to her delinquency.

"She admitted upon being questioned that on occasion in her own home she had been served small portions of beer, wine, and whisky," he commented. "She maintained that this alleged immoral act in the hotel was the first in her lifetime, but she experienced no pain or discomforture. The report of her own personal physician disclosed there was no injury.

Referring to the 16 year old girl and her testimony that she had "one and a fraction" of drinks at the party, the referee asserted that, except for this, the party, as far as she was concerned, was "a perfectly innocent affair."

The referee based his not guilty finding in regard to Lowery on a ruling that the proprietor rather than an employe of a place selling liquor should be held responsible for serving liquor to minors.

SEDITION TRIAL LAWYER ASSAILS HOUNDING OF FBI

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3. — A charge that the federal bureau of investigation is "hounding" sedition trial defendants, thereby depriving them of Washington jobs they must have to make a living during the trial, was made in a motion filed with Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher in District court today.

Ira Chase Koehne, attorney for three of the defendants, who filed the motion, asserted that the court would be warranted in holding such conduct as summary contempt. He said that the defendants are presumed to be innocent until convicted and that any conduct by the FBI that causes them to be discriminated against deprives them of their constitutional rights.

Asks Protection.

Asking Justice Eicher to protect the defendants from "persecutions and discriminatory acts," Koehne said the cases of Lois de Lafayette Washburn of Chicago and Frank W. Clark of Tacoma, Wash., are typical of the difficulties the FBI creates for the defendants.

Because many of the defendants live far from Washington, he explained, they have had to find employment to support themselves since the trial opened six months ago. He charged that they are constantly shadowed by FBI agents.

Two Lose Jobs.

When they get a job, he charged, the FBI makes inquiries, discloses their identities, and causes their connection with the trial to become known.

The trial, in recess today, will go on a new time shift tomorrow so that the defense attorneys, most of them court appointed and serving without fees, will have an opportunity to conduct their own practices in the morning. Heretofore the sessions have been held from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. four days a week. The new schedule will be from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m.

A RATION BOARD HEAD ADMITS HE HOLDS PAC POST

The Lawyers' Committee to Prevent Unlawful Political Activity yesterday revealed information concerning a ration board chairman, also a high school teacher on leave, who is a member of Sidney Hillman's CIO Political Action committee.

The Lawyers' committee, headed by Atty. Philip R. Davis, is investigating reports of political activities by federal employes in violation of the Hatch clean politics act. Most of the information obtained thus far and turned over to Atty. Lawrence C. Mills for further inquiry deals with activities by payrollers in the office of price administration.

The school teacher is Frank Annunzio, chairman of OPA ration board 40-42 at 815 Polk st. Attorneys Davis and Mills said that he is on special leave from his school post and that in addition to his PAC connection he is a representative of the United Steel Workers' union. Annunzio said he was a union "fieldman" and admitted he "makes addresses on behalf of the Political Action committee." Annunzio has been a shops teacher since 1935 and last year taught at Lane Technical High school.

ENGINEERS O. K. 2 NEW BRIDGES ON NORTH SIDE

Plans for post-war construction of two new bridges over the north branch of the Chicago river, at Diversey pkwy. and at Fullerton av., have been approved by the city engineering board of review, Mayor Kelly said yesterday. The board also has approved proposed new bridges at Grand av., State st., and Canal st.

Twin spans are planned at Diversey pkwy., the north span to connect Diversey pkwy. and Diversey av., and the south one to connect Diversey pkwy. and Logan blvd. The present Grand av. bridge will be floated by barge to Diversey and used as one of the spans. Traffic ramp loops will be built at the west approach to the twin bridges. Cost of the Diversey bridge improvement will exceed $800,000.

A bridge 44 feet wide will be built at Fullerton av. to replace the present bridge, which is 19 feet four inches wide. It is more than 50 years old and one of the few swing bridges still in use in Chicago. The new bridge will cost $900,000.

REPORTS THREE SUITS STOLEN.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Al Young, Allentown, Pa.]

THE QUESTION.

WHERE ASKED.

THE ANSWERS.

Duke Ellington, New York.—Back in the '20s every one was very conscious and tried to imitate his strong symphonic style, with big fanfare and serious sounding music. We were broadcasting from New York and with every one else imitating Whiteman our simple style of music stood out like a sore thumb.

Harry Carney, New York.—As a child I studied piano and decided to give it up because I couldn't play jazz. Jazz and classical music just didn't mix. So in 1924 I joined a band that furnished the instruments and started playing a clarinet. Then mother bought me a sax and that was just the instrument for me.

Joseph Nanton, 6246 South Park av.—There were about 30 of us boys in the Boy Scout troop. The local church bought some musical instruments and asked us if we'd like to start a band. The priest asked me if I would play a trombone. If it hadn't been for that I probably wouldn't have taken up music as a career.

Lawrence Brown, Los Angeles, Cal.—I was playing in a band at the Cotton club in Los Angeles one night when Irving Mills, Duke's manager, heard me play. He asked me then, in 1932, if I would like to come and play with Duke Ellington's band. I left on the following Saturday to join this band, and I've been with it ever since.

Rex Stewart, New York.—My dad was a violinist and he wanted me to take violin lessons, but I wasn't enthusiastic. So he bought me a trumpet instead and paid for my music lessons. I really became attached to that trumpet. I'm glad my father didn't give up just because I didn't like the violin, or I probably would not be here.

WAR FUND DRIVE KICK-OFF HELD BY NORTH SIDE

The north side district—region 2—of the Community War Fund drive, held its "kick-off" meeting last night in the Belden-Stratford hotel, and vowed to meet its goal of $268,000. The district covers the area from Kinzie st. on the south to the north city limits, and between the river and the lake.

More than 500 section chairmen, district captains, and workers attended. James R. Sterling, region chairman, presided. Elmer T. Stevens, fund president, and Owen L. Coon, chairman of the city division, spoke.

A special speaker was Robert Uselton, 23, of Dallas, Tex., a navy soundman, 3d class, who participated in the historic capture of Tarawa. He said the U. S. O. shows made possible by the Community and War fund were vital morale builders among men in service.

EX-GRAND JUROR FACES ARREST IN RATION ROW

William H. McGreevy, 43 of 6309 Kenmore av., failed to appear in Town Hall court yesterday to answer charges that he struck a member of his rationing board for refusing to allow him gasoline to drive to the Criminal court building while he was a member of the September grand jury. Atty. Francis Healy said McGreevy, a jewelry salesman, was out of the city, and Judge John R. McSweeney forfeited his $25 bond and ordered a warrant issued for his arrest. The complainant against McGreevy was Thomas H. Litvin of 1512 Chase av., a member of rationing board No. 49 at 6358 Broadway.

Dennis Dybicz, 14 weeks old baby whose mother, Mrs. Betty Jane Dybicz, is awaiting trial on a charge of attempting to kill him, was released from the County hospital yesterday to his father, Chester, 25, a war worker. The child was beaten on Aug. 10 and 16 and suffered fractures of the skull, the collarbone, the left leg and arm, and ribs.

It takes a FLAME to broil right

"Cooking with Gas" means a mouthful to Mrs. Christiansen and her family—a juicy mouthful. It means that her steaks and chops are broiled the way famous chefs do it—under a flavor-sealing flame.

The clean GAS flame has always offered positive advantages in roasting, baking, frying, and boiling, and will continue to do so. For speed, flexibility, cleanliness, and economy, do as Mrs. Christiansen, famous chefs, and nearly a million Chicago housewives do—cook with a GAS flame.

Drop in at 122 S. Michigan Ave., and see the wide variety of modern GAS ranges set in beautiful, modern kitchens. See the time and work-saving oven temperature controls, smokeless speed broilers, simmer burners, giant burners, automatic oven lighting, automatic clock controls for "absentee" cooking, and oven insulation to keep you cool while you cook. Then you'll really want a Modern Gas Range in your kitchen when they are again available to the general public. You'll understand why, in Chicago homes using modern cooking equipment, more than 98% are "Cooking with Gas!"

As a war-minded homemaker who takes pride in managing your kitchen with thrift and who believes nutritious meals can be served in wartime in spite of food restrictions, you'll want to check your score against this wartime food quiz . . :

1. Do you prepare foods too far ahead? This spoils taste, reduces vitamins in juices, vegetables, fruits, and meats.

2. Do you overcook food? Meats shrink, lose vitamins when cooked too long or at too high a temperature.

3. Do you refrigerate foods promptly? This prevents vitamin loss. Buying too much often results in spoilage.

4. Do you let vegetables stand too long in water? This dissolves mineral and vitamin content, destroys nourishment.

5. Do you pare your vegetables? Cook vegetables in their skins for best food value. Pare thinly if at all.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills

White Collar GIRL

Woman Banker.

She comes from Trenton, N. J., where George Washington crossed the Delaware, and where—some 160 years later—a woman crossed the chasm that separated men and women in banking. For, until Mary G. Roebling became chairman of the board of the Trenton Trust company, no woman had held a similiar position in a bank of any considerable size in the United States.

Since 1936 she has built the bank deposits from 19 million dollars to 54 million, yet of her success she speaks naturally and frankly. She found herself a widow with two children and financial affairs that needed guidance. There was something for her to do, she says. She did it, as a matter of course. That there was deep satisfaction in it you can tell from the intent level gaze she turns upon the world, a gaze that reveals so much of her own nature—her love of people and enjoyment of working with them. Others have said that Mary Roebling looks thru you. I do not think so. She looks into you.

Breakfast.

There was a breakfast ready in her suite at the hotel where she was stopping during a brief Chicago visit. Three orchids—count 'em—lay on a desk. No Hollywood movie star ever looked trimmer than she in her oxford grey suit with her stunning jewelry—a handwrought gold clip and earrings to match, also in the shape of orchids.

She has lived her life, she told me, within a 30 mile radius of Trenton. As a child her father, a man of brilliant gifts, was her companion and tutor. Her brothers, botn doctors, now are in the navy, one a full commander. The family came to life as she talked: The nurse, for example, in the home when she was born, still is with Mrs. Roebling.

When she came into her official position in the bank it was not without preparation. Before marriage she had worked in a brokerage firm and had sought instruction in each department of the firm's business. Hers was an eagerness born of "all the things," as she describes it, "I didn't understand."

Looking Ahead.

Looking ahead she feels that women who have demonstrated their fitness for their positions [over 60 per cent of bank employes in the United States now are women] are going to be loathe to relinquish their gains after the war . . . thinks that all women should be fitted for something useful "to pay rent for the space we take up in the world" . . . believes that women—at last—are beginning to work together and cooperate better . . . advises the newcomer to the business world to find the thing she likes best, "because that is the thing she will do best" . . . thinks that the totally useless woman belongs to the middle ages . . . and believes that business experience helps a woman grow. "Some people just swell up and don't grow up," she said as I left her all too reluctantly, walking down the street thinking to myself that Mary Roebling is a brilliant and charming woman—definitely on the credit side of the ledger labeled "feminine progress."

Child Judges Misdemeanor by the Rebuke

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

When a mother has the constant care of her children; when she is with them hour after hour, day after day, it's easy for her to fall into the habit of making mountains out of molehills. This applies to fathers, sometimes, too. In fact, when you're close to any situation it's easy to lose your sense of perspective, your sense of relative values.

So I think people who are with their children all the time tend to make too much of their little failings, to make an issue of things which do not deserve it.

All our children have what we consider real faults, and consequently they do at times things which seem to us worthy of serious rebuke. When this time comes, it is all right to bring all your resources of influence to bear upon your child. But don't waste them on the trivial misdemeanors of childhood—which is after all, a period of learning.

There are two bad effects of doing this latter thing. One is that you tend in that way to make your child lose his sense of values, besides making him feel himself constantly in your displeasure. If you reprove him as seriously for slamming doors as you do for telling an untruth, he will be apt to feel that the two things are equally important. All offenses are then on the same level to him.

Another serious reason for not making an issue where none is involved is that, like the overly enthusiastic story teller, you are using up all your ammunition on the skirmishes and have nothing left for the big climax. Or, as they say in rhetoric, "everything is so striking that nothing strikes."

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

In early auction days the advice generally given to a lady in doubt was to lead trump. A case was once reported to me of a young woman who, for three seasons, had an uninterrupted string of trump openings.

In recent years a fifth column has been engaged in a vicious propaganda campaign, calculated to spread the doctrine that prosperity will be brought about by leading thru the dummy's suit. While no strict rules can be laid down to govern these cases, and while it is true that under certain conditions the lead of dummy's suit is indicated, nevertheless, in the long run, you will find it more profitable to lead suits that the opposition has not mentioned.

In today's hand West by logical deduction hit upon the one lead to defeat the contract of three no trump. The bidding was sound. While South had the proper distribution and honor strength for a bid of one no trump, his complete lack of protection in hearts induced him to open with one diamond. North elected to respond with his shorter heart suit. Since his hand was not particularly strong, he preferred not to increase the contract by naming his longer club suit. Furthermore, since the texture of the club suit was so thin, he preferred to treat these suits as tho they were of equal length. South's rebid was quite properly only one no trump. Many players make the mistake of bidding two no trump at this point because they have a little more than the opening bid. This is improper. Since North's response may contain only one trick, caution should be exercised until it is determined that partner has some strength. After North's bid of two clubs, South used his excess values as a reason for jumping to three no trump.

Had West chosen to lead the unbid spade suit, the contract would easily have been fulfilled. But he realized that the only entries dummy could have for the club suit were no doubt in hearts, and if these entries were attacked, it might be possible to prevent the run of the clubs after they became established. With that definite purpose in mind, the 10 of hearts was led. When West regained the lead with a club, he continued with a heart, depriving dummy of its last entry. By merely holding up one round of clubs West was able to shut the dummy out and declarer was held to seven tricks.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM.

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

I am rather completely baffled this morning by the mystery of what has happened to "The Cherry Orchard." When the production then credited jointly to Margaret Webster and Eva Le Gallienne opened in New York last January, several reviewers described it as slapstick Chekhov directed for laughs at any cost. Most of the blame went to Miss Webster, perhaps because Miss Le Gallienne's earlier Chekhov at the Civic Repertory hadn't been like that.

At any rate, the direction was modified and when I saw the New York company in February it was giving a beautiful play the compliment, not of a Moscow Art Theater production—that would be too much to expect—but of a performance touched with tenderness and gentle wit and a kind of mellowed charm. But now "The Cherry Orchard" is at the Blackstone, with Miss Webster's name withdrawn as director, and it has gone slapstick as a comic strip. There were plenty of times when I agreed fervently with Charlotta Ivanovna's tart remark about the antics of Dunyasha, Yasha and Epihodov. If you have forgotten, she says, "I've had enough. I'm going."

What happened to the direction is a mystery, but what happened to the playing is as plain as the cast in the playbill. Miss Le Gallienne and Mr. Schildkraut have come to Chicago with just 13 changes of cast, and two of them hold their own with the eastern troupe. Carmen Matthews gives a rich and resourceful performance as Varya, so that wasting her is criminal, like throwing away good bread. And Hugh Franklin has the conviction to carry the creed of the student Petya, who is Chekhov's mouthpiece, in his belief in the future.

But on the other side of the picture, take the crucial role of Firs, the faithful old valet. He was played superbly in New York by A. G. "Bogey" Andrews, who left a memory that was the very fragrance of the play. He is played here by Horace Sinclair in a palsied "he, he, he" type of stock performance utterly unconvincing. And how any director could countenance Kenneth Tobey's caricature of Yasha is more than I can hope to guess, much less explain.

So you have a lovely play of the greatest delicacy and charm cherished by a few players and bruised beyond recognition by the others. Miss Le Gallienne's dispossessed chatelaine is less glowing and more brittle than when I saw her before, and the lighting plays havoc with her makeup. But occasionally the graciousness of her playing touches off memorable Chekhov, particularly when she is foil and counterfoil to Mr. Schildkraut, who continues to give an impeccable performance as the vague aristocrat who finds imaginary billiards more real than life.

The Motley set of the shabby nursery with a suggestion of the doomed cherry orchard is an effective major setting, and the English translation is clear, tho it misses some of the Russian evocations. But none of it can comfort me that Chicago is getting cheated of what, for at least a part of last season, was Chekhov worth reviving.

You Know Boy Is All Right, So Ignore Gossip

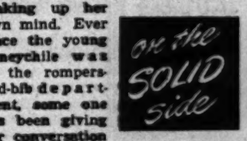
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

There comes a time in every gal's life when she has to start making up her own mind. Ever since the young honeychile was in the rompers-and-bib department, some one has been giving her conversation about what to eat, what to wear, and when to put out the lights for the night. And all of a sudden she turns up a full-grown doll, but king-sized, with problems she must decide for herself. And any gal over 16 is old enough to know Friday from Saturday.



Here's a letter from a teen-aged girl who's getting off the beam because she can't make up her own mind and it goes this way:

"Recently I have been dating a boy who goes to our school and I have been having loads of good, clean fun. Mother and Dad both approve of everything about him but—and it's a big 'but'—he has a reputation around our very small school of being fast. From the beginning of our friendship I made it clear that I was one girl who didn't want to neck, ever, and apparently he respected me for it. He has always been a perfect gentleman. But the fellows and girls in a small school seem to think that if you go with a boy with a past 'record' you, too, must be that type. All the fellows and girls know me well but what can I do to make them believe that I am a nice girl and that he has been wonderful since he's been dating me? Or would I be more wise just to give him up? He's really a good fellow and everything is strictly 'lights on' all the time but—well, people will talk."

Chances are, 10 to one, this Joe's past "record" is nothing but idle chatter that started rolling when the nightmare gang got together. Always judge a friend by what you know about him, not by what you might hear. And if this young jackson is your friend, stick by him without making excuses for him or for yourself. This might be the first time your sincerity and capacity for friendship has been put to test; decide now that you are capable of making your own decisions.

Groups Interested in Foreign Affairs Will Hold Meetings

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE next few days will be crammed with meetings and parties which will keep Chicagoans interested in China, Sweden, Greece, and Great Britain busy. The largest and most gala of these events will be a celebration of the 33d anniversary of the founding of the republic of China at 8:15 p. m. Monday in Orchestra hall, when the speakers will be Gen. Shang Chen, chief of the Chinese military mission to the United States and a veteran of seven years of the Japanese war, and Donald M. Nelson, former head of WPB, who just has returned from a government mission to China.

Gen. Shang is described by James M. Cleary, chairman of United China Relief, which will receive the proceeds from the evening, as "jolly and fluent, and one who will give the public a different idea of the Chinese war lord." He was among those who conferred with President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in Cairo, and will be introduced at the rally by Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell.

All boxes already have been sold.

To celebrate China's Independence day, Oct. 10, Cheng Pao-nan, director of the Chinese News services, will give a small reception for Gen. Shang at the International Relations center next Tuesday. Gen. Shang and his two aides will stay with the Ronald P. Boardmans in Lake Forest. With the Chinese consul in Chicago, Dr. Chang-lok Chen, and other distinguished members of the Chinese colony, they will be among the guests at a dinner the governors of the American Friends of China are giving at the Casino club before the celebration Monday.

Other Future Events.

Miss Elsa Pehrson, who has been in the United States for five years as a Swedish correspondent, and is about to return to Stockholm, will address the American-Scandinavian Foundation at 4:30 p. m. Monday at the International Relations center, with "Swedish Modern" as her subject. Her illustrated talk will be followed by tea.

Appearing before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at luncheon at 12:15 p. m. Oct. 18 at the La Salle hotel will be the Greek minister of information, Andre Michalopoulos, who has visited Chicago several times, and has many friends here. An advocate of harsh terms for Germany, he spoke last May before the Greek committee to aid the Immigrants' Protective league, and the American Friends of Greece. He is coming from Washington, D. C., to discuss "The Future of the Balkans."

The English Speaking union has cards out for a luncheon meeting at 12:15 p. m. Friday next week at the Blackstone, at which Harold Beresford Butler, director of the British Information Services, will speak on "Britain After Five Years of War." He recently returned to Washington, D. C., after a visit in England.

Wedding News.

A number of Lake Foresters were in Rochester, Minn., Saturday for the marriage of Miss Mary Eileen Smith, daughter of Mrs. Cecilia Smith of Rochester, to Lt. William W. Haerther Jr. of the navy, son of Lt. Haerther, also of the navy, and Mrs. Haerther. The ceremony took place in Lourdes' chapel, with a reception following at the Woman's club. Lt. Haerther and his bride have gone to Ventura, Cal., near his post at Port Hueneme.

Among the guests at the wedding were the bridegroom's parents, who now live in Mobile, Ala., where Lt. Haerther Sr. is stationed; his uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice V. Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. G. William Reynolds, and their daughters, Vallee and Kay; the Harold Giffords, the Howard Emigs, and the Otto W. Lehmans, all of Lake Forest and Chicago. Also present was the bridegroom's brother, Daniel, who served as best man, and their grandmother and aunt, Mrs. Emily Haerther and Mrs. Harry Tily of Philadelphia.

Here and There.

Friends of Lt. and Mrs. Roland K. Smith Jr. [Martha Lee] will be interested to hear that the nursery of their new home in Chevy Chase, Md., now has an occupant, a 10 months' old girl, named Susan, adopted just a few days ago. Lt. Smith is stationed in Washington, D. C., with the navy.

So that a magnificent gift of 674 early 19th century books, mainly of English origin, which Mrs. James Ward Thorne has given to the Art institute of Chicago, may be seen to advantage, the institute will show a different group of prints and books each month. The collection, which is the most important of its kind in the United States, will be on view in a special case in the print department.

Engagements.

Mrs. M. Allen Fisher of La Grange announces the engagement of her daughter, Elizabeth-Ann, to David Barker MacFarland of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Frederic MacFarland of Dearborn, Mich. Mr. MacFarland, who attended the University of Michigan until the time of his enlistment, just has finished his course in the radio school at Treasure Island, San Francisco, Cal., and is at home on leave. His fiancée, a senior at Randolph Macon Woman's college in Lynchburg, Va., has come north to spend his leave with him and his parents in Dearborn. She is the daughter of Lt. Col. Frank Fullerton Fisher, who is stationed at Truax field, Madison, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Seng of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Janice, to Lt. Theodore F. Shaker of the marine air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elias Shaker, also of Evanston. Miss Seng attended Penn Hall Junior college and Denison university. Her fiancé, who studied at Colgate university, has reported for overseas duty.

Members of the St. Luke's fashion show committee who attended a tea and cocktail party yesterday at the Buttery of the Ambassador West received an informal preview of the jewels to be shown at the annual St. Luke's fashion show Oct. 18 in the Stevens hotel.

The jewels first appeared on the red velvet chest of an anonymous masculine master of ceremonies, dressed in plush red and a horse's head to emulate "Mrs. Astor's Plush Horse." As he described the jewels in verse, several of the St. Luke's mannequins, headed by Mrs. Alanson Donald, appeared and plucked off various clips, rings, and earrings to be modeled for the guests.

Miss Betty Bennett illustrated the manner in which jewels can "make" a costume by dramatizing a simple gray chiffon dinner dress with two diamond, aquamarine, and ruby clips; a half inch diamond bracelet, three ruby bracelets, two rings, and ruby and aquamarine earrings. Miss Betty Lawford, whom some of the guests had seen Monday in the opening night performance of "The Voice of the Turtle," dropped in for the party. Some of the others present included Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, chairman of the huge benefit; Mrs. Frank Hibbard, Mrs. Gordon P. Kelley, Mrs. Allyn D. Warren, Mrs. Marshall G. Sampsell, and Mrs. Seymour Wheeler. The party was planned by Mrs. Watson McLallen, chairman of the show's publicity committee.

Chutney Is Made Quickly and Adds Zest to Meals

1. Pare, core, and cut up 12 tart apples. Scald 12 medium green tomatoes in boiling water for 1 minute, dip in cold water, and skin. While not absolutely necessary to skin tomatoes, texture of chutney is improved.

2. Put apples and tomatoes thru food chopper with 4 medium onions, 1 cup seeded raisins, 2 seeded green peppers, using coarse blade of grinder. Add 1 quart cider vinegar, 2 cups brown sugar, 2 tablespoons salt.

3 Season with 2 tablespoons dry mustard, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, ½ cup chopped candied ginger. Heat to boiling, pour into hot sterilized jars and seal air tight. Do not use paraffin.

4 This quickly made chutney uses readily available and low cost ingredients. As a spicy accompaniment for all kinds of meat it will pep up meals on wintry days ahead. (Recipe makes 9 pints.)

Doll Line Is Best Since Start of War

BY REA SEEGER.

Little brown or blue eyed girls are in for a treat. New dolls, in one of the best and most varied collections since before the war, have arrived in time for early Christmas shoppers. You have to see them to really gloat over the array. After months of almost negligible supplies, this collection makes shopping headlines. But interested shoppers have no time to lose, for already the painted beauties are going fast.

The most sensational doll is the rag doll with flaxen tresses. She has two neat pigtails, one over each shoulder. The face is demure and lifelike. The huggable body is of flesh colored cotton with babyish dimpled contours. It is a doll to clutch and love all day thru, and a wonderful companion for the wee youngster who needs the solace of a doll when she climbs into bed at night, or for a nap.

The other charmer is a baby doll dressed for a christening, with a long, long dress with a lace panel in front, a long petticoat, and a cunning little bonnet trimmed with lace. Baby dolls, considerably shorter in inches but just as cuddly to hold, come with short dresses, bonnets, and little knitted jackets in pink or blue.

Washable dolls for very young babies are ideally fashioned. They are short, stuffed, and of cotton material that can be swished thru suds to keep them sanitary. There also is a cat in either blue or pink that is another ideal crib companion for tiny toddlers or the year old babies.

For an older child, see the exquisitely dressed dolls with china heads, stuffed rag body, and tiny china hands. They're typically Civil war heartbreakers, even to the expertly designed dresses, also of the same period. If you want period dolls, see these and the clever, exotically dressed dolls from Argentina.

Tribune's Fifth Fashion Show Opens Tonight

BY JUNE GESERICK.

Five hundred fashion-wise men and women will gather in W-G-N's studio theater tonight for the first of five presentations of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's American Fashions show.

They will view 37 magnificent costumes, created from winning sketches in a nation-wide contest, and will cast their ballots to decide the grand prize winning designs. The announcement of winners will climax the fifth and final show Friday evening.

The costumes, fashioned of the finest material by skilful craftswomen, will be paraded with all the pomp and elegance befitting the work of the nation's outstanding designers. Atmosphere for the forecast of tomorrow's fashions will be provided by a concert ensemble, under the baton of Henry Weber, W-G-N's musical director.

Some of the designers whose contest entries are in the show are internationally known in the fashion industry. Others never have seen one of their sketches made up into a costume.

To established designers, the presentation of their entries in the show means additional prestige and the possibility of winning a $2,000, $1,000, or $500 grand prize. But to novice entrants, the show is a veritable doorway to opportunity. When their designs, brought to fulfillment in the form of costumes, are paraded down the runway before an exceptionally discerning audience tonight, they will become a real part of the fashion industry.

Should a young designer win one of the grand prizes, he will find himself and his career at a point toward which he otherwise might have struggled for years.

The 1944 show, the fifth to be presented by THE TRIBUNE to inspire American designers, promises to be the best in the contest's history, according to Mrs. Grace Pickering, fashion authority whose guidance has made the shows a nationally anticipated event. Others who have given generously of their skill and ingenuity are Mary Affick of W-G-N, and Rea Seeger, Tribune fashion editor.

All tickets for each of the five performances have been sold. All persons having tickets are urged to appear at W-G-N's studio theater before 8:30 o'clock for the evening shows and 2:15 for the matinees.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Capt. Mildred H. McAfee, national director of the WAVES, last night inspected the new barracks for navy enlisted women at 3145 Sheridan rd., and attended a reception there. Enlisted and commissioned WAVES and navy officers and their wives were among the approximately 400 guests at the open house marking the formal opening of the WAVES quarters, which has 50 rooms and is equipped to accommodate 100 women attached to naval activities in Chicago.

Eighty WAVES already are in residence at the barracks, which has a supervisory staff of 12, including hospital corpsmen. Lt. Margaret Nicholsen is senior officer.

Nine Chicago women recently were graduated from the naval training school for yeomen on the Oklahoma A. & M. university campus at Stillwater, Okla. Selection to attend the specialty school, the curriculum of which included courses in shorthand, typing, filing, and naval office procedures, was made on the basis of the WAVES' civilian experience and on their recruit training aptitude scores.

All nine have reported for duty at naval establishments thruout the United States. Eugenia L. Batcheler, 4825 Sheridan rd.; Madelyne H. Grear, 849 Lill av., and Doris E. McDonnell, 6842 S. Peoria st., are serving on the staff of the commandant of the 11th naval district in San Diego, Cal. Helen E. and Jennie K. Karey, 5222 N. Moody av., are working for the navy in Oakland, Cal., and Elizabeth F. Kennedy, 7205 Yates av., is in the office of the cable censor in San Francisco, Cal.

Eileen B. Melichar, 6618 S. Sacramento av., has been assigned to the naval training center in Bainbridge, Md. In Farragut, Idaho, Gertrude I. Voth, 1525 N. Karlov av., is filling a new assignment, as is Koula X. Davis, 2642 Burling st., in New York City.

The war service committees of the Illinois grand chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, meeting thru today in 70th annual convention in Medinah temple, yesterday reported war bond sales during the last year were allocated to the purchase of bombers, a hospital ship, and four items of diathermy equipment and 300 adjustable hospital beds for military institutions.

The Eastern Star in Illinois has eight Red Cross units active six days a week. The units contributed a total of 400,000 volunteer hours during the year, and directed 1,000 donors to Red Cross blood donor centers. Playing cards for service men also have been provided by war service workers of the O. E. S. in Illinois.

Mrs. T. Kenneth Boyd, vice chairman of the Chicago Red Cross chapter's home service corps, has assumed direction of the prisoner of war information program in this area, it was announced yesterday. Mrs. Boyd already heads the war inquiry department of the chapter.

The next training course for home service volunteers will be held Oct. 24, 25, 27, 31, and Nov. 1 and 3, from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. on scheduled days. A four week period of practice work under trained case workers will follow class instruction. The student may select any two days from Monday thru Friday for this training.

Day time volunteers are especially needed to handle the case load of the corps, which has increased 50 per cent during the last few months.

'The Key'

By Patricia Wentworth

(Copyright: 1944: By Patricia Wentworth Trumbull.)

SYNOPSIS: Michael Harsch, refugee, works on a dangerous experiment. When it is perfected he tells Janice Meade the war office may have the formula. He telephones to Sir George Randal. Late that night Harsch is found, shot thru the head, in the church where he often went to play the organ. The church was locked. Madoc, a fellow scientist with whom Harsch lived, is sole executor and sole legatee. Madoc is a pacifist. Sir George Randal asks Maj. Garth Albany to investigate. Garth arrives, ostensibly to visit his Aunt Sophy, whose new companion is Medora Brown. He learns that Janice Meade is Madoc's secretary; the new rector has Miss Jones' house; the Misses Doncaster are still at Pennycott, but Mary Anne is now an invalid; Mrs. Mottram, a pretty widow with a daughter, 5, is at the Haven; Mr. Everton, who admires the widow, is in Meadowcroft; also that Harsch was in the habit of dropping in to see Miss Brown, a fine musician, and Frederick Bush, the verger, was approached by German agents before the war. Awakened about midnight, Garth sees Medora leave the house and return shortly. Next morning on the stairs he finds a sliver of glass. Janice and Bush found the body. At the inquest Garth sees glass on Madoc's rubber sole. There are four keys to the church, one held by Bush, one by the rector, one by Harsch, and the fourth by Aunt Sophy, whose key is used by Miss Brown, the organist. At a quarter to 10 Sophy heard the shot. Miss Brown used her key Tuesday morning. Garth knows the key was not in its drawer Thursday evening. Verdict given is suicide. To Janet it was out of character for Harsch to take his life. Madoc went out Tuesday evening before 9 and returned at 10 minutes after 10, but Madoc and Harsch were friendly.

POSSIBLE MOTIVES.

Janice got hold of herself. "What makes you think there's anything between Miss Medora Brown and Mr. Madoc?" she asked Garth.

"Well, I just do. Don't you really know anything about it?"

"No, I don't."

"Does he go to Aunt Sophy's?"

"He goes when there's music—sometimes, when he's not busy. He really does love music."

"And Medora is musical."

"What do you mean, Garth? She plays beautifully, and she has a very good voice. There wouldn't be anything wrong if they did like each other."

"Look here, Jan. Last night Aunt Sophy sent me to her left hand bureau drawer for a snapshot of the Pincott girl who had triplets. That's where she keeps her church key, isn't it? Well, it wasn't there. Somewhere after midnight I looked out of my window and I saw Miss Brown come up the garden in the black lace dress she had worn at dinner. You can think she was just taking the air, or you can think she had slipped out into the church cut to meet someone."

"But, Garth—"

"O, she'd been out into the cut all right. Tommy Pincott smashed a milk bottle there yesterday. Miss Brown picked up a splinter, and I found it on the stair carpet before anyone was up this morning. I wondered who she'd been meeting, because I don't think you go out into the cut at midnight just to enjoy your own society. And all in the middle of the inquest I found out, because when your Mr. Madoc crossed his legs I could see the sole of his boot, and he had picked up a splinter too."

"Garth—"

"Wait a minute. When we got back from the inquest I led Aunt Sophy to her bureau drawer to show her that the key wasn't where Miss Brown had just been swearing she put it. And there it was, spang on top of the triplets. Very careless of Medora, but I expect she was feeling flustered. If she'd had the sense to put the key under the photograph she could have sworn it was there all the time, but the only way it could have got on top was the way it did get there. She put it there sometime between bedtime last night and lunchtime today. My own guess is that someone else has had the key since Tuesday, that she's been in a most awful stew about it, and that she went out last night to get it back. I heard the study door creak when she went, and I saw her come back. She wasn't away for more than a quarter of an hour, so she didn't go far. When I saw that Madoc had got a bit of glass stuck in his rubber sole, I thought I knew who it was she had gone to meet, and when I saw that the key was back in Aunt Sophy's drawer, I thought I knew why."

"O, no! He couldn't—he wouldn't! Why should he?"

"Lot of reasons. Take your choice. He had a secret pash for Medora, and he was jealous of Harsch. Then there's the stone-cold, cast-iron fact that he is Harsch's sole executor and legatee."

"Who's talking about money? He left Madoc all his notes, his papers, his formulae. That means harschite. He left it to Madoc. There might be quite a lot of money in it or there might be just the kind of case of conscience a crank would revel in. I gather that Madoc is going to revel all right. His conscience won't let him loose what he calls 'a devil's agent' upon an already tormented world."

"He wouldn't—he wouldn't!"

"My dear, a crank will do anything. I can see Madoc enjoying martyrdom, holding the right hand in the fire in the best traditional manner. He's got zealot written all over him—you've just said yourself that he's the genuine article."

"Don't—don't—it's horrible!"

"Of course it is. That's not my business. I'm here to find out whether it's true. There's more at stake than just catching a murderer, Jan. Harsch was shot immediately after he had completed his last experiment, and immediately before he could hand on the results. The margin of time is a very narrow one. He came in about 6 o'clock on Tuesday. He telephoned to Sir George, who was expecting a message, and made an appointment for Wednesday morning. In less than four hours he was dead. Who knew how near his work was to completion? There had been a paragraph in some of the papers. No one seems to know how it got there, but it didn't really give much away. The only people who knew how near he was to success were Sir George and the experts he was bringing down, but they didn't know that the last experiment had succeeded until Harsch rang up at half past six. Anyone else who knew must have been someone directly in touch with Harsch himself. It comes back to Madoc again."

"You've forgotten about the telephone."

"You mean someone might have listened in. Well, who was there? The housekeeper—Miss Madoc—himself—you. By the way, what's the sister like? She looks harmless."

"Then we're back at Madoc—unless you did it yourself. There wasn't anyone else to listen in, was there?" Then quite suddenly his jaw dropped. "Gosh—I'd forgotten!"

"Yes, I thought you had. We've still got the old party line, and any one of the subscribers could have taken up its receiver and heard what Mr. Harsch was saying to Sir George Randal." Miss Mary Anne Doncaster listens in all the time, like some people do with their wireless. She always took an interest, and now she doesn't go out, it's the one thing she lives for. Perhaps you think she shot Mr. Harsch."

He said quickly, "She doesn't go out—but do people come in?"

"O, yes. What do you mean?"

"I think I would like to find out who saw Miss Doncaster between half past 6 and a quarter to 10."

As he and Janice came into the hall at exactly half past 4, a buzz of voices proceeding from the drawing room informed them that Miss Sophy was having a tea party. Miss Sophy beamed upon her guests and poured out a great many cups of very weak tea. She received Garth and Janice with enthusiams.

"There you are, my dears! And just in time for tea—tho it's so weak it wouldn't matter if it did stand. Garth, I don't think you've met Mr. Everton. He has the most delightful hens—they really never stop laying."

A. P. Chief's New Operetta Will Go on Air

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, is writing a second operetta, part of which is to have its premiere broadcast over the Blue network at 10:30 p. m. Tuesday, Oct. 24. Mr. Cooper's first operetta, titled "About the Girl," was given its premiere last fall on the Chicago Theater of the Air over W-G-N-Mutual.

Mr. Cooper, who became a theater violinist at 14 and then turned to journalism "because the pay was higher," in recent years has written several songs, including "Dixie Girl," which W-G-N introduced. He told yesterday how a commission from the Blue network's creative music fund led to the composition of his newest work.

"I was reading a book on the life of Lola Montez," he said. "I was struck by the potentialities for an operetta based on the life and intrigues of this international figure, when a note came from Paul Lavalle [orchestra leader and composer] asking me for a work for the Contemporary Composers' concerts which Paul Whiteman is presenting. The invitation was immediately accepted and I sketched out an operetta which is still in process. However, the overture is completed and Mr. Lavalle will play it for the first time on Oct. 24."

Lola Montez was born Marie Gilbert in Ireland. She had many exciting adventures on the stage and became the sweetheart of the composer Liszt and a friend of the elder Dumas.

Other composers commissioned to write for the series are Igor Stravinsky, Roy Harris, Ferde Grofe, Morton Gould, and Peter De Rose.

Welsh Woman's Club to Open 15th Season

To mark the opening of its 15th season, the Welsh Woman's club will have a reception and luncheon at 12:15 p. m. today in room 500 of the Fine Arts building. A musical program, arranged by Mrs. William H. Davies, will bring as guest artists Mrs. Estelle Roberts and Miss Pearl Hughes. Mrs. J. Harry Jones is the club's newly elected president.

Doll Clothes

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A crocheted doll's outfit to fit an 18 inch doll is a delightful holiday gift suggestion. All children dote on doll's clothes, and these pieces are simple to create. Directions contain instructions for blouse, pants, suspender skirt, bag, and shoes.

For instructions in crocheting the doll's outfit, No. 818, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Publicity Club Luncheon to Hear Talk by Editor

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 3.—You'll be happy to know that Walt Disney soon will go into production of "Uncle Remus" with Janet Gaynor and John Loder, and with Jack Benny's Rochester playing Remus. They're looking all over for a child. All the humans will be photographed in color. The animals, of course, will be cartoons. . . . Sidney Kingsley is here writing an original for Clark Gable. I wonder if Gable will live long enough to make all the stories that the studio's readying for him. . . . Sidney's wife, Madge Evans [remember her?] will be out as soon as she can close up their home in Jersey. I think it's about time we found a part for Madge. She was mighty popular when she was a screen star. . . . Preston Foster has been borrowed from Twentieth for the war bond part in "Valley of Decision." . . . "High among the Stars" has been retitled "Delightfully Dangerous." The new Connie Moore does a strip tease. She took lessons from the expert, Gypsy Rose Lee.

News About the Young Fry.

At Universal they signed on the second generation to a long term contract. She was Pat O'Malley's daughter, Kathleen. Her first picture will be "Salome, Where She Danced." . . . Ellen Hall will marry Capt. Lee Langer at Christmas time. Ellen is the daughter of Ella, who was a star at Universal in the old silent days. Her father, Arthur Johnson, also was of the films, as was her grandmother, Mary Hall. Her paternal grandmother, Emily Johnson, was a scenario writer. Ellen now is one of the "Diamond Horseshoe" girls, which is by way of saying she's a beauty. . . . Ludwig Bemelmans, who takes off for New York soon, will return Christmas day, because his 9 year old daughter, Barbara, has a part in "Yolanda and the Thief" at Metro.

Just Clearing the Decks.

Many persons have asked me why Howard Hughes disposed of all his household goods at auction. Well, he's getting everything in shipshape form here and wants no strings attached. He's already applied to Washington for a passport to go abroad and look into commercial aviation over there. He has a honey of a new plane which I'm told will make air history. Just as soon as the war is over he's all set to go. As far as pictures are concerned, he's put all of that in the hands of Preston Sturgess, and you must admit no hands are more capable. . . . John Loder, who loves radio and would like to stay in it, has thought up a new idea for himself called "Romance for Sale" and will use the thieves' market in England as a background. It's one of the most glamorous places in London. The story can be either musical, comedy, or drama.

The Otto Krugers celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary Sunday 3,000 miles apart, first time they've ever been separated on an anniversary. Mrs. Kruger is in New York with their daughter, Ottilie, who's in John Van Druten's play, "I Knew Mamma." Otto's here working in "Frisco Kid" at Republic. . . . Orchestra leaders are finding the Biltmore Bowl a lucky steppingstone. Joe Reichman went from there to Paramount's "Out of This World," then signed for a coast to coast show. Along comes Henry King, who was signed for six musical shorts at Universal. . . . Freddie Brisson, Ros Russell's husband, had a good time at Barbara Hutton Grant's birthday party for young Bill Orr. There's no romantic implication between Barbara and Bill. They're just young friends. One of the sweetest girls at the party was Joy Paige, Ann Warner's daughter. I'm told she's the best thing in "Kismet." I haven't seen the picture. . . . Voldemar Vetlugin beat Clare Booth Luce's political speech by two words. When Greg Ratoff, who loves nothing in the world so much as an argument, asked Vet for whom he was going to vote, he said, "For Dewey."

One Woman's Opinion.

Sam Goldwyn has sent out three questions: 1. "Do you find that your knowledge of movie tricks lessens your enjoyment of pictures?" My answer is "No." Having been in pictures, I'm not conscious of tricks. 2. "Do you believe the average movie fan finds less enjoyment in pictures after learning the methods of illusion?" Yes. 3. "Should Hollywood try to guard its secrets from the general public?" Yes. . . . Sam's signed up John Fulton, who created those trick effects for "The Invisible Man," to work on "The Wonder Man."

Thru the Looking Glass

Perhaps because we want to pack all of Christmas into our overseas gift boxes, there just doesn't seem to be room for the many things we know will bring cheer and the spirit of home to soldiers and sailors in far off places. It's a problem to decide whether to send a few big things or a lot of little ones, but we've found two small items that can be squeezed into any brimming package intended for a woman overseas. And they are gifts with a purpose, not mere space fillers.

One is a cream perfume packed into a tiny, flat lucite container, the size of a silver dollar and about a half-inch thick. It won't take up much room but it packs a lot of glamor which will delight the girls overseas. The perfume is potent enough so that just a touch of it applied to the skin at the elbows or in back of the ears will spread an aura of fragrance to suit any woman. And there are five nice scents to choose from, three floral notes and two blended fragrances. Each one is distinctive and pleasant, not too exotic and too sweet, but just right for everyday use. The creams are in pale pastel tints. Both package and contents represent complete femininity to please a woman engaged in the business of war.

The other gift is a bath sachet—actually soap and cloth in one. It is an oval shaped, pillow affair, filled with granulated soap that has been scented with a rich fragrant oil. The sachet will afford many luxurious baths. The soap is the soothing kind that will leave the skin soft and smooth. It's an excellent gift and a good combination of the practical and frivolous all in one.

QUEEN OF THE EVENING

Wool casts all inhibition to the winds and emerges with a whole new repertoire of tricks. Watch her stroke a gown with brilliant cascades of colour...watch her turn a robe into melting softness—lavished with lace...watch her rise to untold heights in hostess pajamas that are a beautiful blend of unstudied ease and upstage dramatics. Never has she been so dazzling...so daring...so much in tune with the modern Psyche's off-duty hours

BROWNS, CARDS OPEN WORLD SERIES TODAY

Pushes Backs Out of Spotlight.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

In other years, rival National Football league players talked in awed tones of the great Chicago Bear backs. But this season they're gossiping about Bulldog Turner, the 240 pound center and defense tactician of the professional champions.

After the Redskins' 28 to 0 loss to the Bears in Chicago Sunday, Bob Seymour and Joe Aguirre of the eastern eleven talked and talked about the Bulldog's play. It's the same on other teams whose players have felt the weight, speed, and skill of the big man from Texas.

That Was When He Was Small.

Bulldog once ran the 100 yards in 10.8 with full football equipment. That was when he was a little fellow of only 220 pounds. But with his added weight he still can hold his own in sprints with most of the backs.

Turner, now in his fifth pro season, has succeeded to Danny Fortmann's chore of calling the defense to be used. This is an important assignment, since if the wrong defensive setup is ordered, the other team is liable to go all the way for a score. Bulldog is quite a sight as he turns his broad back to the opposition and gives the defensive signals to the linemen before each enemy play.

Clyde Likes to Run.

"Sure, I get a craving to run with the ball," says Bulldog. "For that matter, what lineman doesn't? Until last year I'd made a touchdown every season. I almost got away against the Redskins in Baltimore this year, but I made the mistake of trying to run over Steve Bagarus. He partially stopped me and another Redskin brought me down."

As a T formation center, Turner hands the ball in an automatic, almost detached sort of way to the quarter back. "It's all mechanical," he explains. "I concentrate on the lineman in front of me—look him right in the eye. That's where a center in our system has the advantage. We don't have to keep our head down to make the long snap back."

Meet Cleveland Rams Next.

Carl Brumbaugh, coach of the Bear quarter backs, came back from watching Cleveland tie the Philadelphia Eagles with the report that the Rams have a strong, smart team. The Rams also hold a 30 to 28 league victory over the Card-Pitts and an exhibition triumph over the Boston Yanks.

Today the Bears will welcome an addition to their official family. He's Andrew H. Lotshaw, the Cubs' trainer, who also doubles as the Bears' muscle rubber in collaboration with Jack Goldie who has been performing that important function all by himself since last August. Goldie, who is getting tired, will be the happiest to greet Andrew.

YOUNGSTERS WIN HAWKS' ACCLAIM IN HIBBING DRILL

Hibbing, Minn., Oct. 3 [Special]—Manager Paul Thompson today centered his attention in the Blackhawks' workout to the passing, shooting and all-around forward line work of three youthful rookies—George Beach, 17 year old center from Regina; Gordon Mirtle, 17 year old left wing, and Roy Belbin, 19 year old right wing, both from Saskatoon.

The youngsters showed exceptional speed, and altho the Hawks' pilot refused to comment on the possibility of the trio making up a brand new line for the Hawks, he acquiesced with a nod when Captain Earl Seibert remarked, "Reminds you of the Hawks' old pony express line of Mush March, Ty Arbour and Stew Adams of 15 seasons ago, don't they Paul?"

Al Papike, an amateur defense player, turned in his uniform and departed for his home today. Papike felt that his 165 pounds would keep him from earning a back line position with the Hawks.

Family Reports Landis' Condition Satisfactory

The condition of K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, who is a patient in St. Luke's hospital, is satisfactory, members of his family reported last night. The world series which will open in St. Louis this afternoon will be the first one he has missed since he became commissioner.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 3.—The old chestnut that there is nothing sure in life except death and taxes is strictly phony. . . . You've got to add that St. Louis will win the world series of 1944. . . . Beyond that is wild speculation as to the winner of the competition between the amazing Browns, hitless wonders of modern baseball, and the staggering Cardinals, who coasted to a league championship on the impetus of a great midseason drive. . . . St. Louis skies were overcast today, with showers forecast for some time before morning. . . . However, the outlook is good for tomorrow's opener if you can believe what you read in the papers. . . . There was no precipitation today as the teams went thru what the boys in Strawberry Point, Ia., like to call limbering up drills. . . . If you're the type who dotes on statistics you know that the Cardinals have the edge in every department of play except pitching, and the betting odds tonight indicate that the rank and file bank heavily on figures. . . . But how can you make light of a team that came winging down the stretch to win 11 of its last 13 games, including four straight from the Yankees? . . . The Browns were crowded out of first place six times during the most torrid race the American league has known, but they kept bouncing back to finish on their feet. . . . They owe their success to no particular soft touch. . . . They won the season's series from every other club in the league. . . . Their brilliant sweep against the Yankees last week gave them a 12 to 10 edge on Joe McCarthy's men. . . . Their widest margin was over the White Sox, 14 games to eight.

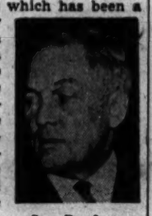
Casey Stengel.

Jimmy Conselman.

Earl Hilligan, director of the American League Service bureau, remarked to a group of friends that the major league story of the year was the climactic finale. . . . "You're wrong," interjected his boss, President Will Harridge. . . . "The story of the year was the conduct of the players in the tightest race the league ever has had. There was less umpire baiting, fewer displays of temper or rowdyism in the 1944 campaign than any other I can recall." . . . The behavior of the American league athletes was especially impressive in view of the character of the race, a pennant scramble so evenly waged that a close decision sometimes meant first or second place in the standings. . . . Jimmy Conzelman, assistant to President Don Barnes of the Browns, is making no prediction on the outcome of the series. . . . He is pleased no end that his team has ended forever the base canard that St. Louis is first in shoes, first in booze, and last in the American league. . . . Dutch Leonard, Washington pitcher who beat Detroit out of a tie for the title Sunday, will be the most welcome player at Sportsman's park next season. . . . Incidentally, Sunday's victory was Leonard's first over the Tigers since 1941. . . . Casey Stengel, 1944 manager of the pennant winning Milwaukee Brewers, and a famed raconteur, appears to be having as much fun as anybody among the preseason gathering of baseball notables. . . . Tho he talks much, Casey isn't telling exactly what he expects to do next year, but he'll be in baseball.

The Baseball Writers' Association of America requested an abandonment of the refreshment and snack bar headquarters which has been a fixture at world series for many years. . . . President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals vetoed the idea weeks ago insofar as his hostship was concerned. . . . As soon as the Browns won the pennant their president, Don Barnes, announced he really was going to make things enjoyable for the downtrodden scriveners while the Browns are the "home" club Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. . . . He has engaged the starlit roof of the Chase hotel. . . . The Chase, by the way, is patronized by more teams than any other hotel in major league cities. . . . Eleven of the 14 clubs which visit St. Louis are quartered there. . . . The Sportsman's park concessionnaire some weeks ago advertised for vendors to sell pop, hot dogs, etc., during the series. . . . Since the ticket shortage became acute he has done no advertising. . . . He'd be mobbed if he did, man power shortage or no. . . . Burt Whitman, acting city editor of the Boston Herald, otherwise sports editor of the Herald these many annums, told his managing editor that local news would have to take care of itself for the next week. . . . He hasn't missed a world series since 1913, he says, and was in no mood to miss this one.

Don Barnes.



Sam Breadon.

The umpires who will work the series—Bill McGowan and George Pipgras of the American league and Ziggy Sears and Tom Dunn of the National—met this morning with Leslie O'Connor, Will Harridge, and Ford Frick, who are running the series in the absence of Commissioner Landis. . . . Pipgras is the only one of the arbiters who has seen world series action as a player. . . . He has a 1.000 per cent record in three series. . . . Pitching for the Yankees, he won one complete game in 1927 against the Pirates, one complete game which he won from the Cardinals in 1928, and in 1932 he beat the Cubs, working eight innings. . . . All of the umpires in this series have handled many games this year in the park where the entire competition will take place, an unusual state of affairs. . . . If you think balls and strikes are all umpires have to watch, read some typical ground rules which apply here: Fair ball sticking in screen above concrete wall, right field [even tho dislodged by spectator or going thru screen]—two bases. . . . Ball hitting foul pole above pavilion in right field [indicated by yellow mark]—home run. . . . If ball hits foul pole on or above mark and drops down on playing field—in play. . . . If ball drops into stand—two bases. . . . Ball hitting foul pole above mark on left field foul line—home run. . . . Hitting foul pole on or below yellow mark on stand, if ball drops in bleachers—home run. . . . If ball goes into stand—two bases. . . . If ball drops on field—in play. . . . If ball hits guy-wire support of foul pole in front of left field bleachers—home run. . . . There are 10 paragraphs as complex as the foregoing or more so, but maybe we have established the point that umpiring a world series game isn't all fun.

THE BARE FACTS.

Midwest	8	5	3
South	6	9	1
East	5	4	1
Totals	23	19	5
Percentage			.548

Ten Years Ago Today—The Detroit Tigers evened the world series at two games each, defeating the Cardinals, 3 to 2, behind Schoolboy Rowe. . . . Fred Perry of England and Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles moved to the semi-final round of the Pacific coast tennis tournament. . . . James J. Callahan, former White Sox manager, died.

ADOLPH KIEFER'S BROTHER LISTED KILLED IN ACTION

Mrs. Louise Woerner, aunt of Lt. Ralph A. Kiefer, 24, former Roosevelt High school star athlete and brother of Ensign Adolph Kiefer, holder of many world swimming records, was notified yesterday by the Red Cross that Lt. Kiefer has been listed as killed in action. A P-38 fighter pilot, he was reported missing in action when his plane was shot down over Germany on Aug. 16.

In addition to Adolph, two other brothers are in service, Flight Officer Edward Kiefer, 22, on duty in England, and Pvt. Otto C. Kiefer, 34, in France. Lt. Kiefer lived at 1410 N. Central av. with his mother, Mrs. Emma L. Kiefer; his aunt, and Emanuel J. Woerner, an uncle. Also surviving is a sister.

PURDUE'S GAME WITH ILLINOIS TOPS SCHEDULE

Overshadows Little Brown Jug Contest.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Purdue's invasion of Illinois Saturday easily takes precedence in Western conference football since Michigan—co-champion of the Big Nine last year with the Boilermakers—and Northwestern have been defeated in their opening conference games. The winner, Purdue or Illinois, will be established as one of the favorites in the 1944 campaign.

In recent seasons the Michigan-Minnesota battle for possession of the Little Brown Jug, which will be at stake for the 35th time Saturday in Minneapolis, has been a piece de resistance for the conference. However, Michigan was beaten, 20 to 0, last week by Indiana and this has dulled the attractiveness of this particular rivalry despite the fact that the Gophers are opening their conference season.

Illini Cash in on Speed.

Ohio State's powerful civilian squad, by virtue of its 54 to 0 victory over Missouri, must be counted a prominent title contender. The Buckeyes, as well as Indiana and Illinois, which also depend on civilians, will have all their players thruout the campaign. Michigan, Northwestern, and Purdue, with navy trainees, anticipate loss of ranking personnel in November.

Illinois is the surprise eleven of the conference. Many believed the Illini would have a good team, if for no other reason than speed. Paul Patterson, Eddie Bray, and Buddy Young have no equals as a group in that respect in the Big Nine.

Greenwood Proves Value.

The Illini, with a 26 to 18 victory over Indiana, and last Saturday's thrilling 26 to 26 tie with Great Lakes, are dangerous from any place on the gridiron because of speed and passing. The expert handling of material by Coach Ray Eliot, the efficient adaptation of the T formation to the ball carriers' speed and the generalship of Don Greenwood at quarter back also are fundamental factors in Illinois' current success.

Greenwood very likely is the most valuable player in Illinois' attack. His smooth ball handling, in which he is required to make longer lateral passes than are used either by the Chicago Bears or Notre Dame, and his selection of plays have given him this ranking. Moreover, Greenwood carries the ball on many plays which customarily would be assigned to the full back for Illinois uses its full back primarily for blocking.

Plan Is to Score Often.

The Illinois line possibly is mediocre but the Illini figure to outscore most opponents despite a defense which has yielded seven touchdowns in the last two games. This brings us to the impending game with Purdue.

Purdue will have a line Saturday which averages 203 pounds. All seven men hold varsity letters, four from Purdue and the others from Baylor, Missouri, and Miami, Fla.

Purdue has an experienced back field. In brief, the Boilermakers have power and weight to keep possession of the ball on more than 50 per cent of all scrimmage plays. If they do so, they are in position to counter Illini speed and passing.

FOUR REJOIN ILLINI SQUAD.

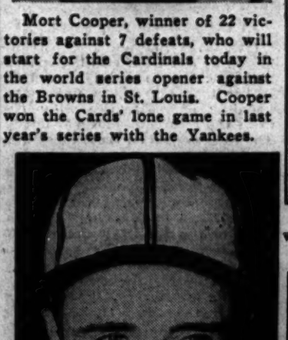
Champaign, Ill., Oct. 3 (AP).—The University of Illinois' football stock rose today when four linemen who have been out with injuries took part in scrimmage as Coach Ray Eliot prepared his squad for Saturday's game with Purdue. They were George Bujan, veteran center; Larry Forst, a guard and letter winner last year, and Art and Bob Demeter, guards.

Eagles Sign Canale, Big Tackle, and Novak, End

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 3 (AP).—The Philadelphia Eagles, professional football team, announced today the signing of Rocco Canale, 245 pound tackle who played with the Eagles last season, and Walter Novak, former Villanova college end.

CAST AND BATTLEGROUND IN BASEBALL SHOW

Mort Cooper, winner of 22 victories against 7 defeats, who will start for the Cardinals today in the world series opener against the Browns in St. Louis. Cooper won the Cards' lone game in last year's series with the Yankees.



Denny Galehouse, who became the Browns' man of the hour last night when Manager Luke Sewell, in a surprise move, named him to face the National league pennant winners. Galehouse, 32, won 9 and lost 10 this season.

NAME NED DAY'S OPPONENTS IN 5 GAME MATCHES

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Prof. Ned Day, who will open THE TRIBUNE'S free bowling school one week from tomorrow afternoon at the Bryn Mawr recreation, 2015 E. 71st st., is not going to confine his activities to teaching. Following the afternoon instructional sessions at various tenpin establishments thruout the city, the champion will meet several outstanding local bowlers in special five game matches in the evening hours following regular league bowling.

First Match on Oct. 12.

Yesterday Day's manager, Mort Luby, announced that several of these settos against the man who will defend his national individual match game championship in the fourth annual All-Star tournament from Dec. 2 thru 10 already have been arranged. In the first two of these Ned will face members of the famed Meister Brau team, winners of the Classic, Windy City, Chicago, and Victory titles.

On Oct. 12 at Bryn Mawr, Day will pair with Bud Wright of the Meisters against two of Bud's teammates, Paul Krumske and Joe Sinke. Krumske was runner-up to Ned in the 1943 All-Star tourney, sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America in the Auditorium Service Men's center.

Two Bowlium Candidates.

Day and Wright will join again at Bryn Mawr on Oct. 13, when they will meet the remaining members of the Meister Brau quintet, Bill Hargadon and Harry Lippe. Harold Weber, manager of the Bowlium, Sheridan rd. and Montrose av., who is arranging matches for Day's visit there lists Dan Gullickson and Oscar Peterson as leading candidates for the assignment.

Vern Anderson, the mystery man of bowling who won several important special matches before a long illness, is now making a comeback. Dominick De Vito, operator of the Park Manor recreation, 100 E. 75th st., has nominated Anderson as Day's opponent when the latter visits Park Manor on Oct. 24. Bill Goldammer's Twentieth Century will send Catherine Fellmeth, versatile instructress, and Herb Freitag to the line when Day holds his classes there on Oct. 16.

Americans Lead Series, 25-15

The American league leads the National league, 25 to 15, in the 40 world series which have been played since 1903. The first world series winners were the Boston Red Sox, who whipped Pittsburgh, five games to three. This is the eighth world series for the Cards, who have won four and lost three.

In 1904, New York won the National league pennant and Boston was the American league champion. The New York club refused to meet Boston for the world championship. Likewise, the Chicago National league team that Fall would not play the Chicago Americans, a practice since continued at various times, including 1944. Results of past world series follows:

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 3.—Manager Luke Sewell of the Browns upset the world series dopesters this afternoon by announcing that his 32 year old right hander, Denny Galehouse, will pitch for his courageous crew of oddly recruited baseball talent in the opener of the series against the Cardinals tomorrow afternoon.

When Luke made the announcement, memories went back to Connie Mack's historic selection of Howard Ehmke to pitch the opener of the Philadelphia Athletics-Chicago Cubs series in 1929. The main difference was that Mack kept his secret until almost game time. The similarity was found in the fact that Galehouse is the eligible possessed of the lowest victory record among the extensive Browns' pitching staff.

Denny Has Ups and Downs.

Galehouse won nine and lost 10 in the regular season and did not accomplish his first victory until, as a reliever, he was credited with a decision over the Yankees on July 20. The Browns won the pennant with a drive in which they won 11 of their last 13 games. Galehouse was charged with the two defeats, being marked as the loser in a 6 to 0, 11 inning defeat at the hands of the Washington Senators and a 4 to 1 reversal in the rain soaked season final with the Boston Red Sox. On the other hand, it was Denny who beat the Yankees, 2 to 0, last Saturday to put the Browns in a tie with the Detroit Tigers.

The Browns' series starter has pitched in all or parts of 11 seasons in the majors, five of which were spent with the Cleveland Indians and two with the Boston Red Sox. He came to the Browns in December, 1940, with Fritz Ostermueller, for a reported $30,000. He had won six, and lost six for the Red Sox in 1940. Denny's first year with the Browns, 1941, was exactly the same as this year—nine and 10. In 1942 he won 12 and lost 12 and last year he again was a .500 performer with 11 and 11.

Cooper Wins 22 in '44.

The pitching selection of Manager Billy Southworth of the Cardinals afforded no such surprise as the naming of Galehouse. He's Morton Cooper, winner of 22 and loser of only seven in 1944, who has won 103 while losing 50, something of a contrast of Galehouse's all-time record with the Browns of 41 won and 43 lost. Cooper is a veteran of four world series games. He was winner of one, loser of two, and escaped a charge in the other. He has pitched 29 innings in world series competition.

Tho St. Louis is openly the national capital of sports betting, there were no reports of extensive wagering on the series. James J. Carroll, the big time commissioner of St. Louis has quoted 1 to 2 on the Cardinals and 5 to 2 on the Browns.

The Brownie fans continued timid, tho plenty enthusiastic over their heroes. Those who ventured a belief that the Browns could win were pointing to the fact the Browns had a full head of steam in the closing weeks of the season.

Cards Took It Easy.

The Cardinals slouched thru September. During the first half of last month they had a span of 15 defeats in 20 games, including the dropping of nine straight to the second place Pittsburgh Pirates. After winning their first 14 over the Chicago Cubs, for instance, the National league champions dropped six of their last eight with Charley Grimm's proteges.

But Manager Southworth is on record as believing his boys will be roaring when they take the field tomorrow afternoon. And he points to the fact that the great Stan Musial, his .347 slugger and speedster; Whitey Kurowski, his 20-homer socker, and Danny Litwhiler, another home run and long hit specialist, all absent during the Cardinals slumpful moments, will be in the opener.

WILDCATS LEARN THEIR BLOCKING MUST IMPROVE

N. U. Faces Great Lakes Eleven Saturday.

A long session on blocking was ordered for the Northwestern university football team yesterday after Coach Lynn Waldorf and his aids had viewed movies of the Wisconsin game. The pictures revealed that poor blocking caused at least two Wildcat marches to bog down.

Setting up a defense for Great Lakes poses a difficult problem for the Wildcats. The Bluejackets are well grounded in the T formation with which they have scored 27 and 26 points respectively against Purdue and Illinois this year. The Wildcats have good reason to fear Jim Mello, the hard hitting full back, who caused them so much trouble when he was playing for Notre Dame last fall.

With the return of Red Clawson and Jack Doyle to the quarter back position after being sidelined three weeks with injuries, Waldorf yesterday shifted Bill Brophy to full back and Jim Powers, husky freshman, to tackle. Both had performed at quarter during the absence of injured signal callers.

BAHLOW LEADS BADGERS.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 3 [Special].—Ed Bahlow, Springfield, Ill., right end on the University of Wisconsin football team, will be acting captain Saturday when the Badgers play Marquette here, Coach Harry Stuhldreher announced today.

The Badgers' back field was reinforced today when Bob Daugherty, 210-pound full back for Oregon state in 1941 and '42, joined the squad. Daugherty is a V-6 student in the navy here.

MARQUETTE SHIFTS PLAYS.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 3 [Special].—Changes in several of Marquette university's running and passing plays were effected during a light scrimmage today as the Hilltoppers began to warm up in their preparations for Saturday's game with Wisconsin.

IOWA LOSES MORK.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 3 [Special].—The University of Iowa football team suffered another blow today when it was announced by Coach Slip Madigan that Bob Mork, second string end, will not be able to stay with the squad because of scholastic pressure. Mork is a naval trainee in the university dental school. Earlier this week loss of Bob Liddy, varsity guard; Forrest Masterson, center; Harry Frey, tackle, and Bill Barbour, end, was revealed.

ARMY CALLS OHIO END.

Columbus, O., Oct. 3 [Special].—The Ohio State football team lost a regular and gained a first string replacement today thru the action of selective service boards. Cecil Souders, regular right end, received orders to report for induction Oct. 12. He will play against Iowa here Saturday. After that he probably will be replaced by Traian Dendiu, a freshman from Campbell, O.

Ohio's gain was Bob Dove, Ashland, O., freshman, one of the best punters and passers on the squad. He has been classified 4-F.

GOPHERS CHECK PASSES.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 3 [Special].—Coach George Hauser is convinced that something must be done about Minnesota's passing attack before the Michigan game here Saturday. The Gophers have not completed a forward pass in two games, and they have yielded 12 of the 39 passes the opposition has thrown. So passing was emphasized, both offensively and defensively, in today's workout.

WOODS AND DEER TO BOX MONDAY AT MARIGOLD

Sgt. Lou Woods, Detroit welterweight, who meets Ray [Sugar] Robinson in a 10 round bout in the Chicago Stadium Oct. 27, yesterday was signed to face Arnold Deer of Indianapolis in an eight round warmup encounter in Marigold Gardens next Monday. Johnny Bratton, 1944 Chicagoland Golden Gloves lightweight finalist, is paired with Gene Spencer of South Chicago in an eight round secondary feature. . . . An amateur boxing show will be held tonight in Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison st., under the auspices of the 28th Ward Republican club.

Vikings, Necaxa to Meet in Soccer Finals Sunday

The Vikings will meet Necaxa in the finals of the National Soccer league's Class A cup competition Sunday at 3 p. m. in Winnemac park stadium, Foster av. and Leavitt st. Both teams gained the finals in games last Sunday, Necaxa winning over Sparta and the Vikings eliminating the Schwabens.

Tulane Works to Checkmate Irish Passes

New Orleans, La., Oct. 3 [Special].—Second and third string Tulane backs impersonated Notre Dame's Bob Kelly, Joe Gasparella, and Frank Dancewicz this afternoon as the Green Wave went thru a defensive scrimmage in preparation for the game with the Irish at Notre Dame, Ind., Saturday afternoon.

Coach Claude [Little Monk] Simons admitted that perfecting a defense against Notre Dame's passing was the most important task facing the coaching staff this week.

IRISH STUDY FOE'S PLAYS.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 3 [Special].—A study of Tulane plays and an hour's scrimmage occupied the Notre Dame football squad this afternoon. Half Backs Bob Kelly, Chick Maggioli, and George Terlep, all of whom are nursing minor leg injuries, were excused from the drill.

Nuzio Marino, navy V-12 trainee from Windber, Pa., who filled Kelly's position today, starred in the scrimmage, making several long runs, two of them for touchdowns. Johnny Ray, who won back his varsity center job yesterday, was outstanding on defense.

CANADIENS TURN DOWN LEAFS' BID FOR BIBEAULT

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 3 (AP).—An official of the champion Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey league said tonight the Toronto Maple Leafs had made a big cash offer for Goalie Paul Bibeault, but that the Canadiens had rejected the offer because they want players, not cash. However, negotiations are continuing, the official added.

Bibeault, property of the Canadiens, played with the Leafs last season.

STARCRESS TOPS FIELD OF 8 TODAY AT HAWTHORNE

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

The unpredictable Starcress, Happy Hour farm's 5 year old daughter of Gallant Sir which has scored 9 victories in 19 starts this season, tops a field of eight marathon stars in Hawthorne's feature race today, a mile and a three quarter event for a $2,500 purse.

The last time Starcress went to the post she refused to run, finishing last in a field of seven at Washington Park. Steve Brooks was in the saddle but he couldn't get her anywhere near the rest of the field and she came in 25 lengths in back of the winning Sentinel. The mare had been established a 2 to 1 favorite.

Assigned 126 Pounds.

Today Starcress has been assigned 126 pounds by Racing Secretary Larry Bogenschultz, 15 pounds more than Isaroma, Mrs. M. Yates' 9 year old gelding, which was second to Sentinel and had previously beaten Starcress a neck in a two and one quarter mile affair at Washington Park.

Others in the field are Double Brab, Redrock Canyon, Fee D'Or, Miss Transit, Miss Rink, and Flying Hostess.

Daily Double Pays $89.20.

Mrs. T. M. Pruett's Conscript, ridden by Art Carr, won the opener at $10.60. Conino and Borbas' Hop Picker took the second under the handling of Apprentice Billy Nichols and returned $9 for a $2 ticket. The daily double on these races was worth $89.20.

Nostalgia, with Willie Morrisey up, took the third and paid $10.20. J. W. Martin booted in Fetchings Bar at $7 in the fourth. The fifth went to the Indian Rocks stables' Cross Bayou, which was coupled with Darien in the betting. Cross Bayou, ridden by Nichols, paid $9.20.

In the sixth race, the featured spot on the card, Hyman Friedberg's Bolo's Choice gave Nichols his third winner as he scored by a length and a half over Diderod in a field of six at a mile and a sixteenth. Bolo's Choice paid $7.20.

2-DAY DOG SHOW LISTS ENTRIES FROM 24 STATES

Twenty four states and Canada will be represented in the Western Specialty Clubs' Association's 34th annual dog show in the Chicago arena Saturday and Sunday, a survey of the 1,012 entries in 23 breeds revealed yesterday.

The states are Illinois, Alabama, Missouri, Michigan, Kentucky, Oklahoma, New Jersey, Nebraska, Texas, California, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Georgia, Washington, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Massachusetts, Indiana, Iowa, Ohio, Virginia, Minnesota, Colorado, and New York.

YOUNG TRIO HELD IN CHASE FATAL TO DETECTIVE

Admit Burglary Attempt That Led to Shooting.

Capt. George Homer of Austin police yesterday announced the arrest of three teen-age burglars as an aftermath of the fatal shooting early yesterday of Detective Ellwood Egan, 39, by Policeman Rudolph Frana, both of the Austin station, during an investigation of an attempted burglary.

Egan, 4851 Augusta blvd., and his companion, Detective John Rich, were driving south when they saw Policemen Frana and Albert Timm turning into an alley at the rear of 350 Avers av. Without the policemen's knowledge, the two detectives went to assist them, Capt. Homer explained.

Open Fire on Pair.

The detectives sighted two persons running from the garage and opened fire. Frana, thinking he and Timm were being fired upon, returned three shots in the direction of the gun flashes, Homer explained. One of the bullets struck Egan in the groin. He was taken to St. Anne's hospital, where he died.

Yesterday morning Detective Burt Devine, who had been assigned to the case, went to the home of John R. Przbyiski, 18, at 455 Harding av., and questioned him in regard to the attempted burglary of a garage owned by Geno Ricco, 552 Avers av. A wooden panel in the garage, was found broken.

Przbyiski admitted his guilt after being confronted with confessions of Michael Cutish, 16, of 422 Harding av., and Nichola Golish, 14, of 516 Avers av.

Two Have Records.

Both Przbyiski and Cutish have juvenile crime records, Homer said.

The two juveniles were taken to the Juvenile home, Homer said, while Przbyiski remained at the station, where he is scheduled to be booked today.

Meanwhile, an inquest into the death of Egan was continued until Oct. 13 at the request of Capt. Homer, until ballistic experts could complete tests of the guns used by the policemen in the shooting.

Services for Egan will be held from the chapel at 4138 Madison st. at 9:15 a. m. tomorrow to Our Lady Help of Christians church.

PROSECUTION ENDS CASE IN RANCH SLAYING

Salinas, Cal., Oct. 3 (AP).—The prosecution ended its presentation of evidence today in the murder trial of Mrs. Frances Andrews for the death of 19 year old Jay Lovett, and the defense immediately moved that considerable testimony be stricken from the record.

Superior Judge H. G. Jorgensen excused the jury to hear attorneys' arguments.

The state charges Mrs. Andrews, 37, member of the Carmel Valley society colony, with murdering the neighboring ranch boy in a fit of jealousy and anger. The defense contention has been that he ended his own life during a period of moodiness.

Dr. Frederick Proescher, San Jose, Cal., pathologist, today testified that he found tiny flakes of burned and unburned powder on sections of the scalp around the bullet hole in Jay's head, but said the shot that killed young Lovett was not fired in close contact with his head. Making experiments with a pistol similar to that found near Jay's body, he found such flakes appeared when the weapon was fired 20 inches from its objective.

Defense Atty. Leo Friedman today turned over to Dist. Atty. Anthony Brazil a letter he said he received yesterday, postmarked in San Francisco and signed with the one word "June." It purported to "confess" that a friend of "June," designated as "Jack," was the actual slayer of young Lovett.

Several crank letters have been received by the court and principals since the trial opened two weeks ago.

U. of C. Student Found Dead; Rejected by Army

John Nichols, 18, a student at the University of Chicago, was found dead yesterday in the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Grace E. Nichols, 119 Home av., Oak Park, with whom he lived. His body was slumped over the kitchen table, and gas was pouring from all burners of the gas stove. Mrs. Nichols, who is employed in a loop department store, told Oak Park police that her grandson recently was rejected for military service because of weak eyes.

Book Publisher Enjoined on Getting Reno Divorce

Mrs. Lillian Buck, 37, of 5000 Marine dr., obtained an injunction yesterday from Judge Michael Feinberg in Circuit court restraining her estranged husband, Gordon, 40, a book publisher, from attempting to divorce her in Reno, Nev., where she said he has moved. Mrs. Buck was granted separate maintenance and $300 monthly support on June 21, 1943, on her charge of cruelty.

INSURANCE COLLECTOR ROBBED.

Judson Mitchell, 4705 St. Lawrence av., collector for a life insurance company, was robbed of $91 yesterday by three Negroes in front of 420 E. 35th st., he reported to police.

Make This Test for Chronic Constipation

Thousands of men and women suffer needlessly from this miserable condition, says a widely-known nutritionist. For prompt relief, he advises a simple test with pleasant-tasting Swiss Kriss—not a pill, not a tea, not an oil, but a flavorful blend of crushed herbs which helps to overcome loginess, bloat and irritability caused by sluggish elimination. Try Swiss Kriss tonight. First dose must convince or your money back. Swiss Kriss is for sale at Walgreen, Liggett and all good drug and health food stores.

MOTHER OF TWO LEARNS HUSBAND IS 1937 FUGITIVE

Clayton Love, 34, of 2143 Van Buren st. became a painter after he escaped from the Sandusky [O.] reformatory honor farm in 1937 after serving less than a year of a one to 15 year sentence for burglary.

He came to Chicago six years ago and met and married a girl whom he did not tell about his past. They have two children, one 3 years old and the other 18 months; and Mrs. Love, who is 24, is expecting another.

Love told his wife he thought he could support his family better if he entered business for himself. He decided to open a pawn shop and applied for a license. The police require a routine finger print examination of all applicants for pawn shop licenses. Love did not know this. Sgt. George Tucker of the pawn shop detail said yesterday that Love's finger prints had exposed him to police as a fugitive. He is also wanted on an old felony warrant in Los Angeles. Love was held at the detective bureau, awaiting word whether Ohio or California cared to extradite him.

GEN. KIRK LAUDS ARMY HOSPITAL UNIT FROM N. U.

High praise for the work of Northwestern university's hospital unit, known as General Hospital 12, is contained in a letter received yesterday by President Franklyn B. Snyder of the university from Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, surgeon general of the army, who has just returned from his second overseas inspection trip.

The unit, staffed by 57 members of the university's medical school faculty, was organized within a month after the attack on Pearl Harbor, and saw service in both the North African and Italian campaigns. Its surgical and medical divisions are headed by two Chicago men, Dr. Michael Mason and Dr. M. Herbert Barker.

SEE MARGARINE SCARCITY SEQUEL IN BUTTER CRISIS

Diminishing supplies of butter have increased middle west demands for margarine in the last few weeks to the extent that an oleo scarcity before Nov. 1 was predicted here yesterday by margarine makers. Oleo producers operate on quotas, they said, and manufacture only as much as their individual allotments of oil permit.

One maker said his business had increased 50 per cent because of the butter shortage. The margarine men attributed their business increase to lower butter stocks.

FARMERS' RUSH FOR MACHINES HITS WMC SNAG

Rationing Over, with Output Unchanged.

Farmers who hurried to their machinery dealers when they read that the rationing of farm equipment had been lifted last week were disappointed to discover they still couldn't buy the tractor, combine, or hay rake they wanted. They soon learned that the end of farm machinery rationing merely was a gesture and that conditions had not changed.

The problem of rationing farm equipment has been transferred from the government to the manufacturer, dealers asserted yesterday. Supply still is below demand for many important items and probably will continue so because federal allocations for production in 1945 have not been stepped up, they explained.

Important Machines Rationed.

Previous to the end of rationing, many farm machines were not on the restricted list. At the end of rationing only 19 items were being rationed by the war food administration. These included the important fall harvesting machines such as corn pickers [which still are being rationed], combines, corn binders and pickers, manure spreaders, mowers, side delivery rakes, tractors, and others.

The main reason for the continuing lack of machines is the inability of the war man power commission and the war production board to coordinate their actions, manufacturers asserted.

Man Power Lacking.

The WPB has given farm equipment producers a top priority rating for materials. The WMC, on the other hand, has scaled down the producers on their labor priority and most midwestern manufacturers are losing men steadily to plants making war materials. Thus, while the farm equipment plants are able to get material, they do not have enough man power to keep up their production, they said.

In the spring, the farmers may be able to get most of the spring tillage equipment they need, but most of these already are fairly easy to locate.

ARTHUR S. KAHN SUED BY WIFE TO BLOCK DIVORCE

Mrs. Sallie R. Kahn, 45, of the Shoreland hotel, 5454 South Shore dr., who gave her name to the Sally Dress shop chain, was granted an injunction by Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court yesterday restraining her husband, Arthur S. Kahn, 50, from seeking a divorce outside the jurisdiction of Cook county. Mrs. Kahn, representated by Atty. Benjamin B. Davis, asked for a decree of separate maintenance on a charge that Kahn deserted her Monday. He asked her for a divorce, she stated, and left their apartment when she refused. They were married Nov. 24, 1927, and have two adopted children, Arthur Jr., 18, and Betty, 15. They sold the dress shop chain on April 1 for a reported price of more than a million dollars.

Red Flag Flies at U. of C.; Student Prank Is Blamed

The red flag of the soviet union, with hammer and sickle, waved 90 feet high from a campus flagpole at the University of Chicago yesterday morning until 8:30 a. m., when campus guards removed it with difficulty. The halyard had been cut and tied high up on the pole. A sign in front of President Hutchins' residence read: "2, 3, and 4 room apartments for rent. Inquire within." Student pranksters were blamed for both the flag and the sign.

Briton Fined $200 for Quitting Job in Iran

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 3.—For quitting his job with the Anglo-Iranian Oil company in Persia [Iran] without government permission, Robert Hamer, 36, was fined today $200 by a Liverpool court. The prosecuting attorney said Hamer had filed an application to return to England after his contract had expired but was refused permission. Hamer said he was suffering from an internal complaint, which necessitated proper medical treatment.

SUGGEST CURB ON CONVERSION IN NORTH, EAST

British Prepare

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 3.—More than 80 British companies have been permitted to make preparations for peace time production, Capt. Charles Waterhouse, parliamentary secretary to the board of trade, told the house of commons today. He said applications had been received by the board from about 160 manufacturers in a dozen different industries since July 18. "Rather more than half" already had been granted, and few will be rejected, he said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3.—A temporary ban against converting government owned war plants in Illinois and 10 other industrial states of the north and east to peace time production was recommended by a senate committee today. Plants in other states would proceed without delay on such conversions as war conditions permitted.

Despite the "blanket" recommendation, committee attaches said plants in the 11 states would be considered individually because conversion of some might be advantageous to the nation as a whole.

[New England state and industrial leaders last night denounced the proposed plant freeze as "sectionalism gone mad," and said they would fight the program in every possible way.]

Hearings Are Scheduled.

To further its object to help the south and west maintain war time gains in industrialization and stabilize the present industrial population, the committee scheduled hearings Nov. 16, 17, and 18 in San Francisco, Cal. It then will decide whether to urge immediate legislation to carry out its recommendations.

"With the additional plants and facilities they have acquired during the war, should we permit these plants and facilities to be used for peace time production, these 11 states can destroy the industry in the rest of the country and reduce the west and the south to misery," the report said.

The other states for which the ban was proposed are New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Maryland, Delaware, Rhode Island, Ohio, and Michigan. It was urged by the special committee investigating the centralization of heavy industry, headed by Sen. McCarran [D., Nev.].

The committee reported that the 11 states produced 65 per cent of the nation's manufactured goods in 1939 and received 51 per cent of the plants and facilities established during the war, representing an investment of 7 billion dollars of public funds.

Gives Head Start to Others.

The report placed no time limit on the ban, but it was understood the committee hoped other sections of the country will have an opportunity to stabilize employment before the plants in the 11 states are sold to private business or operated by the government after the war.

One recommendation was that a large part of the building of ships and aircraft, and as much other war production as possible be shifted to the south and west as soon as the European war ends. Post-war encouragement of western and southern industries thru the adjustment of freight rates, attention to patents, and technological aid to small industrialists also was urged.

Asserting that prosperity after the war will be dependent upon spreading industry thru all the country, the committee asserted that stabilization of work in all the states was essential to prevent forcing millions of workers in the west and south into a nomadic existence.

South, West Got "Lemons."

The committee said the 11 states for which the ban is asked were given the cream of the war contracts and plants most easily converted to civilian production. The west and south got "lemons," in McCarran's terminology, which are ill suited to peace time.

The committee charged a movement was afoot to make the United States the world's largest exporter of manufactured goods at the cost of importing in return raw materials which could be produced in this country. Eastern monopolies want to import oil, minerals, and timber, the committee asserted, altho these are major products of the west and south.

F. D. R. Signs Reconversion, Surplus Bills

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP).—President Roosevelt accepted today the congressionally designed machinery for getting the nation back from a war to a peace time basis, but declared it would not run satisfactorily without further tinkering.

He announced at a news conference that he had signed with reluctance the surplus war property disposal bill and had also signed the bill to establish an office of war mobilization and reconversion.

Holds Reconversion Bill Inadequate.

Both measures, sharply varying from administration recommendations, were enacted by congress just before it took a recess until after the national election.

The one creating the office of war mobilization and reconversion was "quite satisfactory" so far as it went, Mr. Roosevelt said in a statement, but it did not "adequately deal with the human side of reconversion."

He observed that the bill as finally enacted failed to provide for transportation of migratory war workers back home or to places of new employment, failed to provide unemployment compensation for federal employes, and failed to establish nation-wide minimum standards for unemployment benefits.

The measure leaves unemployment compensation to the states.

Further Legislation Possible.

Mr. Roosevelt said he was glad to know that the house ways and means committee planned further study of these matters.

As for the surplus war property disposal bill, the President said, "There is danger that the confused methods of disposition and the elaborate restrictions imposed by the bill will in many instances delay rather than expedite reconversion and reemployment."

The measure creates a three member board to direct disposal of surplus property. Mr. Roosevelt was not ready to say who would be appointed to the board. The administration had favored one man control of surplus property disposal.

Under the surplus property bill the board may not sell any aluminum, magnesium, synthetic rubber, chemical, gasoline, or iron and steel plants, or oil pipelines costing $5,000,000 or more without 30 days' notice to congress. Such facilities may, however, be leased for up to five years.

Veterans to Get Preference.

In disposing of properties suitable for business, professional, or agricultural enterprises, the board is directed to give preferences to veterans of the present war. The Smaller War Plants corporation is given power to purchase surplus property for resale to small business and to make and guarantee loans in connection with its acquisition.

The reconversion bill signed by the President carries a specific mandate for the demobilization of the army and navy when men are no longer needed by the services.

Printing Firm Purchases Land Adjoining Its Plant

Magill-Weinsheimer company, printer, occupying all of a ten and three story building at 1322 S. Wabash av., yesterday bought the 50 by 110 foot parcel adjoining it on the south for post-war expansion.

People and Events

Walter M. Heymann.

Walter M. Heymann, vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago, has been elected a director of the Federated Department Stores, Inc., the company announced yesterday. Heymann is a director of the Hub, Henry C. Lytton & Sons, and of the Chicago Better Business bureau.

J. Howard Souther was appointed a division manager for Majestic Radio and Television corporation, E. A. Tracey, president, announced. Souther formerly was district manager for Zenith Radio corporation.

The Junior Traffic Club of Chicago will hold a benefit dinner tomorrow in the Palmer House. Proceeds will be used to send Christmas gifts to members in military service.

The group supervisors division of the Chicago Association of Life Underwriters will meet Monday in the La Salle hotel.

Walter Sormane has been appointed general sales manager of Conco Engineering Works, Mendota, Ill., R. W. Conkey, vice president of the company, announced. Sormane formerly was sales manager for Schwitzer-Cummins company, Indianapolis, Ind.

H. J. Stentiford, general merchandise manager of the home furnishings division of the Chicago Mail Order company, announced the appointment of George W. Clause as assistant merchandise manager in charge of housewares, table appliances, bedding, stoves, and floor coverings.

OLIVER FARM, TRACTOR MERGER WINS APPROVAL

Acquisition by Oliver Farm Equipment company of Cleveland Tractor company and financial proposals in connection with the purchase, together with a change in the name of the farm equipment company to Oliver corporation were approved yesterday at a special stockholders' meeting.

Shareholders of Cleveland Tractor met in Cleveland and approved the merger agreement under which Oliver will acquire the assets and going business of Cleveland Tractor and assume dissolution expenses and, with some exceptions, liabilities.

Oliver shareholders authorized doubling the present 800,000 shares of authorized common stock, issuance of 125,000 shares of $100 par convertible preferred stock, and a split of the present Oliver common which will provide two shares of new common for each share of present common.

Consider Plan for Protecting Small Investor

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 3 (AP).—A new national securities committee grew out of a conference today at the securities and exchange commission attended by more than 50 representatives of investment banking, brokerage, stock exchange, and securities protective organizations.

The new group was recommended by a temporary committee appointed at the conclusion of the morning session to suggest ways and means of protecting small investors from possible loss of savings thru fraudulent schemes.

Representation Listed.

The committee is to include a representative of the National Association of Securities Dealers, Investment Bankers association, National Association of Securities Traders, National Association of Securities Commissioners, securities and exchange commission, New York Stock exchange, New York Curb exchange, National Better Business Bureaus, and the regional stock exchanges.

A five man temporary committee indorsed the suggestion that "cooperative steps be taken to warn and protect holders of war bonds and others against loss of their savings in the post-war period thru fraud."

A letter or pamphlet for holders of series E war bonds signed by the United States treasury, the securities and exchange commission, the Association of State Securities Commissioners, and the national organizations which represent dealers and brokers was proposed.

Constructive Publicity Urgent.

In recommending the formation of a national committee, the temporary group said publicity should be "not merely cautionary in a negative sense, but also a constructive presentation of the trustworthiness and integrity of the thousands of American businessmen and public officials covered by the signatures to the pamphlet."

Kenneth L. Smith, president of the Chicago Stock exchange, asked his colleagues to guard against shutting off the flow of capital to legitimate industry after the war in their zeal to protect investors from fraud. "We are going to have to devise a formula to direct the flow of investments into the right channels," he said.

PULLMAN SUES DPC FOR BREACH OF PLANT PACT

Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company yesterday filed suit in federal court for $500,000 damages against the Defense Plants corporation. The suit alleges that DPC contracted to take over Pullman-Standard buildings in Hammond, Ind., for a new extruded aluminum castings plant on Sept. 17, 1943, and retained possession of the properties until March 6, 1944, altering and razing buildings and making other changes.

It is alleged the contract provided for return of the property to its original condition in the event the purchase was not culminated, but that the plant, which was to have been operated by Phelps-Dodge corporation of New York, was abandoned when aluminum plant capacity was found to be sufficient for war needs.

NO IMMEDIATE BUSINESS PLAN, ASSERT FISHERS

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 3 (AP).—The automotive Fisher Brothers in a statement today said they had no immediate plans for establishment of a manufacturing business.

Recent filing of articles of incorporation for "The Fisher Brothers, Inc.," and "Fisher Motor Car company," the statement said, "means only that we seek to protect our rights to manufacture under our own name."

Loose-Wiles Declares Larger Extra Dividend

LAST CONTROLS ON MAGNESIUM USE ARE ENDED

Dow Predicts Rise in Its Popularity.

New York, Oct. 3 [Special].—Lifting of all government controls on the use of magnesium was announced by a war production board official today at the recently formed Magnesium association's first annual meeting which heard other speakers predict expanded uses for magnesium after the war.

George C. Heikes, director of the WPB's aluminum and magnesium division, told the magnesium producers and fabricators that no restrictions remain on use of the light metal for end products, including any type of civilian goods.

The WPB action came as a happy conclusion to the efforts of Dr. Willard H. Dow, president of the Dow Chemical company, to free the magnesium industry from WPB control. In an open letter sent last August to former WPB Chairman Nelson, Dow charged that the relaxed controls announced last July by that war agency were deceptive and left the industry under virtually the same restrictions as before.

Fabricators Eager to Continue.

Dow had told the meeting just before Heikes' announcement that removal of all controls on magnesium would enable the industry "to go on our own and to discover for ourselves whether we have what it takes to build a great, new industry."

Dow also announced results of an industry survey undertaken by the Dow company, in which all except a few of the 116 magnesium fabricators queried said they intended to stay in the magnesium business after the war.

"Those who said they were going to stick were anxious to start developing civilian markets at once and nearly all had the excess capacity and the man power for the developing work," he said.

Plants Not Worth Cost.

He warned that the transition from government ownership to private ownership will not be a simple one, because Defense Plant corporation producing units were all "put up in a rush," and few are worth what they cost. Even if they were, their purchase would require more capital than the industry can command, he added.

Discussing the metal's future, he said: "If we raise our sights a bit, we shall see less of the difficulties and more of the opportunities. Magnesium is the natural and I believe the inevitable material of construction for anything that has to be moved."

Wider Use Predicted.

Magnesium wheels are standard on nearly all types of aircraft, and experiments indicate that it is only a question of time before magnesium wheels will be standard on most autos, he said.

R. P. Lansing, vice president of Bendix Aviation corporation, predicted widespread use of magnesium to reduce dead weight in post-war commercial and consumer products. Faster machines and easier handled household appliances will result, he asserted.

The major problem of fabricating magnesium has been solved, he said, and the industry is able to offer a full range of magnesium products to meet those uses for which its properties of light weight and strength best fit it.

Expect Decision in Pork Fat Trial Tomorrow

The decision in the trial of the four largest meat packers is expected when arguments are concluded before Federal District Judge Barnes tomorrow. The OPA is seeking to enjoin Swift & Co., Armour & Co., Wilson & Co., and the Cudahy Packing company from alleged sale of pork butts and loins with fat in excess of the half inch permitted.

Base Economy on Abundance or Peace Is Lost—Johnston

The United States will not have won the war unless victory brings an economy of abundance, security against future wars, and coöperation between labor, agriculture, management, and government, Eric A. Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, last night told the annual convention of the Controlers Institute of America in the Stevens hotel.

Johnston said the United States must accomplish these goals because thruout the world "the tide will be running strong to state control," and this country must prove that the "state belongs to man and man thru freedom and incentive will create maximum employment."

Urges Economy of Abundance.

"We must broaden our horizons and achieve an economy of abundance rather than accept one of scarcity, such as we had before Pearl Harbor," he said. "We want after the war much higher levels of production, employment, and wages than we had before.

"By increased foreign trade, thru higher levels of consumption at home, thru improvements in housing, health and enjoyment, we must achieve and maintain levels of production which would have been considered fantastic in pre-war years."

To prevent world conflicts which would sap the strength of each new generation, Johnston said the United States must coöperate with other nations and "assume the responsibilities which our might imposes upon us." He warned, however, that America "must never be caught again" in poor defensive condition.

Terms Labor-Capital Tie Stronger.

Johnston condemned as nonsense the statement no deep and fundamental differences of opinion exist between labor, agriculture, management, and government, but added that the bonds which join them and make them one are a thousandfold stronger than the differences which divide them.

"In the America that follows peace, all elements of our economy must strive to work and coöperate together," he said and after expressing confidence the United States would win both its military and economic war, he urged Americans to suppress "defeatism and the philosophies of maturity and satiety."

Discord Held Peril to Peace Output Plans

Coöperation of management, labor, and government in attaining a war production record "at which the world marveled" demonstrates the ability of the three to work together and is "a happier augury than we have previously seen for solution of post-war problems," James A. McLain, president of the American Life convention, said yesterday in opening the organization's annual meeting in the Edgewater Beach hotel. He warned, however, that the degree of coöperation was faltering.

"Administratively the government appears again to be swinging toward the left, and the voice of some groups in our economy once again is heard in a refrain of 'we first,'" said McLain, who also is president of Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, New York City.

Congress Attitude Cheering.

"These discordant elements may be short lived. This is to be hoped, and good cheer does stem from the legislative halls wherein advocates of states' rights now seem determined to stop the growth of federal burocracy; to participate in the joint responsibility of good government, good management, and good labor; and to solve coöperatively the post-war problems of contract termination, reconversion, full employment, and disposition of surplus goods and of government owned plants and equipment."

He asserted that government, labor, and management had these post-war responsibilities:

1. Government—To administer its affairs as economically as possible, adopting a tax program which encourages investment, efficient business operations, and employment of venture capital; to encourage individual enterprise and effort, and group coöperation; to protect equally the rights and the interests of management, agriculture, labor, and all other groups.

Must Provide Jobs.

2. Management—To maintain production in such volume as to keep gainfully employed every worker to whom it is responsible, create jobs for some 9 million more persons than were employed before the war, and keep the national income at least 30 billion dollars higher than in 1940.

3. Labor—To recognize that only as industry prospers can employes fully achieve their objectives—to obtain maximum personal and material satisfaction from their efforts; to appreciate that workers can price themselves out of a job, and must produce more to have more of the good things of life.

RIPS U.S. DELAY AS CREATOR OF MORE JOBLESS

Fails to Plan, Auto Spokesman Says.

Failure of the government to authorize preparations for partial reconversion, suggested by the automobile industry beginning a year ago, already has lengthened the period of unemployment that will set in if the war in Europe ends before December, George Romney told the Controlers' Institute of America yesterday in the Stevens hotel.

Romney is managing director of the Automotive Council for War Production, representing leading car manufacturers and formed to coöperate in expediting war production.

The government could have authorized preparatory reconversion work months ago without hindering war output, he asserted, because of overproduction of raw materials and war order cutbacks.

"Completely Kicked Around."

He explained that three periods precede even limited volume automobile output—preparatory engineering, design, and tool construction; the transition period of clearing out war machinery and setting up production lines, and starting to increase assemblies from a few a day.

"The part of this schedule which has been completely kicked around and neglected by theoretical and political planners is the first, the pre-conversion work without which there can be no 'Go-Day' for automobiles," said Romney.

"The only way I know that will prevent a further lengthening of the reconversion unemployment period is immediate issuance of a directive exempting planning and preparatory reconversion work from all existing rules and regulations

NEWS SERVICES' NEED OF RADIO STATED TO FCC

Foreign Rivalry Must Be Met, Agency Is Told.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 3 (AP).—A. Warren Norton, president of Press Wireless, told the federal communications commission today that American news services must be assured an adequate medium for the international transmission of news dispatches if they are to compete successfully with foreign competitors after the war.

He said radio transmission has provided such service during the war—948,449 press messages constituting 119,046,978 words were carried in 1943 alone—and took issue with the interdepartmental radio advisory committee which, he said, implied that a substantial amount of the traffic which was handled by radio before the war must be turned over to the cables when the war is ended.

Terms Radio More Elastic.

Testifying at an FCC hearing on post-war radio frequency policies, Norton said radio provided cheaper and more elastic service than cables, was not subject to "the dominance in international communications previously enjoyed by England" thru the control of cables, and could provide service simultaneously to many destinations in one transmission. He said this last feature "permitted the smallest of newspapers in Latin America to receive a report identical with the largest newspaper in the great metropolitan centers, at a cost within its means."

"Radio can do everything that the cables can do, and much more cheaply," he added. "It can render vast public benefits and meet public needs which cannot be rendered or met by the cables. To predicate any allocation of frequencies on contrary assumptions, or on the academic hypothesis that cables can or will be laid adequate to make any appreciable difference in the problem, would be a tragic error. I cannot believe that other countries, such as England and Russia, will forego the use of radio for communications on any such hypothesis."

Press Freedom Imperative.

Norton said another radio advisory committee "implication which disturbs us" is "what seems to be an assumption that there will be an international merger of trans-oceanic communications and that such a merger will reduce the frequency space needed for these services." Such a decision, he said, would be up to congress, and added, "It will never approve an international merger, at least of the compulsory type.

"It is imperative that the press be free from censorship and close government supervision, and from the technical and economic control over press communications that would inevitably be lodged in a small group; from the efficiency, the delays, the lack of public service mindedness, the inertia and the failures to pioneer new services that have already been evidenced by the mergers with which we have had experience, and from the injustice in saddling the public with rates based on heavy plant investments in outmoded cables. Arguments based on that bugaboo, the British merger, are utterly fallacious."

Donald K. de Neuf, Press Wireless director of communications, said his company, now licensed to use 26 frequencies, had requested 92 for post-war use.

AMERICAN CAN.

Conditions in the metal container industry are more favorable this year than last because of larger tin plate supplies. Output of plate in the first six months, totaling 1,217,000 tons, was up 12 per cent.

The use of cans for 22 "general line" products previously on the prohibited list is now permitted by the WPB. Included are lubricating oils, turpentine, varnishes, shellac, and anti-freeze. Production of cans for beer for the military services has been resumed. Record food packs are predicted.

American Can issues no interim earnings statements, but another large can company reported a moderate gain in profit in the 12 months ended June 30. About half of American's business normally is understood to be in general line cans on which profit margins are larger than on food containers. Two subsidiaries operate government armament plants on a cost plus basis. The company has an expanding fiber container business.

Common share earnings in recent years were: 1943, $4.22, including tax refund equal to 79 cents a share; 1942, $4.03; 1941, $6.45; 1940, $5.88; 1939, $6.22; 1938, $4.35; 1937, $6.08. Common dividends paid or declared this year total $3 a share, the same as paid in 1943 and comparing with $3.50 in 1942. From 1930 thru 1941 the rate was $4 a year.

"Surely it is more important to reduce unemployment by permitting such work now than to increase our stockpiles of nonurgent war products or to increase our production of essential civilian goods. Under such a program even those government officials who put policing before production would retain their present enforcement powers."

Other speakers called for clarification of the veteran reëmployment statutes, preservation of the existing social security system, and adoption of an intelligent and courageous fiscal policy after the war.

Discussing differences of opinion on interpretation of the compulsory reëmployment requirements of the selective service act, Walter J. Couper of Industrial Relations Counselors, Inc., New York said:

Asks What Those Words Mean.

"The official view that veterans must be reinstated, even if that necessitates the displacement of nonveterans of greater seniority may be criticized as being too absolute an interpretation of the law, and as tending to complicate post-war industrial relations problems, which inevitably will be very difficult. Any uncertainty about such a vital matter should be resolved by clarifying amendments to the law."

A similar recommendation was made by Hallan Huffman, general attorney for Great Northern Railway company, who said:

"For instance, what is a position 'other than a temporary one'? What is meant by 'still qualified to perform the duties of such position'? What constitutes a change in the 'employer's circumstances' so that it is 'impossible or unreasonable' for him to restore an employe to a position?"

OUTPUT OF PORK TAKES BIG DROP THRUOUT NATION

Packers in the Chicago area this week will produce less pork than last week's low tonnage because of light marketing of hogs, but operations in many other packing centers are even more curtailed, a survey indicated yesterday. Nineteen of the biggest outside markets received 22 per cent fewer hogs Monday and Tuesday than a week earlier and 19 per cent fewer than a year ago.

Hog receipts in the Chicago stock yards in the two days were 29,100, compared with 30,011 last week, 21,556 a year ago, and 36,581 two years ago. Volume a year ago was abnormally low as a result of a farm protest at the establishment of a price ceiling on hogs.

Buyers bid actively for the scant hog supply available yesterday, paying ceiling prices for nearly all stock offered. The average was unchanged at $14.55 per 100 pounds, equal to the peak since last October.

Cattle were steady to 25 cents higher. Lambs rose 10 cents to a 10 day peak.

STOCKS DECLINE AS PROFIT SALES CHECK LEADERS

New York, Oct. 3 (AP).—The stock market declined slightly today when many leaders stumbled over profit cashing on the upswing of the last week or more.

Dealings were lively at the start, with issues quoted under $10 contributing the greater part of the activity. Steels enjoyed a brief flurry after midday, but quickly retreated and ended with narrow advances. Transfers of 746,390 shares compared with 815,940 yesterday.

RAIL BONDS LOWER.

New York, Oct. 3 (AP).—Rail loans were lower today in a thin bond market. The Associated Press averages for utilities, low yields, and foreign bonds were unchanged, but the rails were 0.1 lower and the industrials a like amount higher. Sales of $5,413,900 compared with $6,493,000 yesterday.

CHICAGO SHARES HIGHER.

Price gains predominated in increased turnover of 28,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Active issues included Commonwealth Edison, up ⅛; Chicago corporation, unchanged, and Middle West corporation and General Electric, each down ⅛.

DIP PREDICTED IN CARLOADINGS OF 4TH QUARTER

A slight increase in freight car loadings in 1944's last quarter above actual loadings a year earlier was predicted yesterday by the Association of American Railroads on the basis of estimates compiled by the 13 shippers' advisory boards.

Indicated freight car loadings of 28 principal commodities was 9,531,701, compared with 9,442,744 actual cars a year earlier, an increase of 0.9 per cent. The largest increases were forecast for agricultural implements, fresh fruits, manufactures, and miscellaneous. The largest decreases were expected in cement, potatoes, and petroleum.

WHEAT FUTURE SETS TOP SINCE MAY 11 AT $1.65

December wheat closed at $1.65 a bushel yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade, up ⅝ cent from Monday and at a new high since May 11 as the result of persistent buying attributed to milling and cash grain interests. The deferred deliveries were irregular with May ½ cent higher and the more distant months ¼ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower. Corn futures gained ⅛ to ⅜ cent; oats, ⅜ to ⅝ cent; rye, ½ to 1⅛ cents, and barley, ⅛ to ⅞ cent.

As a result of the substantial premiums being paid for the winter seeded varieties of wheat the latter moved near the ceiling price. Bids equal to $1.69½ a bushel were received by country elevators for No. 2 red winter, only ⅛ cent below the permissible maximum.

Government support measures are responsible for the strength in the wheat market, brokers said, and the cash wheat is keeping pace with the upturn in futures. The December delivery has risen 18 cents in less than a month and cash wheat is about full farm parity.

INDUSTRY AID FOR MEDICAL STUDY URGED

Large industrial concerns must assume the responsibilities of providing graduate work in industrial medicine for men now serving in the army and navy, Dr. Frederick W. Slobe, president of the American Association of Industrial Physicians and Surgeons, said yesterday.

Speaking before officials of several industrial medical and hygiene groups meeting in the Drake hotel, Dr. Slobe said that industrial medicine offers a large field to men now in uniform, but he warned that if private industry wishes to avoid government intervention in the field they must provide their own graduate fellowships.

Officials of the industrial physicians groups, and the American Industrial Hygiene association, the American Association of Industrial Nurses and the National Conference of Governmental Hygienists are meeting to make plans for a joint conference in Chicago next April.

Waukegan Gas Dealer Suspended for 60 Days

Arthur Stonelake, filling station operator at 911 Glen Flora av., Waukegan, was suspended from dealing in gasoline for 60 days yesterday by John R. Allen, office of price administration hearing commissioner, on charges that he failed to account for five 100 gallon inventory coupons he turned in which the OPA said were counterfeit.
